

Most-soul-stirring scene in the Passion Play is the Crucifixion and the descent from the Cross. Christ's body is lowered into the arms of John as the grief-stricken Mary and the Magdalene

History's Greatest Drama Comes Alive in Passion Play-These moving scenes depict highlights in the Black Hills Passion Play as staged in the great natural amphitheatre at Spearfish, S.D. Above, Jesus shoulders the Cross as He starts His sad journey to Golgotha. Behind Him is the Roman centurion, with scourging lash upraised. At left, under guard, are the two thieves who were crucified with the Saviour. In the center doorway stands Pontius Pilate, Roman procurator who reluctantly sentenced Jesus to cruxifixion under pressure of the Jerusalem mob that chose between Christ and the robber Barabbas. The mob was incited by Caiphas and Annas, priests of the temple, who stand on the steps behind the Cross, reviling Jesus. At right are the disciples and the children Christ blessed when He entered Jerusalem from Galilee.

Christ falls under the weight of the Cross. It was here that His mother, Mary, met and recognized Him, crying "My Son, my Son!'

Harry gulped his coffee. "But Elsie was . . . well . . . "

Ann leaned back in her chair. Yes, Elsie was 38 and wore cotton stockings. Tess Barclay, the new secretary, was 20 and Harry could tuck her in his pocket. Ann remembered when Elsie Olson resigned and the boss hired Tess for Harry. "Sunny little girl taking Elsie's place," he'd "Pretty?" she'd ask. He'd shrug-ged. "Didn't notice," and that was when Ann took warning. Harry was 30, and after seven years of marriage maybe he was getting a little tired . . . maybe of her. Ann had seen the little new girl one day when she stopped in the office to see Harry.

It was a few days later when she announced at breakfast, "I'm taking Miss Barclay to lunch today." Ann walked into the Mayfair ahead of time. She sat studying the wall ing out right. That young lady would

THERE'S good money in successful poultry raising. Lets admit that not all poultry raisings. Lets admit that not all poultry raisers make big money, but the fact remains that there are thousands of successful poultry raisers who are making big money—and you can do the same. In poultry raising success means profits—and success begins with the right kind of chicks—chicks bred to produce top quality meat and eggs in highly profitable amounts. Tweddie chicks have those profitmaking qualities bred right into them. And that's no empty bosst. It is a true fact. The fact that so many of Canada's most successful poultry raisers have been buying Tweddie chicks year after year is proof that scientific breeding make them a good investment that pays big dividends. That's just why any chicks won't do when you can get Tweddies. All indications point to lower feed prices, and
