But with fruits and vegetables later on. There is only one thing I don't like about the plant. It is so cold! still we do hope that, whichever party leads the government, the public and the opposing parties And I hate being shut up in the locker room. I have tried leaving will give it credit for honest conions. No party is altogether the door ajar. But that doesn't work because someone always shuts the door behind me — warm air makes the pipes get frosted. And I don't like handling the frozen packages in my hunt for what I want. The other day I was looking for Thomested I was the state of the s bad any more than any one party ratic country the majority rules, so, if we should be on the losing side the least we can do is to hold our fire for awhile and at least give the other fellow a chance to show looking for T-bone steak. I knew there was some there but after what he can do. turning the parcels over and over my hands got so numb I finally picked up a parcel at random and

We have really got our garden planted at last-on June 8 to be exact-and if moisture is a good omen then we should have a wonderful garden. At any rate there should be plenty of peas—we sowed three pounds of seed. You see I hope to put some away in cold storage—in a new frigid locker plant that has been opened up in our nearby are we not? our nearby town. Quite uptodate Really, these modern locker can happen at a frigid locker plant.

The locker room is constructed with a heavy door at either end with a light switch outside. Patrons are supposed to switch off the light on their way out. The other day two women were busy getting weat from their separate boxes. The first woman out, forgetting the other was left in, switched off the light. Imagine it -shut in a huge room at some thing below freezing and in the dark! My friend did the only possibe thing-felt her way carefully but hesitatingly along the cold, flat locker surfaces until she came to one of the heavy doors and thus out to safety, light and warmth. Maybe it doesn't sound very serious but I wouldn't want the experience. "Don't fence me in" is my theme song any time I visit

Food That Needy May Have More

Life has been exceedingly toug five years of war, says the Minne apolis Star Journal. It will be tougher as regards both food and cause of continuing shortages. There would be more to eat and more to wear for the British if they curtailed the war effort against Ja-pan or shut their eyes to the misery of the liberated peoples of Europe. The British will do neither.

With commendable altruism the British are making plans to get along without further clothing and other relief from the United States berated peoples may receive the fullest possible measure of American assistance.

The British War Relief, which tributed $50,000,000 to needy Britons, will terminate its activities October 1. By British request funds raised in the national war funds campaign next Autumn will be uti-lized for sufferers on the continent while the United Kingdom will care for its own needy without
