THESE PREACHERS—

WE SOMETIMES THINK a preacher one of the most misunderstood creatures of humanity. We must admit to a varying degree of notions in this regard at different stages o development. Sometimes the view is that they are too narrow—that they fail to be sufficiently broadminded to be effective-that they are too staid-and more particularly that they fail to practise what they preach. There may be truth in some of the concep tions which fail to make the minister as popular as he should be. Buoyant youth, for example needs a minister that can laugh and play and do things sufficiently well as to merit what might be known as hero worship. The middle aged groups likewise want their minister to be vibrant, yet who will become serious according to the mood of his parishioners in this particular age group-always to recognize some justificafor their sins and never to upbraid them. The elder group want their minister to be demure. Some in this group even admire a sad faced preacher who exemplifies all the characteristics of the old fashioned teachings.

When you think of it a minister has a pretty tough job to be popular with the diversified groups it is his job to administer to spiritually. In fact he can never hope to aspire to that sphere of attainment until his parishioners love Almighty God above themselves. When that time comes we imagine ministers will be among the most popular people of the land. v v v v

During the past four years Jarvis has been the temporary home of a great many whose permanent homes range from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. They have long since ceased to be regarded as strangers in our midst, and now with their departure it is like losing lifelong friends. They have proved themselves excellent citizens, despite the circumstances of unmintary axiom that it is the foot-soldier who wins the battles still holds good. But the unexpected relative lack of enemy resistance to some of the spectacular advances made by the Allies last week must be credited to a great degree to the efficacy of Allied aerial operations certainty which followed them day by day.

They have been a part of our School, Church, and Municipal Life, and their presence here has made that life brighter.

THE RED CROSS-

ALTHOUGH the Canadian Red Cross is a vast organization for the relief of suffering humanity, it is only as big as the women in the cities, towns and communities make it. For the Red Cross is organized neighborliness - what a woman would do for the people next door if they

The announced payment in school grants will be in addition to $25,000,000 required in the government's policy of assuming 50 per cent of the overall estate. Increased appropriations for all government departments were indicated with the money to come from current ordinary revenue.

A balanced budget will be the future objective instead of trying for large surpluses, Mr. Frost said. The estimated surplus for the next fiscal year is only $69,328. The provin-

ST. PATRICK'S DAY-

SURE and it's the day of the year when all the world is Irish. Colleens who never saw Collooney and spalpeens who never saw Spiddal saunter around wearin' the green and for twenty-four hours

everybody and his brother tastes the joy of besaint is celebrated in staid fashion with only a nip of what passes for poteen to mark the day

When the Dominion was young St. Patrick's Day parades in Upper Canada frequently meant trouble when hostile factions rioted and heads were broken-to say nothing of windows and of the snakes traditionally driven out of the Old Country by St. Pat himself, but it was notable that Irish fists from the green South flew with as much abandon as fists from the Orange North when the battlecry sounded.

The celebration of 1878 in Toronto was probably the wildest of these landmarks in the nistory of the Irish in Canada. Irish-Canadian authorities called off a scheduled church parade to avoid any outbreak of violence, but the following night a full-blown riot flared at scattered downtown points. One youth was shot in the shoulder and hundreds of windows were shattered by stones.

Fortunately those days are past and the good saint's day will be more likely celebrated this year with a dance at the nearest parish hall. The only bruised shins in evidence will be those suffered by the younger generation in the throes of a jitterbug jig. And faith, 'tis more likely it will be the blather of the saxophone than the trill of Ireland's golden harp which will send the
