SURE DOES A FELLOW GOOD! DEAR COUSIN JOE:

We arrived back in the city Sunday night and I thought I would just drop you a line to let you know how much Mary and the kids and I enjoyed our two weeks' holiday at your farm.

Just like I was telling Mary, it does a fellow good to get away from the city for a couple of weeks once a year and get out where a man's got room to spit if he feels like it.

The kids look real healthy, all tanned and everything, and the doctor says young Bill's poison ivy spots will be gone in a month or so. Mary says to thank your wife for the preserves she insisted we bring home.

Bill says he's sorry about the chicken that got drowned in the horse trough. Says he didn't know they couldn't swim and I guess you can't expect kids that were brought up in the city to know all about farm animals, though.

Especially Betty. Remember how she used to take that little pig to bed with her every night? Mary is going to try your wife's recipe for chocolate cake just as soon as she gets her leg out of the cast.

You always were an awful kiddier, Joe. Just like I was telling Mary, it sure does a fellow good! Your ever-loving cousin, HARRY.

Everything that lives, Lives not alone, nor for itself. -William Blake. TO SPANK OR NOT TO SPANK - By Lewis Milligan

TWO TEEN-AGED BOYS, who were recently convicted in Ontario of stealing twenty-two pints of beer from a local hotel, were put on suspended sentence with an order to their fathers that they administer ten strokes with a lath to their erring offspring.

There are wide differences of opinion as to the effectiveness of corporal punishment, but the chief objection seems to be on humanitarian grounds. In the old days it was carried to the extreme in flogging at the public whipping post and confinement in the stocks, and school-masters freely and strenuously administered the rod to preserve discipline. Doctor Samuel Johnson, referring to his old schoolmaster, said, "He beat me well," and admitted he was lazy and would never have learned anything, "had not been spanked into attention by his studies. Indiscriminate and cruel whipping on the part of parents or school-masters is to be condemned, but it is still true that if parents do not chastise and discipline their children the world will do it more drastically in later years.

Disobedience was the "original sin" of our first parents, and it has been inherited by all children. Every child is more or less of a little rebel, and some are so perverse that they will do it more drastically in later years. The following gem was picked up from a "Balding" column, published monthly by Geo. H. Lees & Co. Ltd., Jewelry Manufacturers, Hamilton, Ontario. "Old King Nimus of Babylon was a good pecker, and when he pecked himself a queen from over in Acedonia, the hill country, he sued a girl named Lu Lu. The Courtiers judged one another and agreed she was a swell dish. And peace reigned in Babylon.

But anon her Majesty grew weary of the flat and barren lands of Babylon. Her memory was for hills and greenery. She lifted up her voice and went out. And when she went, she was a mess. Yea, verily!! And peace was gone in Babylon.

So old Nimus' good husband, would at build a hill, and he did it. The horses grunted, the gears stripped, and the union leaders made a fuss, but the hill riz up in the desert, and was an hundred cubits in height, and twice in height. Trees were transplanted, the fountains played, the birds warbled. And thus came about the hanging gardens of Babylon.

Was the Queen pleased? Yea, greatly, and clapped her hands and climbed all day. And again the second day. But her delight divided, and her approval subsided to contempt, and the hill, said she, was a mess. And thus was the King rewarded. And so it was, and is, and ever will be. For the hills are green, and want better conditions, new lines, better terms. Those we've had did them bring into the world. How many fathers or mothers today put their children to bed, teach them to say their prayers and sing "Now the day is over," as our parents did in the old days?

Canadian Airline travel reached a new high over the Dominion Day weekend. Trans-Canada Air Lines reports that between June 13th and July 3rd a total of four thousand eight hundred passengers boarded aircraft at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. This exceeds all previous records.

C. S. Lewis, English writer of fantastic novels with a theological basis, puts into the mouth of one of his characters a remark that may be applied to some husbands and under-lying cause of domestic misunderstanding. The character says: "The cardinal difficulty in collaboration between the sexes is that a woman speaks a language without nouns. If two men are doing a bit of work, one will say to the other, 'Put this bowl inside the bigger bowl you'll find on the top shelf of the green cupboard.' The female for this is: 'Put that in the other one in there.' And then if you ask them 'In where?' they say 'In there of course.'"

The customer had some change due. "Thank you," he said to the young, crisp young woman behind the counter. "Quite O.K.," she said. Many young clerks are so young they cannot remember a day when a customer was doing a favor by buying something.

What do you ask of Your Bank? The connection of many people with a Bank is only through a pass book and a cheque book.

We believe, however, that there is more mutual pleasure and benefit by doing business in a personal, friendly way. This Bank has grown to great size, but it is a human institution, very much interested in giving something more than across-the-counter service. The needs of the individual, and how we can help him to progress, are matters of first importance.

You will enjoy banking at any of our branches. THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE JARVIS BRANCH - J. A. FLEMING, Manager
