ON THE FARM FRONT

 If you require seed grain it might be a good plan to arrange for your supply now. It is not anticipated that any very great surplus will be available and it is quite possible that some lines may be short. The early bird gets the worm. In this case the wise farmer will get his seed early.

Do you intend to grow any corn this year? This column has repeatedly pointed out the advantage of the crop. It is not recommended that anyone necessarily plant a large acreage but like most other farm work it is gradually. One Halimand farmer, speaking at a meeting recently, stated that an acre of corn as he could produce on thirty acres of oats. Such a statement is worth considering.

If you ever get out of the snowdrifts you can call on me for your alcohol. Hugh Montgomery, 50 Jarvis and three hundred home defence troops destined for overseas service are absent without leave in Canada. They failed to return from Christmas and New Year's leave from camps in various parts of the Dominion. These men will be classified as deserters when they have been at large a total of twenty-one days. There was no indication in the Defence Minister's statement as to what day the twenty-one day count for desertion would be made. He did say however that up to last Saturday there were no men in the deserter classification.

THE WEEK IN OTTAWA

Can You Picture CANADA without Industries?

Today, Canada's 27,862 manufacturing plants, with 1,152,091 employees, are practically all turning out products far removed from their usual lines—building the tools of war for both the battle front and the home front.

We, of Greyhound, take pride in the industrial achievements of our fellow Canadians. And we are proud to be able to serve them—transporting manpower to factories and farms—keeping essential wartime travel on the move—making near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities on our routes in Canada.
