TIP TO WIVES:

If He's Going To Live He's Got To Fish

In The Toronto Telegram

DID you ever hear of a woman dying from coronary thrombosis No, sir, such cases are as scarce as hen's teeth. But the men, hmmm, this disease is knocking them off like ten pins, and in the early forties too. Now why is that so? Well, a woman gets married, lives a sheltered life and gets fat. She gets her work done in the morning, and either sleeps or plays bridge in the afternoon. At night she makes her dog-tired husband go to a show or a dance - which she enjoys, and the old man endures. This is just another straw added to the camel's — I mean the husband's back. Moreover, and this is import. camel's - I mean the husband's back. Moreover, and this is important, the woman is king of her castle. She is boss in her own home. She isn't a slave under some Simon Legree who cracks the whip from morning until night. She is not subject to the stress and strain of modern business. In short, she is not afraid of losing her job.

The husbands haven't time to worry about their health, they are too busy pushing their noses against the grindstone. They can't take a nap in the afternoon. They can't even sleep Saturdays, because that is the day, the Queen takes over and gives orders. "Put up the screens, cut the grass, weed the garden, fix the hinges on the front door, wash the windows, paint the verandah." Then, in the face of this tremendous pressure, the poor guy, prematurely old, curls up like a withered leaf and dies-of coronary thrombosis. So, his fresh young wife, cashes the insurance, and being remarkably well-preserved marries some other guy, and keeps her job-as boss.

WHAT can be done? I think the answer is "escape" I don't mean to hit the rods and forsake the good, kind little woman. But still the hubbies need escape from work, from people, from noise, from civilization, from those week end chores. And the place to go-why fishing, of course. After all, girls, that harmless-looking slave you married is an investment worth protecting. Think of all the headaches you would have training a new one. He is entitled to several days whipping a stream for browns or speckles, or casting for pickerel or pike. He needs the stimulating, refreshing contact with the outdoors. He needs to hear the frogs croaking, the birds singing, smell the lush green meadows and the dank deep woods. He needs to have the cobwebs of modern-day living swept away by the sunlight and cool breezes that haunt every trout stream. And when he comes home, dog-tired but happy, he will sleep like a log. Good healthy, strengthrestoring sleep, and as a result the ticker will beat out a rhythm assuring old age, or at least threescore years.

You think I'm kidding, do you girls? Well, I am very serious, and after you have chuckled a bit about the digs I gave you, just take a look at that guy you see once in a while at meal-times, and figure it cut yourself. What chance has he of reaching fifty, if he keeps on his high-gear living? Is he not like many more men who in their crazy, stupid, eternal fight for the dollar ,have forgotten what it means to play, what it means to laugh, what it means to live? Perhaps a little soul-searching might be the stitch in time. Send the guy off fishing, and tell him to leave the booze at home on the trips, because the exercise he gets is sufficient stimulation.

Well here we are again and since last week a good many ball games have been played. In the Erie League several of the teams have passed the three quarter mark in their schedule. Selkirk Juniors are making a strong bid for the top spot in the league. We discovered another person last night who reads this column. Now we can refer to our following as our readers. Its a great feeling to realize we are getting ahead in the worimes we get a trifle embarrassed when we hear someone re fer to the title of our column. Scissors and Pasteoot shouldn't be hard to say but it is amazing how some people get it twisted. After all a pastepot is a very necessary piece of equipment in a newspaper office.

George Drew has some enemies right within his own camp. We a Tory say the other day, "We've got to get a new leader That Drew is going to ruin the party.' It reminds us of the fans that cheer the home team when they are winning—only. If the P.C. Party is smart it will leave George Drew right where he is and be thankful they have a leader who knows what he thinks and says what he thinks. In the short period he has been National leader of his party he may not have won too many enthusiastic followers but he will if given time and it may not take too long at that.
