Helium To Be Used In Airliner Tires

Pneumatic tires on a forthcoming giant airlines will be fill-ed with 26 pounds of helium inwould normally be required fo the job, says Business Week. The net weight (not pressure) crease the available payload of the Helium, being an inert gas that has no known chemical affinity for natural or synthetic rubber, ahould provide an extra dividend in a long tire life.

Electric Fences Control Live Stock

Live stock as a rule need little training to keep away from electric fences. Observations at the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, Sask., show that the animals learn very quickly and do not approach a fence even when it is not charged. At Swift Current, a 13-1-late wet battery was used on an electric fence that was used throughout the summer months last year for pasturing cattle. The cattle were well controlled, no harm was done to the cattle or the attendant and the battery was still charged at the end of the season.

The use of electric fences is gradually becoming more widely adopted for pastures. These fences have many advantages but care is necessary in establishing the equipment. Among the advantages are reduction of cost in erecting tem-porary fences, reduction of expenditure for wire, posts, and gates, ture for wire, posts, and gates, reduction of injury to live stock.

As a rule, one or two wires are sufficient to carry the electric cur-rent. One wire is sufficient for horses and cattle. Two wires are considered preferable for pigs and sheep. The wire can be supported by porcelain insulators on 2 in. by 2 in. stakes set in the ground 30 to 40 feet apart.

The world's largest airplane-a flying boat-of such size that it could only be exhibited in sections, has had its first preview and left he previewers astounded. The plane is being built at the

Howard Hughes plant, Culver City. Calif., and has been named the Hercules. Here are some statistics nnounced by the company: Cost: In excess of $20,000,000 Weight: 425,000 pounds. Wingspread: 320 feet. Hull: 220 feet long, 30 feet high,

Engines: Eight in all, each of 3,000 horsepower capacity
Gasoline capacity: 14,000 gallons. The Hercules, begun in 1943, will not be ready for flight tests before next January. There are no plans or luplicating the monster ship. The Hercules will be able to carry a 60-ton tank with full complement of armor and men. Or, it can carry three light tanks and equipment. It can become a mobile

Members of the crew of the German cruiser Leipzig didn't salute when the barge of British Admiral Baillie-Grohman passed in Kiel Harbor. So next day, Admiral Baillie-Grehman, sent to escort the captured warship to England, ordered the German captain to assemble the crew on deck, sailed his barge past and was paid the proper honors as pictured above. It was a disciplinary measure, designed to bring home to the sulking crew a realization of their defeat.
