OUR COSTLIEST COMMODITY

- By Joseph Lister Rutledge Men and women and children are starving in this world. Probably half its people have never known what it was to have all the food they needed. Our world needs almost everything to help it get on its feet again so that it can achieve even that weagre way of life. Yet every year that same world now at peace, is spending $27.4 billions for armies and armaments to give us what? Noth ing but protection from fear of one another. There are still 19 million ent that obtained in that ominous year 1939, when peace was rocking on its foundations. Now, when we have fought things out to a finish, we are still afraid. And that fear s costing a starving world $16. for every man, woman and child anywhere in the world today.
