RETURN TO FAMILIAR EARTH—

JUST AT THIS TIME an interesting experience is being shared by thousands of Canadians. Men who for years have thought of machinery — and worked with it — in terms of jeeps and bren-carriers and tanks, are readjusting themselves to the tractor seat and the ways of disc harrows. Eyes that looked along the rifle barrel will soon be sighting quizzically down garden-rows; and hands long concerned with the care and feeding of machine-guns will be holding the reins of horses, or closed around plow-handles smooth with the contacts of many years.

In Italy and Normandy and Holland and Belgium, Canadians from the fruitlands and farming country of both coasts, the mixed farms of central Canada and the grain-growing west; must have looked occasionally with some critical interest at the agricultural practices of other men. But there was little time. And the core of their interest was in something else — in living from day to day, in finishing the job of war and getting back to their familiar pursuits.

Now, for the most part, those who survived the battle for the right to till the earth as free men, and to make possible for others at least the opportunity to develop that freedom, are back at the old task. They are regarded as adventurers by sons and brothers, men who have gone forth in the world, crossed oceans and carried arms in a present-day crusade.

And so they are.

But for themselves at this moment the important thing must be the fact that they are back, after varying periods in regions so different from home that they must have seemed at times like parts of another world.

As the years pass other matters will grow in their minds; the many considerations of life and work in normal times, in depression, in prosperity. Some will find their interest increasing in the influence of the individual and the community on relations between peoples as represented by nations, the relations that determine war and peace. Others in the stress of individual problems may see their interest in the larger scene decline.

However it may be, the all-absorbing thing in their minds today is the return to familiar earth.

LIQUOR—

"EVERYBODY TALKS about the weather but no one seems to do anything about it." The same applies to the liquor question so far as the average person is concerned.

Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell cannot be accused of not doing anything about it, but if the reports in the newspapers are any criterion there are a lot of people who wish he hadn't done anything about it. It is amazing how swiftly opinions can be formed on matters pertaining to the liquor question. The drys are against it no matter what is suggested. The wets are willing to take a try at it and are not much concerned whether it is good or bad, just so long as it is not too bad.

Our opinion, which we confess is not definitely formulated, so far as the new legislation is concerned, is that it gives the right of the majority to have what they want. It also, as Mr. Blackwell suggested it would, removes some hypocracy relating to the liquor question. There are some other points added to the law which will restrict some of the practices not now controlled.

But the whole thing depends upon enforcement. We contended at one time that Beverage rooms, if properly conducted, would not be retrogressive in the effort to achieve some measure of temperance. Unfortunately, there has not been the enforcement anticipated and as a consequence beverage rooms have become a circus insofar as it relates to the clowning aspect of that entertainment.

The majority of people drink and it will take a long time to alter that habit. Any measure designed to prohibit them from that right will do nothing to bring about temperance. The same majority, however, would support any move to enforce tolerance in drinking habits. A slight fine usually pays a drunk's debt to society and society usually smiles at an inebriate. All of which does nothing to deter him when the urge strikes him again. Drunkeness is a disgrace and when it becomes truly regarded as such by society, and when the penalty for such action marks it as such most of our problems in connection with alcohol will be eliminated.

REJUVENATION—

NOW THAT WE HAVE had nearly completed a new face lifting job on our own premises we can renew with vigor our plea to other business establishments to get in tune with the current spring weather and put a new front on Main Street.

It is surprising what a new coat of paint will do to change appearances and we suppose that is the principle behind the practice of members of the feminine sex who put on a fresh job every day. We have often marvelled at the various shades of lipstick developed but after looking over the interior of our front office we experience a similar feeling of perplexity. But no doubt we will get used to it as we have to the lipstick, except when it gets smeared on our white shirts away from home.

Our new paint job while particularly refreshing to the staff (both of us) is going to work certain hardships on Rusty. Up until now he never had to worry about washing his hands before going into the front sanctum. Now the slightest trace of printers ink, which abounds in the back shop, will be distinctly out-of-bounds with the pastel hues adorning the walls out front. We never did use the front office very much, except for going in and out of, and now either one of us feel we can quite develop that air of femininity which would be in keeping with the new atmosphere. It looks as though a stenographer is the only solution.

PATRIOTISM—

IGOR GOUZENKO, former cipher clerk in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa, gave testimony to the worth of democracy in Canada a couple of weeks ago which private enterprise enthusiasts readily proclaim. We have waited in vain to hear the charge, by disciples of communism, that the startling revelations given by Gouzenko were inspired by gold contributed to the little Russian by some wicked capitalist. Surely it was thought of.

Thomas Richard Henry, the quiescent columnist of the Toronto Evening Telegram, suggests that we would think very highly of a Canadian who would go to Russia and condemn our system of Government, and that seems about the hardest slap given to Gouzenko in any of the rightist literature that floods this sanctum.

Maybe the reason we agree so thoroughly with everything Mr. Gouzenko has had to say so far in connection with the Espionage enquiry is, that his words support the natural deductions one arrives at through enjoying free speech and a free press. Mr. Gouzenko said: "the most important and valuable thing in Democratic life is the right of free speech. In Canada I was witness of this. During the two years here, I saw that every person, everybody in Canada, can speak what he likes and can criticize the Government. Such a thing in Russia is impossible."

Asked what would happen in Russia if one exercised the right of free speech, he replied: "If you were very noticeable and were critical of Soviet Life, you would soon be in Siberia and I am sure you would be shot."

This comparison is not new to us but it has never been told before by a student of the Moscow school of Communism. Many have encountered Russians who came to this Country in the years following the Revolution, who held the same view of the present system in their homeland. But be that as it may we are willing to let the Russians live by their own system if they are willing to let us go on enjoying life in a land that offers just about everything anyone may desire.

CHURCHILL ON FRIENDSHIP—

"WE DO NOT SEEK to pit one race against the other in the hope of profiting from the quarrel. We hope to build upon the reconciliation and not upon the rivalry of races. We hope that it may be our fortune so to dispose of affairs that these two valiant, strong races may dwell together side by side in peace and unity." - Winston Churchill, British House of Commons, April 5, 1906.

The subject then was: "The Conciliation of South Africa." Read now a paragraph from his recent address in New York, March 15, 1946 - almost forty years later.

"I have never asked for an Anglo-American military alliance or a treaty. I asked for something different and in a sense I asked for something more. I asked for fraternal association, free voluntary fraternal association. I have no doubt that it will come to pass, as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow. But you do not need a treaty to express the natural affinities and friendships which arise in a fraternal association. On the other hand it would be wrong that the fact should be concealed or ignored. Nothing can prevent our nations drawing ever closer to one another and nothing can obscure the fact that in their harmonious companionship lies the main hope of a world instrument for maintaining peace on earth, goodwill to all men."

The setting of the two speeches was different, the theme was the same, Churchill still works - for peace and conciliation.

WE TOO HAVE THESE DAYS—

"THE TROUBLE with writing a column that deals more or less with ideas is that frequently the ideas refuse to jell. What seems like a very promising young idea sometimes ages so quickly that it is dead before you have been able to write the first paragraph. Conversely, and very curiously, sometimes what appears at the outset to be a notion likely to expire at the slightest exposure to the public gaze, fattens itself like the proverbial snowball on a hill. This, however, is not one of those happy occasions. This is one of the times when the snow refuses to pack.

LONG KNOWN to contain valuable food elements, it was only in recent years that beer was found to be a good source of vitamin B2 (riboflavin). The lack of this important element is known to cause nervous troubles, skin diseases and certain eye inflammations. Looked upon as the national beverage of the British race, beer may be a factor in their steady nerves and placid temperament.

Pen, Scissors and Pastepot

STUFF—

'Spud" in common parlance nowadays means a potato, but there was a time two centuries ago when S-P-U-D stood for the Society for the Prevention of Unwholesome Diet. The society was formed in protest against the introduction of potatoes into Great Britain. Potatoes were looked upon as something unfit for food.

HOOT, MON—

The haughty English Lord was endeavoring to impress the importance of his family upon his guide in the Scottish Highlands.

"Why," he exclaimed, with an eloquent gesture, "my ancestors have had the right to bear arms for the last two hundred years."

"Hoot, Mon," cried the Scot, "my ancestors have had the right to bare legs for the last two thousand years"

ROLL YOUR OWNERS—

Thomas Richard Henry was telling about the problems of women with stretchless girdles and men with war time garters the other night and at the conference mentioned the teenage girls and how they overcame the garter problem: "The roll-your-own-ers have formed such a habit of reaching down and hauling up their socks (stockings) that they have developed a step-and-hoh gait. Three steps and a haul on one stocking. Three more steps and a haul on the other. See one walking across an office or on the street and you think she must be dodging brickbats."

EQUANIMITY—

The customers fled in a hail of bullets — all except an Englishman who stood at the bar calmly finishing his drink.

"Well" snapped the gangster, waving his smoking gun.

"Well" remarked the Englishman, "there certainly were a lot of them, weren't there ?"

SMOKE—

A scientist told biologists at Atlantic City that rats exposed to tobacco smoke lived 642 days on an average while non-smoker rats lived but 631 days on an average. What this proves—if proof were needed—will probably emerge from the radio any night as a plug for some cigarette.

The Week in Ottawa

Specially Written for the Record

— By H. Dent Hodgson —

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, April 3 - (CP) - Calling on the government to adopt a more "realistic" attitude to the world food crisis, the canadian Federation of Agriculture last week urged appointment of a Royal Commission to study the relationship between farm prices and wages of farm help and offered its own program for maximum food production.

Presentation o fthe program came after C. F. A. heads at a quiet, private meeting in Ottawa had sweated the details into shape. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and cabinet members promised "serious consideration" of the proposals.

The federation urged that the government ease the lot of the farmer by every possible effort to improve the critical farm labor shortage, cancellation of the federal three-cent tax on gasoline used for agricultural purposes and early revision of the Income Tax Act to eliminate inequalities it posed for farmers.

The federation asked an increase of four cents a pound in the floor price of butter — a move accepted and announced by the government the following day, indicating the importance the cabinet attached to the brief.

Also requested in the brief was establishment of a permanent National wheat marketing policy to encourage and give leadership to development of an international wheat agreement and working out of price arrangements which would prevent wide fluctuations.

The brief favored establishment of the Canadian Wheat Board as the "sole institution" for marketing Canadian cereal crops, federal legislation to enable producers to organize and regulate marketing, assistance to provincial governments in programs for expanded rural electrification, and provision of some plan of crop insurance under joint federal and provincial control.

Other points suggested extension of legislation already in force: A broadening of the scope of Veterans Land Act, and extension of the benefits of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to all provinces as part of a national program of soil conservation.

Farm people were "seriously disturbed" by the ever-widening breach between the relatively higher scale of wages and shorter hours in urban industry and the lower wage scales and long hours of the farmer. This, the brief said, could lead to serious unbalance and unrest, and should be investigated fully by a Royal Commission.

ISSUE NEW PAMPHLET ON ROSES OF CANADA

The rose is probably the oldest flower in cultivation, says R. W. Oliver, Division of Horticulture, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in his introduction to publication 777 on "Outdoor Roses in Canada," just published by the Department. No one can tell when the rose was first introduced into gardens, but, in the Bible, in Greek mythology, and in the writings of the early Romans, frequent mention is made of its cultivation. There is neither description nor pedigree of these old roses, but about 45 B.C. Herodotus wrote of a rose with 60 petals, so that even by that date the rose had developed considerably from the wild, rose-petaled species native to Asia, Europe, and America. Everything about outdoor roses in Canada and how to grow them will be found in the publication a copy of which may be obtained by writing to Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

HALDIMAND FARM RADIO FORUM ROUND-UP

Over three hundred persons crowded into the Rural Youth and Agricultural Centre at Kohler on Monday evening, March 25th, for the last Farm Radio Forum program of this season. The fact that so many farmers managed to find time to attend seems to indicate real progress in the county toward arousing general interest in rural areas in present day production and marketing problems as well as the improvement of local educational, health and recreational facilities.

Following the broadcast, the chairman, Mr. Wm. Walker President of the Haldimand Federation called on Mr. Abbott, County Fieldman, for a report on the seasons activities. Mr. Abbott quoted figures to show that, aided immensely by favourable weather conditions, forum attendance had increased to the point where one out of every thirty persons in the rural areas is taking part in forum work. However there is still plenty of room for new forums said Mr. Abbott.

In closing, Mr. Abbott stated that if the Federation is to be really effective a satisfactory means of financing the organization must be evolved. The best method would be an assessment on rural property of one quarter or one half mill which would provide the necessary funds without burdening individuals.

Mr. Harry Hewitt introduced the guest speaker Mr. Dan Stauffer, farming in Oxford County and a Director of the United Farmers Co-operative Co. Mr Stauffer presented an extremely interesting and entertaining address enjoyed by all those present. Mr. Stauffer outlined the present trends in agriculture and went on to show that farmers, throu gh the Federation and co-operatives, had it in their power to develop the nation along truly democratic principles.

Mr. Stauffer continued by showing how co-operatives would provide the necessary competition to aid in securing parity for agricultural prices; how the Federation would place farmers in a position to bargain effectively and secure equality of treatment. This would not be at the ex-

Junior - Jottings -

It is rather regrettable that the weather on Junior Day, Friday, March 29th, was so nice. The result was that a very small group was on hand to hear some realy outstanding addresses. About fifty young people were present in the afternoon and listened to Mr. Howard Laidlaw, President of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association, describe his trip to England, the farming conditions as he saw them there, and the part that the Canadian delegation played at the World Youth Conference. He told of the tremendous ovation accorded the Canadian delegation on their entrance to the Conference, an ovation that made each delegate proud that he was a Canadian, and showed to some measure the esteem in which our country is held by people in the British Isles. After outlining the mechanics of the Conference and giving some of the findings of this gathering, Mr. Laidlaw went on to describe some of the Club work being carried on among the Young Farm people in the British Isles. One County in Wales, smaller than Haldimand, has 55 young Farmers Clubs. These are set up similar to our Boys and Girls Clubs, with ages from 12 to 21, each club carrying on some definite project. We are certainly glad that Mr. Laidlaw could be with us and bring us the very fine address he did.

Another outstanding address was given by Miss Ethel Chapman, Womens Editor of the Farmer's Magazine. Miss Chapman presented a challenge to each of the boys and girls present to undertake some project which will both improve themselves and make their home and their community a better and a more worthwhile place in which to live. We must be proud of the farm, proud of the place agriculture has played in the last few years. Now it is up to us to organize for peace. Our program should develop us along both practical and cultural lines. The older agricultural organizations need the enthusiasm of youth to carry on their projects. And we must also develop along social lines, so that we can meet other people, and enjoy those new contacts.

In the morning session the boys and girls met separately. The girls were led in discussion by Miss Florence Eadie, director of Junior Extension work for the Women's Institute Branch. The boys reviewed the past year's work in a report prepared by the President, Mr. Roy Hedley. The Association has 192 members at present, and the report indicated the wide variety of projects being carried on by the Junior Farmers' Association. This report was followed by a talk by Warne Emmott, Vice President of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association, who outlined some of the things that Juniors are doing in other Counties. Miss Flora Durnin gave an illustrated talk to the combined groups on club work being carried on among girls in other parts of the province. Mr. C. D. Graham, Director of Agricultural Extension for Ontario, also spoke to the combined groups on County and local club projects. Altogether the day was a very full one, and very worthwhile for those fortunate enough to be present.

The Seed Fair on Monday, March 25th, was a decided success. Twenty-eight boys and six girls took part in the Junior Judging Competition with Jack Vollick, Canfield, the winner of the Trip to Montreal and Ottawa. This trip was made possible by the kind generosity of the Dunnville and Hagersville Branches of the Royal Bank of Canada. Floyd Nagel, Fisherville, was the winner of the T. Eaton Special in the Novice Class in the Seed Fair. We wish to congratulate both of these winners on their good work.

The Three Months' School in Agriculture and Home Economics was closed last Sunday afternoon with a short Sunday Service. Dr. G. E. Reaman, O.A.C., Guelph, was the guest speaker and spoke to the students and their parents on the subject "The Thrill of getting Out On A Limb." After the service the students were hosts to their parents at a very delightful tea and social hour.
