CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

Gwendoline P. Clarke

Ontario is facing a crisis. How it is met depends upon you and me . . . and the rest of the people. I am referring to the hydro shortage. Yes, a lot depends upon the rest of the people and of course on the Hydro Commission itself, but still if each one of us would stop worrying about what the other fellow is doing and concentrate on ways and means of saving power in our own homes a lot less kilowatt hours would be used as a result. It is so easy to say—"Why should I bother to use less power when So-and-So's house is all lit up like a Christmas tree?" And supposing it is—does that give us the right to be equally ignorant and inconsiderate? As my niece aptly remarked the other day—"Hydro is one thing you can't hear—to have it you must save it."

We are continually being reminded by press and radio to save power—use no more lights than are necessary; turn the switch when the kettle starts to sing; be saving with heaters, and so on. That's fine, but I think the habits of our own respective families might be studied to good purpose. I know that is so here. For instance, until everyone is in bed we always keep a light burning in the hall. As a safety measure we still do but we now have a 10-watt bulb instead of a 40, and for the bracket light in the dining room a 7 1/2 watt bulb. The main cellar light has always been a big waster. The switch is at the top of the stairs. Someone comes up from the cellar, forgets to switch off the light, and because it is natural to close the cellar door the light is shut off and there is nothing to give any warning that the switch has been left on. So we got busy. We rigged up a plug-in light, with a tiny bulb that hooks up on the outside of the cellar door. Since it is plainly visible through the glass panel of the dining room door we always see it and act accordingly. If by any chance the light should be left on.

Then in our little sitting-room Partner has a 60-watt bulb in the reading lamp by his couch. That's fine—for reading! But most evenings Partner will drop off to sleep—and who needs a 60-watt light to sleep by? So, unless I am using the

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

History in the Old Testament
1 Kings 4:21-22; 11:16, 9:11.

Golden Text:—Blessed is the Lord—Psalms 135:1-3.

A large portion of the Old Testament is the history of the chosen race. A few years ago a traveller was going from Egypt to Palestine. He went to a book seller to secure a guide book which would enable him to identify the historic landmarks in the country over which he was to travel. The book seller frankly told him that if he would study the book of Exodus, and related passages, it would be as dependable a guide as he could find. Furthermore, almost every year fresh evidence is uncovered confirming the accuracy of the Old Testament History.

And then there are stories . . . cool days are with us once again and it shouldn't be any great hardship to go back to the old cook-stove to do our baking. Hydro is such a precious thing and those of us who did without it for so many years, know only too well how much it contributes to the joy and comfort of everyday life. Shouldn't we then be the first to try to conserve it? Not just for ourselves, but for industry. Shortage of power could have far reaching results. It could throw thousands out of work and seriously upset our industrial machinery. Someone may have slipped up on the job but there is little use at this time to berate the government or the H.E.P.C. for any inconvenience we may suffer. We were given fair warning a shortage might occur—a shortage that has been further aggravated by the late summer drought—and that was something no one could prevent.

Canada depends so much upon her natural resources—water to generate electricity; natural gas in many parts of the country; oil for so many purposes; and it looks as if our use of these resources is stripping the supply. It is something to remember—and we might also think twice before we criticize. For instance someone turned in a complaint, because a big business place was ablaze with light and was told that in this particular instance the company had its own generating plant.

Excuse me a minute—Partner is calling. Oh-oh . . . is my face red? Partner was wanting to know why the back cellar light had been left burning. And I was the culprit! See what I mean? If we each make a habit of checking up on the rest of the family surely a lot of power could be saved.

TABLE TALKS

Jack O' Lanterns

1 package orange-flavored gelatin
2 cups hot water
dried currants
6 halves canned peaches, drained
6 marshmallows, drained

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Drain well. Peel peaches. Cut each peach half into four equal pieces. Place each piece of peach in a glass and cover with peach half, placing face-side up. Pour remaining slightly thickened gelatin over peaches and chill until firm. Makes 6 servings.

Witches and hobgoblins and ghosts! The thrill of dressing up in long skirts and ringing doorbells around the neighborhood is something no child should miss! And whether you have children of your own or expect some visiting neighbors, refreshments are always in order on Halloween. Here's a recipe for simply "super" cup cakes that would be delicious at any season, but with their Jack-o-lantern decorations.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I clean some candles that have become sticky?

A. Wipe them with a piece of absorbent cotton dipped in alcohol.

Q. How can I take proper care of a palm?

A. It is not well to water palm too often. It is much better to allow the earth to become dry, then give it a good soaking. The leaves should be sponged every week to keep them in good condition.

Q. How can I give a delicate fragrance to the linen clothes?

A. By placing a lump of root in the boiler on wash day. The fragrance will last even after the clothes are ironed.

Q. How can I remove stains from piano keys?

A. By rubbing, then with acid. Also rub them occasionally with a soft cloth wet with alcohol to keep the keys white.

Q. How can I destroy grass weeds on a clay tennis court?

A. By using a solution of 1/2 lb. of borax in 10 gallons of water. This destroys plant life. Use extreme care to get any of the solution on grass or shrubbery near the court or it will kill it.

Q. How can I clean tortoise shell?

A. By using alcohol, then polishing with a chamois dipped in borax.

.....FALL FAIR TIME IN ONTARIO.....

Young Fair-Goer Relaxes at Mitchell

Young legs tire quickly at a Fall Fair. Your Ful-O-Pep photographer found year-and-a-half old Kenneth Annis, Mitchell RR 3, taking advantage of the resting qualities of a first prize pumpkin at the Mitchell Fall Fair.

The Main Building at the Mitchell Fall Fairgrounds has undergone some very extensive renovations since last year. This year the building and exhibits ranked next to the Western Fair in quality and appointments. The picture shows part of the flower display in the centre of the building that claimed a great deal of interest from the record Fair crowds this year.

Fair Time Highlights

By the Ful-O-Pep Reporter

In reply to numerous requests we would like to repeat here that the pictures shown on these pages may be obtained from the Ful-O-Pep photographer. His address is 123 Eighteenth Street, New Toronto, Ontario.

There has been a good deal of interest shown in these pages and a number of questions have been asked, some of which we would like to answer here. The favourite question seems to be this, "You took our picture at the fair. Why was it not shown in the paper?"

The answer to this is that there have been a good number of pictures taken which could not be used because of the lack of space on the page. We have tried to select the pictures which would be of interest to the greatest number of people, and we have had to leave out some others.

If you know your picture was taken and you have not seen it here then you can still get a print of it by writing in to the Ful-O-Pep Photographer at the above address. Tell him what fair it was and describe in him what you look like and other details of the picture. He will gladly reply to your letter.

This reporter has had an opportunity to see behind the scenes of nearly every Fall Fair in Ontario this season and has been impressed by the amount of work required "back stage." The worried-looking men you see going around the grounds with "Official" ribbons on their coats have always good cause to look worried. Sometimes the exhibitors are apt to forget that their particular event and their particular part of it must be fitted into the general picture of the fair. Sometimes it is even necessary to make one person suffer a little so that the fair can be run at all.

Sometimes we think it is a miracle that anyone is pleased but generally speaking the exhibitors and contestants are all in their best Fall Fair humour and manage to see everything in a proper light. The forbearance of the Farmers who exhibit in these shows as well as the efficiency of the fair executive is responsible for the success of the fairs. When credit is being given both sides of the question should be kept in mind.
