THE FUTURE

MUCH IS BEING SAID these days about post-war planning and many municipalities are aggressively going ahead with plans to build their communities into progressive and prosperous communities. Governments are also showing some concern regarding the future development of smaller communities and foresee the prospect of absorbing future surplus manpower in projects which will ultimately provide for the social betterment of the great body of people residing in the smaller communities. What plans should be made for Jarvis? That is a question that is deserving of the thought of every citizen. Unquestionably the Village will remain static until such time as we have a waterworks system and a waterworks system without a corresponding sewage disposal system could be likened to a new car without tires. While the citizens of the Village turned down a proposal to install a waterworks system about twelve years ago there is no reason to believe that a similar verdict would be given to the same proposal now. But at the same time the cost of the undertaking at the present time would be far greater than it would have been in the early 1930's. The matter of cost is now a pertinent factor for consideration. However we believe plans for a waterworks system should be considered now, the many debatable angles thought over, and all citizens reach a decision on this matter, which will influence the future of the Village more than anything else in the years ahead.

ACCIDENTS

THE SYMPATHY of the community goes out this week to the bereaved parents and family of Harvey Fleming, who lost his life as a result of a mishap. Every day the news reveals similar cases of accidental deaths resulting from various causes, all of which brings heartaches and sadness to the homes of the victims. Each case provides a lesson in the necessity of exercising every precaution against the possibilities of such occurrences. It is not only the dead boy who has been a victim but also the boy who held the gun. Nothing will erase from his memory the tragedy which he was implicated in; his soul will be tortured with the constant picture of one of his most intimate friends being struck down before him. Only sympathetic understanding and time will allow him to see the future clearly.

BACK IN THE GROOVE

THE RECORD is reading our contemporary The Delhi News-Record with renewed interest these days. The reason being that our old friend J. K. Horn (until recently L. E. K. Horn) is now a member of the news staff of that paper and is contributing a weekly column that anybody a thousand miles away could read and look forward to the next issue with enthusiasm. Probably our interest is accentuated by the fact that Jack is a Jarvis boy and got his first smell of printer's ink in the Record Office. We recall his initiation into the mysteries of printing in the back shop which early indicated he would have to be a Methuselah to ever become adept at that art. He quickly redeemed himself by the quality of the stuff he turned out by the one finger precision method on the underwood. His earliest efforts in news reporting, and feature writing, indicated a future in that field, which he continually developed until he enlisted with the Canadian Army in this war. Recently discharged he is again back in newspaper work and we are happy to say — back in the groove.

VACATION LAND

CANADA'S ATTRACTIONS are being pointed up with the return of people in Europe and pre-war figures regarding the tourist trade give some idea of its great potentialities for the future. Reports published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show the estimated income derived from tourist trade to have steadily increased from $173,002,000 in 1924 to $204,771,000 in 1939. This increase was maintained, despite the economic depression of the 30's, until the onset of war reduced tourists to a mere trickle. In 1939 it was estimated that tourists coming in from ocean ports spent $12,413,000 in this country. United States tourists coming by automobile were estimated to have spent $108,607,000; by rail or boat $72,751,000 and by airplane and other means of travel $21,000,000. United States tourists, but there are many indications that the Dominion will lure British and European visitors with the development of fast air transportation.

British tourists are likely to pass up the war-ravaged Continent in favor of the Dominion that gave the Mother Country so much aid during the war. Glowing reports from fellow Britons, who as war guests or servicemen experienced Canadian hospitality and enjoyed the climate and scenery may well effect a change in the accustomed vacation plans of British families.

Giant air-liners spanning the Atlantic will make the Dominion only a few hours distant from Europe and the prospect of lowered passenger rates in the post-war competitive period could mean the addition of thousands to Canada's vacation guests.

CAN'T GET HEALTH OUT OF A BOTTLE

By Lewis Milligan
"YOU CAN'T GET HEALTH out of a bottle," says the heading of an advertisement widely published in the press by the Labor Socialist Government of New Zealand. This is not a counter-blast to patent medicine advertisements; it is an attempt to discourage New Zealanders from making too free use of "free medicine" and free doctor's services provided under the Government's social security scheme. The result of this provision has been an enormous increase in the consumption of drugs in New Zealand—the increase is said to be at least 30 per cent. The Director-General of Health for New Zealand has stated that for every seven shillings and sixpence paid out for medical benefits, six shillings are paid for drugs, and that the average cost of prescriptions has risen from two shillings and tenpence to four shillings. "These and other facts about the operations of the free medical services in New Zealand were presented in a report by the General Secretary of the Federal Council of Australia, Dr. J. G. Hunter, who recently visited New Zealand in order to secure first-hand information regarding the medical practice in that country. Dr. Hunter says that the service given is that of a general practitioner; that no limit is placed on the number of patients he may have on his list, and the fees are fifteen shillings per annum. This form of service is not popular with the doctors. Forty practitioners are at present engaged in it, and they have 84,497 patients on their lists, an average of 2,119 for each doctor. A few doctors have large lists, and one is said to have a list of 10,000 persons, mostly Maoris. Dr. Hunter says that the "fee-for-service" operates under three systems: (1) Refund—whereby the doctor charges his ordinary fee and the patient is reimbursed by the Government to the extent of a schedule of rates. (2) Fee-for-service proper—the doctor accepts payment directly from the Social Security Fund. (3) Token system—the doctor looks to the Fund for part payment of his account and to the patient for the remainder. (This system is regarded as illegal). Dr. Hunter says: "There is a sharp difference of opinion among medical practitioners in New Zealand as to which of the two systems, the refund and the fee-for-service system, they prefer: opinion is almost evenly divided". There is a salary basis for special areas, and the Minister has power to declare any area a "special area"; he can introduce a salaried service into any area. "Finally," says Dr. Hunter, "New Zealand's scheme of 'free medicine' and its striking results must be mentioned. Prescribing is not limited to a formulary; and with certain exceptions a practitioner may order, without cost to the patient, any drugs, medicines or medical preparations". The result has been an enormous increase in the consumption of drugs. Dr. Hunter, in his comment on this state of affairs, says the doctors and the druggists are "not entirely blameless", and he quotes the following words but does not state their origin: "To give or repeat a prescription is the easiest way of getting rid of a patient". Commenting on this result, Dr. Hunter says it is "not without its amusing side", and he quotes the Government advertisement, "You can't get health out of a bottle". The advertisement, he says, lays stress on "the basis of healthful living: adequate diet, personal hygiene, physical activity and mental health".

THE KITCHEN is the centre of family activity in Canadian homes and low-cost homes, although 95% of them have living rooms, Canadian families not only cook in the kitchen but most of them eat there and many wash, launder and take baths in the kitchen. Some of them even sleep there.

"If the Canadian housewife is to have her work load eased, kitchens need overhauling," said C. A. Massey, president of Lever Brothers Limited, in announcing results of the second section of a housing survey conducted by the firm. "Industry has arranged to save the housewife by the use of modern, ready-to-use kitchen — the workshop of the home — many extra steps and much carrying and lifting could be eliminated".

Researchers visited several thousand homes throughout Canada and interviewed householders in one of the most intensive studies of household working conditions ever undertaken.

The difficulties of doing housework, hampered at every turn by lack of proper equipment, especially in farm homes, are pictured vividly in the following findings.

About one farmhouse in every six (18%) has no sink. The shortage is half that total in small towns and villages. And one-tenth of farm sinks are in some room other than the kitchen. Almost one-third of them have no drains, and 38% have no taps. That means water has to be filtered into the sink by bucket or

Pen, Scissors and Paste-pot

The newspaper says a huge Canadian Freedom March will be held at Wallaceburg yesterday to unload 2,200,000 pounds of sugar from Montreal for the Canadian people. The march is being organized by the Wallaceburg branch of the C.F.M. Since 1902 Wallaceburg has been regarded as the sugar refining center of Canada and this is the first time we have heard of "carrying coils" to Newcastles in Canada. It shows the great possibilities under a system of planning.

A week ago Charlie Parsons tried to get to Jarvis with a basket of new home grown potatoes in each hand. Before he arrived in town he discovered there are other means of being popular than by possessing an arm full of home grown potatoes. He was told to get out of town as soon as possible.

The young man gets a lead off it's chest in a letter to the Editor this week. His good stuff and good looks have the same enthusiasm for promoting public undertakings ten years hence.

The Chief of Police at Burlington approves the sentence meted out by Magistrate Langdon, in sentencing two boys to one week in jail for swearing. "Swearing by young boys should be stopped and there is no other adequate method of dealing with it," said the Chief. It might stop out-landish kids, but the breath-kind will no doubt get quite a boost as a result of the English ones we are issued with.

It's great to live among those folks who respond as the people of Ontario have to the call for six million dollars to build an up-to-date hospital to be the best possible care for crippled children. It brings to mind the front page of Bill Fry's Dunville Chronicle—"For the cause that lacks assistance—Gainst stop-out-kindness—For the future in the distance—For the good that we can do." The support, I believe, that everything is quiet our thoughts turn to home.

I have just received the carton of 300 of those hundred Buckingham cigarettes. Thanks a million. The cigarettes will be a real treat from the English ones we are issued with. I have been of Canadian cigarettes for a long time. I trust every one of them is well and fine and hope to see you all soon. Best of luck.
