

"The Jarvis Record" TELEPHONE 37, JARVIS, ONTARIO

Published Every Thursday Morning Member of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association and the Ontario-Quebec Division of the C.W.N.A.

ADVERTISING RATES UPON REQUEST

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

To all points in Canada $1.50 per year in advance To the United States $5.00 additional for postage.

The date to which subscription is paid is indicated on the address label.

A. L. MILLER, Editor

THE LURE OF FOOD

IT'S GOOD NEWS for Canadians as well as visiting Americans that tourist officials are encouraging the production of better, more distinctively Canadian food in an effort to ensure that visitors will return another year.

With few exceptions, hotels and restaurants serving the tourist are now producing good meals in clean surroundings but when you've said that you've said everything, there's nothing Canadian about the food, nothing that will make the visitor's mouth water next winter and make him determined to come back.

The southerner is served the Ontario attempt at fried chicken and the New Englander the Quebec version of deep apple pie. The meals are acceptable, filling and pleasant enough but the visitor retains no memory that will draw him along the same road next summer.

In Alberta they are doing something concrete about the matter. They have opened a competition, with $1,000 in prizes and medals, to find a recipe for a meal or single dish that will be as distinctively Albertan as the Calgary Stampede.

Tourist officials there hope others will emulate Mrs. Alice Brainard, postmistress in the little settlement of Brainard in Northern Alberta. Her meals are so well known that distinguished travellers come miles out of their way to sit at her table. Her pickled carrots and spiced peas have drawn vice-regal visitors far off their paths.

The raw material isn't lacking anywhere in Canada. The provinces have the necessary foodstuffs and the inherited cooking skill to produce dishes as good as any in the world. In the Maritimes they used to make a dish called salt cod and pork scraps that still makes our mouth water. It's cheap, but tasty, and there's no reason why it couldn't be given a name of its own and become a regional trade mark.

In Quebec they make the best pea soup in the world. In Ontario palate-tingling fresh-baked bread is a specialty. The British have great powers of recuperation and they may yet emerge stronger than ever from their ordeal by fire and privation. The outlook for Britain today is no darker than when Pitt on his country in his great speech of March last year desparingly cried, "My Country, My Country! How I leave my Country!" Churchill is still alive and judging by the vigor and grasp of national and international affairs which he displayed in his great speech of March last year in the House of Commons, he may yet lead the British people out into the sunlight of a new and better day.

There's no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

V V V V

CHURCHILL IS STILL ALIVE AND MAY LEAD AGAIN

By Lewis Milligan

"TO THE VIRTUE an ability of William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, during whose administration in the reign of George Second and Third, Divine Providence exalted Great Britain to an height of prosperity and glory unknown to any former age." I copied this inscription from the base of the memorial statue to the great British statesman in Westminster Abbey. Apart from students of history it is doubtful if William Pitt is anything more than a name to the average Englishman today. Yet it was to his statesmanship that the British people owed their national salvation in one of the most perilous periods of their history, and he, more than any other one man, was responsible for the creation of the British Empire.

As I read that inscription it struck me that with little alteration it could be ascribed to Winston Churchill and the perilous years through which he led the British people to victory. There is a striking parallel between the lives of the two men. Both entered politics at an early age. Pitt was a great orator, and with an eye to the greatness and glory of England, he raised the nation to look to its laurels and saw the

Pen, Scissors and Pastepot

If the farmers go away on a holiday they have to be back in time to milk the cows at night. With a pen, a pair of scissors and a half hour's work they should get time and a half for their labour for the rest of the week. When we wanted to go away this week we found we had a similar chain around our necks, but Rusty says there will be no time and a half for getting copy ready early with the price of paper what it is.

Farewells and welcomes seem to have predominated in the news this past week or so. We are saying good-bye to some of our citizens who have come to regard very highly and on the other hand we have been extending welcomes to those who have adopted a new status in life by before the night of the 1st of July.

Whether there will ever again be one resembling him, or whether he is the last of his illustrious line, depends upon whether Britain can regain her position as a great commercial and imperial world power.

The world is vastly different today from what it was in the time of Pitt. The United States — an offshoot of the British Empire — States — an offshoot of two world wars which have weakened Britain financially, inherited a large part of Britain's industrial and commercial assets as a result of the war, and the United States, is now making a determined bid for imperial power.

But Britain, in spite of her poverty at home, and disruptions in certain parts of the Empire, is the only real, established imperial power today. Governments come and go in Britain and no one party or leader can remain long enough in office to assume the power of a permanent dictatorship. The political changes are superficial. The political pendulum swings the extreme left under Cromwell, but it swings under Charles the Second. It steadied itself in the Victorian Era in which Britain not only ruled the Seven Seas and extended the swiftest civilization, but also led the swiftest movement of industrial, scientific, educational and political progress in the history of mankind.

It is unfair to judge the national stamina of Britain under the present political circumstances at home and abroad, or to judge the moral stamina of the British people in their present state of destitution. Britain is suffering from exhaustion resulting from six years of tremendous effort, endurance and sacrifice as the chief promoter of National Unity, but it still has the stamina of the British people in their present state of destitution. Britain is suffering from exhaustion resulting from six years of tremendous effort, endurance and sacrifice as the chief promoter of National Unity, but it still has the stamina of the British people in their present state of destitution.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

There is no more to it than developing a good dish, choosing an appropriate name and spreading word that it can be served better here than anywhere in the world. The tourists will come flocking. And, of course, we ourselves will hitch our chairs up to the table with new anticipation.

Time For Decision

By George W. James The Canadian Statesman, Downsview, Ont. ARTICLE No. 4

In succession, five of the six Ministers of the Mackenzie King Government have resigned. All have been staunch Liberals. From the Cabinet Council and party whip, each has been openly critical of the government. Their complaints collectively sum up the situation that the Liberal party has fallen to low estate under a faltering leadership. Now that he has announced his resignation, Mr. King will be in a position to resign himself, what these six Ministers have said will be of public interest.

HON. MR. CADDEN Hon. P. J. A. Cadden, who joined Mr. King's Cabinet in the early 1920's, quit over the conscription issue. Speaking in the House (Hansard, P. 4605) he said: "Almost every day since the House has been sitting, I have been asked the question of a motion of the opposition asking me to resign. I am not afraid to speak my mind."

HON. MR. POWER Hon. C. G. Power, 30 years in the House, has been quoted from Maclean's Magazine, Feb. 1, 1947. The party has gone off the track, travelling the ditch of expediency and improvisation, suffering from neglect of principle, and with leftists, sunk into pessimism, defeatism and despair, and to a mere office-holding machine. The incident clearly shows that Mr. King was forced by public reaction to resign to Mr. King following his decision to renounce his leadership.

HON. MR. BALSTON Hon. J. L. Balston, considered by many a Canadian greatest Minister of Defence, was dismissed by Mr. King in 1945. He was a member of the House (Hansard, P. 4605) he said: "Almost every day since the House has been sitting, I have been asked the question of a motion of the opposition asking me to resign. I am not afraid to speak my mind."

HON. MR. MACDONALD Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of Naval Affairs, to become Premier of Nova Scotia. He has recently left the King Government for his "neglect of principle in the ditch of expediency and improvisation" over the Dominion-Provincial tax agreements. Mr. Macdonald maintains that position and few Ex-Ministers have been so bold in fighting the threat of centralization and the loss of Dominion-Provincial tax agreements. Mr. King, and his new Cabinet associates.

HON. MR. CREER Hon. T. A. Creer, former Minister of Mines and dealing with Foreign Exchange Control, warned that the government, "weary with multitudinous promises and one-sided away from the civil servants." He said that when people voted Hitler to power he brought into effect the principle of the Bill now sponsored by the King Government. He called for restoration of freedom to Canadian people and said: "Throw out this Bill."

SENATORS SPEAK Mr. Creer was supported by such staunch, old-fashioned Conservatives as Gerry McGeach and others. He devoted to the party has been second to none. As Senator in the Senate, he was the only one who spoke in favour of the party. Now they speak out boldly to affirm the stand taken in the first article of this series: "To free freedom to every Canadian under sound, responsible government under vigorous, sole leadership."

STATE OF AFFAIRS When we consider that income taxation has risen to some $400 million in 1939 to 700 million in 1946 and that we have been regimented under some 50,000 orders-in-council with no right of appeal, we can see much of the reason why the standing Liberals deplore the present state of affairs. In the above witness this paper is relieved from presenting a new view in favor of authoritative Liberals who have the inner councils of the party.

CONSIDER POSITION All of which brings us back to a previous assertion, which has been factually supported, that the next Dominion election is a contest between the Liberal party, whose leadership is election is unknown at the moment, and the Progressive Conservative party, who are certainly to be led by Hon. John Bracken. That is the position. It is the position which Canadian voters must consider intelligently and without delay. For a narrow House majority, an election may be called sooner than anticipated.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE Haldimand County Liberal Association WILL BE HELD IN THE COURT HOUSE, CAYUGA ON THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1947 AT 8.30 P.M.

LADIES ESPECIALLY INVITED GOD SAVE THE KING

NOTICE! BAKE SHOP WILL BE CLOSED FOR WEEK - July 7-10 TO ALLOW EMPLOYEES THEIR ANNUAL HOLIDAYS BUTTS BAKERY JARVIS, ONT. PHONE 71

Don't bring firearms with you. H. R. Scott, Ontario lands and forests minister, last week told tourists planning to visit the province. While no closed season existed for rabbits no hunting of any kind is permitted except under the authority of a license, he said. More over non-resident hunting licenses are unavailable until September 1st.

In order to avoid both "disappointment" and "embarrassment," the minister said, visitors were advised to leave firearms at home during the summer.

Inviting rivers and beaches, traffic-jammed highways, a plane crash and an election and fire brought death to twenty-two persons in Ontario as summer marked up its second week-end of tragedy. Of the toll, eleven were bathing fatalities as hot, sultry skies drove thousands to cooling waters of urban and rural beaches.

A memo to owners of dogs who leave them in parked cars while enjoying some fountain refreshers or a cream cone. Make sure the car windows are down an inch or two; don't forget "Boss" likes something cool, too. Bring back an ice cream for him.

Specialize IN BRUSSES

OUR MONEY BACK NOT SATISFIED H. Jackson Co. Drug Shop on The Corner SIMCOE

PROFESSIONAL CARDS B. COLLINS, B.A. Solicitor, Notary, Etc. 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. E. KELLY Solicitor, Notary, Etc. 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. E. BUCK Solicitor, Notary, Etc. 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. E. ARRELL Solicitor, Notary, Etc. 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. E. COLBERT Solicitor, Notary, Etc. 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

DR. E. M. JONES DENTIST 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

P. F. HENDERSON PHYSICIAN & SURGEON 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

ROSS L. CLAPP OPTICIAN & OPTICIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

L. A. J. HARTWICK, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

RALPH T. HARROP, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. W. HOLMES, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. W. HOLMES, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. W. HOLMES, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. W. HOLMES, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

W. W. HOLMES, V.S. D.V.M. VETERINARIAN 121 West Street SIMCOE, ONTARIO

New "air" of Smartness

FOLKS EVERYWHERE are singing the praises of the smart new Oldsmobile car. Style alone would make it the smart buy of the year! Long, flowing lines, tasteful trim, beautifully tailored interiors... all combine to give this car a smooth-as-a-melody, "new-as-tomorrow" look.

Oldsmobile LUNDY & HENDERSON JARVIS, ONTARIO

Wayne and Shuster Show. Georgia Day will be featured. Herb May, one of Canada's best-known voices, will announce. William D. Byler, Radio Director of Spitzer and Mills Advertising, Inc., will be the resident of Haldimand County.

Royal Flexalum Blinds

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY IS FLEXALUM NOISELESS? Flexalum Venetian Blinds are almost completely silent in operation. The slats can be tilted or closed with absolute quiet.

Taylor's Restaurant

TELEPHONE 122 AGENTS FOR PEERLESS CLEANERS DRIVER CALLS TUESDAY AND FRIDAY (3-Day Service)

GREEN WHITE OR AMBER BOTTLES ?

TRADITIONALLY, Ale has always been distributed in green bottles but, owing to the present shortage of green glass, some Ale is being bottled in white or amber bottles.

This is a temporary measure—and does not in any way affect the quality of the product.

Published by THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

PLEASE RETURN EMPTY BOTTLES PROMPTLY