

JUST IN FUN

Real Funny
He was telling her his family history. "My grandfather was a poor, hard-working clockmaker. When he died he left his estate, which consisted of two hundred dollars, to my father."

Woman
A woman may put on a riding habit and never go riding. She may doll up in a sking outfit and never go skiing.

"Mrs. McGillicuddy! Are you having an affair with the superintendent?"

Let's Be Explicit
The couple were in one of those three-week cruises to the West Indies. While the wife was enjoying herself to the utmost, her husband was most unhappy.

Protection
According to the evidence of the witnesses you were caught just as you were getting out of the window with the contents of the bill in your pocket.

"I knew it," answered the prisoner, "and I shall always be grateful to the men who caught me. When I have these somnambulant fits I am in danger of falling out of windows and hurting myself."

"That idea never occurred to me," remarked the judge pensively. "It has occurred to me," remarked the prisoner with unconscious humor.

Sidewalk Scene
It was one of those exasperating sidewalk situations when a man and a woman, coming in opposite directions, jockeyed to the right, then to the left, together, in an awkward effort to pass each other.

Prize Rookie
Les Carey, 17, D. of Arizona freshman, is the Cleveland Indians' prize rookie of 1947. He plays outfield, and was given the highest bonus for signing, over $15,000.

Deep in the Jungle
It was not only sickness I had to deal with; there was also a thing called poverty and need. One day when I had been visiting a village I was told of a family who wished to come and see me but could not because they possessed only one garment between them and that was being worn by the man—the head of the family.

An Englishwoman in The Jungle

By Enid Fernandes
Miss Enid Fernandes, a British Red Cross worker, spent a year travelling in Malaya, taking up work in Pahang, a short leave in England and the return to take the post of State Rural Welfare Officer in Pahang.

My leave in England is drawing to an end and within a few weeks I hope to be back in Malaya, to take up my work as State Rural Welfare Officer under the Social Welfare Department of the Government of the Malayan Union.

I am eager to be back, for there is still a good deal of sickness among the people who live deep in the Malayan jungles, and after a year's work among them, I feel I have gained their confidence. I know I have learned to love and respect them.

I arrived in Singapore from England on September 1945, when the Japanese were still in the town and as I walked down the street I saw hundreds of displaced Malaysians, Japanese, Chinese and Indians, most of whom were starving and ill. The British Military Administration was already working wonders for the relief of these unfortunates and gradually they were collected into improvised camps where, for several weeks, I helped to look after the sick.

Embarrassing Faith
At the end of November 1945, I was asked by the Director of Medical Services, British Military Administration, Malaya, to go to Kuantan on the East Coast of Malaya to undertake welfare work in that area.

The monsoon was at its height and we worked under considerable difficulties, but by the end of three months we had a weekly program moving 20 Kampungs, seven rubber estates and several isolated villages. I had dealt with thousands of sick people with very marked success.

Awkward Situations Averted
At first the idea of being personally scrubbed by "Missie" was greeted with considerable apprehension, but I explained that this was necessary before applying the lotions sent to me by the State Health and Medical Officer.

VOICE OF THE PRESS

Originality Wanes
Perhaps it is a sign of decadence, but some of the women's Spring hats now on display actually look something like hats.

Reason to be Careful
Autos killed 23,000 people in the United States in 1946. That's exactly 23,000 reasons for driving carefully.

Too Much Laziness
Work has never been so unpopular as it is today. It's beginning to appear that the human race will soon have to learn to live without working or it will perish from the face of the earth.

Thou Shalt Thimble!
Hear about the young couple which played kith and kin every evening? He said: "Can I kith you?" And she said: "Yeh, you kin."

Education
Education is not learning; it is the exercise and development of the powers of the mind; and the two great methods by which this end may be accomplished are in the halls of learning or in the conflicts of life.

Remember the story of the monkey who tried to withdraw a fistful of nuts through the narrow neck of a jar? Because he wasn't content with getting one luscious nut at a time, he ended up by getting nothing instead of something.

That story is worth remembering today. Greedy grabbing of goods still in short supply can have the same result—nothing instead of something. Inflated prices, like the inflated paw of the monkey, can as surely prevent each of us from getting his fair share of available goods.

Canadians have had the wisdom to be content with a moderate "something," knowing that as production increases that "something" will grow larger and larger. This is good sense, and is founded on the principle that MODERATION is the key to CONTINUED ENJOYMENT, a principle to which the House of Seagram has always subscribed.

Future of Island Bases in Pacific

By implication, if not by word, the United States holds will be turned over to the Nations trustship as soon as well understood these islands are returned only so long as they are necessary to American security.

Peace Motive
Perhaps we need a better motive for peace than fear of war.
