ADVANCE NOTICE Ontario Royal Commission on Forestry Toronto - "The worst criminals in Canada today are between the ages of 16 and 19," acording to Lt. Col. Wallace Bunton, head of The Salvation Army Prison and Police Court. Services Department. "The next worst age group is from 19 to 25. "Veterans of service with the armed forces have not been responsible for even the share of crime that could be attributed to them on a percentage of population basis," he said. It is possible to trace back to the home 99 per cent of the major crime in Canada, Col. Bunton declared. This does not always mean poor homes because some crimnals come from prosperous homes. Too much severity by parents in some cases, not enough in others, deception of children by parents, the bad example of low-principled parents and broken homes are the background factors that develop young criminals, according to Col. Bunton. "The home is first, the school second and the church third in the pro-PUBLIC HEARINGS
