Twenty-four years ago the communications department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, more or less as an experiment, installed a new type of telegraph pole along thirty-one miles of track of the Algoma district in Northern Ontario. The poles were made from the lowly jack pine, long considered the comparatively useless poor relation of the Canadian forest, treated with creosote—the first installation of any consequence in Canada.

In order to provide increased clearances for new automatic block signal wires, 495 of the poles in this section are to be replaced with longer poles this year. But so successful was the "experiment" of 1923 that many of the shorter poles are to be used elsewhere on the system, and not a single pole has had to be replaced since that time due to rotting.

In the top picture some of the poles can be seen, still as good as new, along a stretch of the i ain line just west of Ramsey. Ont., with a standing jack pine snow break, effective and economical, on the right hand side of the track. At lower left Canadian Pacific officials test two of the poles to discover the penetration of creosote as forestry experts look on, and the outer rings on the pole sections in the third picture show the 100% penetration of the cre-

Twenty-seven Haldimand farmers made an interesting and informative tour of up-to-date farms in the Guelph, Orangeville, Alliston and Toronto areas on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Travelling by chartered bus, these farmers visited some of the finest farms in the Province, covering almost every phase of agriculture. Leaving Cayuga at eight o'clock in the morning, the first stop was made at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. A brief tour was made of the campus and then under the direction of Dr. J. R. Weir, a special visit was made to the hybrid corn and pasture plots. Lunch was served in the College Cafeteria. The next stop was at the farm of Col. Torrance Beardmore's Yellow-briar farms near Orangeville. These farms, consisting of 350 acres, are picturesquely located among a group of hills. Scotch Shorthorns and Suffolk Sheen are the statement of the

Mrs. Harold Johnson opened her home for the first Fall meeting of the Fireside Club. Mrs. Wray Hagerman conducted the worship service using the theme "The Woman." Interesting passages were read from the scripture illustrating woman's place in the world. Mrs. Ernest Braund presided for the business part of the meeting. The club welcomed several newcomers and Mrs. J. W. E. Newberry replied with an inspiring talk. The minutes of the last meeting and Treasurer's report were read by Mrs. George Walker. The Roll Call was answered by suggestions for the improvement of the meetings.
