where, theoretically, they are sup-posed to belong. What's more they have no intention of ever going back, if they can help doing so. Instead, they are probably carrying union cards in our workshops or factories, or engaging themselves in some other well-paying form of city or town employment.

This is a condition which regularly brings forth gloom and lamentations from editorial writers in some of our more ponderous newspapers. of our more ponderous newspapers.
"Why don't they stay where they'd be so much healthier, happier and more secure?" they say. (A lot of those same writers probably think that, to quote another oldie—"anybody who gets up before 10 a.m. is a pight watchman" and would be some mouth of Sentenbar watch and secure. a night watchman"—and would drop dead at the mere idea of crawling out of the quilts before dawn in sub-zero weather to go out and than HALF A MILLION feed a lot of hungry stock.

Every Canadian surely has the right to seek properly paid employ-ment wherever it may be found; and a lot of those young folks are going to think twice, or maybe three times, before giving up jobs which bring them a dollar or more an hour for a 44 hour week to the farm where the "seven hour day" means seven before dinner and seven after.
