SHORT STORY

The Rainbow Special

By T. M. RIDER

The woman who had been gazing wistfully at Madame Bluce's window display finally entered and...

"It's beautiful!" she cried. "I know Tom will remember me as I used to look. You know how husbands are. They just don't realize a woman doesn't grow any younger with time."

So that was the wrinkle. She was trying to become a spry chicken for her husband's sake. Somehow it didn't seem right for a nice old lady. Madge couldn't help thinking that some day she might get married and she'd grow old, too. Then, would she have to suffer the experience this woman was suffering?

Madge walked over to the woman and said, "I've just thought of a special dress for madam. A pale blue creation that would be chic with costume pearls and matched earrings."

"Pale blue? Oh, no! My husband loves colors that are bright and alive. You see, he's an artist, and a brilliant one, too."

She spoke in a proud voice and smoothed the Rainbow Special with work-worn hands. Madge asked hesitantly, "I don't mean to pry, but is your husband ill? Perhaps a floral dress..."

"Tom? No! You wouldn't ask that if you saw him. He's big and husky, and he always says my cooking's making him fat." She beamed until she noticed Madge staring wonderingly at her hands. Then she said quietly, "I've worked at washing dishes in a restaurant for the past 10 years and I'm proud of it because—well, because I'm doing it for my husband. But I guess you're too young to understand that love means more than roses and kisses."

"My Tom's worth anything, any sacrifice," the lady continued, and brushed at her cheeks with sudden remembrance. "And I must hurry. He's waiting outside in the car and I know he's growing impatient."

Sunday Morning In England-1947

A letter from England to the New York Herald Tribune: You probably get all sorts of reports about Britain, but I wonder how many you receive from one of the "great unknowns," such as myself.

My background is a fairly average one. A country boy, brick-layer, came to the big city (250,000) for a better job, joined the army 1938, demobbed and now back on the travel again. My pay amounts to £8 ($24) a week; so now you know my angle on life.

A complete "scenario" is impossible, but here's an impression of today, Sunday, Sept. 28, 1947. Our summer is still holding on. This morning broke fine and warm. The milkmen calls as usual (7 a.m.). Two pints for four of us. Can you imagine him making that little tap-tap on the tiled paths as he sees the gray walls of Portchester and the ladders in place of railings? Father-in-law makes the cup of tea this morning, which we drink in bed, and then turns over till the paper comes at 9 a.m.

I got up then. I want to check my "pools results" on yesterday's matches. You probably know we have here 1,000,000 football fans and 2,000,000 who "do the pools."

Dr. M. V. Wilkes, Director of the Cambridge University Mathematical Laboratory, said the University-built memory monies were nearly finished.

It may make discoveries in engineering, astronomy, and atomic physics," he told a reporter. "It may even solve economic and philosophical problems too complicated for us."

There are many vital questions we wish to put to it. Dr. Wilkes said the machine could handle 500 numbers ten decimals long. He said the best American "brain" built in Philadelphia for the American Army, handled only 20 such numbers.

The Cambridge "brain" has been nicknamed "EDSAC" because its full name, the natural scientist explained, is "electronic delay storage automatic calculator."

Too Healthy I hear your aunt's very rich. Does she enjoy good health? "Yes—gloriously over it!"

Alberta Oil For some time, official forecasts have suggested that the development of the oil fields of Edmonton is a focal point would be "the biggest thing yet" in Alberta, and in economic effects might well become one of the Dominion's biggest assets.

Harbor, and to the right the long ridge of the green South Downs. Up above the sky is blue, the sea cadets march by in step with their bugle band, motorists whizz down to Southern beach with the last drop of basic petrol (but after tomorrow) and there are crowds waiting for the bus to take them over the hill for a last picking of blackberries. Sunday morning in England—autumn, 1947. Only in southern Austria, where I spent two months in 1945, can there be a more quietly happy people. Don't worry about "crises," it's like water on a duck's back.

A H. BAILEY Portsmouth, Sept. 28, 1947. Loyalty "Oh, I adore Nature," exclaimed a stout but soulful lady at a dinner party recently.

Groucho Marx was among those present. Turning to his neighbor, he said softly, "That's real loyalty when you consider what Nature has done to her."

Bring 'Em Back Thousands of Hindus and Moslems in refugee camps dotting the frontiers of India and Pakistan have a new slogan: "Bring back the British!"

In Lahore, where a reign of terror has taken many lives and destroyed much property, flowers have appeared on the statue of Queen Victoria.

How MANY OF WAR was undoubtedly quite a race-horse — at least by any means the unbeatable one of his admirers.

Sports - And One Thing or Another

By FRANK MANN HARRIS ("A Stub Critic")

The people of the United States—perhaps rightly—lead the world in most lines of human endeavor. Some of those claims we had been inclined to challenge just a bit when it comes to stopping the effect that the race horse has on society.

It will be interesting, too, to watch the future career of Rookie Cy Thomas, tossed in with Bentley as part of the five for two swap. For it is just within the bounds that he might turn out to be worth more than all five Leafs involved.

Riding on the bus the other morning we happened to sit next a High School teacher of our acquaintance. Thinking to cheer him up a little, we read him a few lines appearing in that day's paper. "Next to the Church, the teaching profession is the highest calling in the land. Our teachers, to a great extent, depend on the whole life and nature of Canada."

Probably you've heard this one before, but if you have, you're not going to stop it anyway. It's about the Sunday School teacher who was talking about different sorts of threats. "Some people think of righteousness," he said, "fathers that after learning, wealth, fame or excitement. Now, just what do the boys think after?" From the back boys piped up a small voice: "Right after salted peanuts."

That's Different Pat: Lend me a shovel to get my friend out of the bog. Farmer: How far has he sunk down? Pat: Up to his ankles. Farmer: Can't he get out himself? Pat: Ah, but he fell in head first.
