CHRONICLES OF THE GINGER FARM by Gwendoline P. Clarke

Last week I was in the basement. I kept me occupied. After lunch, it being Christmas, I thought a late afternoon shopping might be just the thing.

How to Launder Fine Fabrics Now that our table linen is no longer limited to the large white damask tablecloths which our grandmothers considered the only thing for a lady's table, and the shops are full of all sorts of exciting and colorful luncheon sets, doilies, runners and so forth, we must give a little thought to the method of laundering, if it is to retain their original attractiveness.

Double Check A statement which had taken charge of the meteorology department at one of the Army Air Forces navigation schools noticed that his secretary's telephone rang every morning at approximately a quarter to twelve. She would glance at the wall clock, announce the time, and hang up.

What A Mess When God gave out brains, he thought. He said brains. And I missed mine!
