CHRONICLES GINGER FARM

We Gwendoline D Clarke

I started to write this column yesterday but gave it up. It was such a wet, miserable day I felt sure whatever I wrote would be as depressing as the weather. But this morning it is so different.
Bright, warm sunshine; fleecy white clouds chasing each other swiftly across an azure blue sky. Of course the fields are very, very wet and there is a cold wind blowing but on the lee-side of the house I can forget about it. My study window faces south so it is as cheery as can be. And do you know what? On the inside of the storm window there are dozens of ladybirds giving themselves a sunbath. Isn't it supposed to be a sign of good luck to find a ladybird? If so, then drill a well. But this doesn't con-to the fact that it isn't universal. Farmers in Ontario are beginning worry about the late spring. How and when shall we ever go on the land? But at least we kno the land is waiting for us and will be worked as soon as weather cor ditions permit. No government offi cial is likely to come along and say-"We need your land for othe purposes so the government is tak ing over your farm at such and such a date." The kingdom of Israel was rule successively by Saul, David and Solomon. Then Solomon's son, Releroboam leading a delegation from northern tribes, appealed for relief from the tax burden. One is inclined to speculate that it was probably very light compared with the direct and indirect taxes we bear today. But Rehoboam was a poor politician. Instead of placating the unrest by bright promises, he turned from the advice of the experienced advisors to that of the rash young men. To the delegation he said, "My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins. And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke; my father hath chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions." (11 Kings 112:7-11). Rebellion followed and the ten northern tribes made Jeroboam their king. But all the blame for this division must not be put on Rehoboam. His father had loved many strange women and they had turned his heart after other gods. For this sin God predicted the rending of the ten tribes to form a separate

Nineteen kings reigned in the 234 years until the kingdom was destroyed and the people led away one of the faithful prophets who preached in the oursess to the decaying narighteousness to the decaying na-tion. The people tolerated violence. They became soft and indulged in idleness and luxury. They drank wine in bowls. Cups were too small. Were these people worse than Canadians today? It is hardly conceivable that they drank more intoxicating beverages than Canadians or that there was more drunken-

Four thousand residents of Trévières, a town in north-west France, have just eaten 1,500 lbs. of tripe to celebrate the hundredth birth-day of Madame Marie Bernard, who fifty years ago created a tripe dish (tripes à la mode de Caen) which but in farm homes where there is a bathroom a lot of water can be became world-famous.

She prepared it with calves' feet and spices which simmered for nearly seven hours. Ever since then Madame Bernard has been making

One of these days, and you may mark our words, the fair city of Toronto is going to secede from Canada and leave the rest of the Dominion flat on its Frances. And if you imagine we are going far, far out on the limb in making in making such a dismal prediction, do not forget that back in the early days of Henry Ford we exclusively forecast that these new-fangled automobiles were only a passing fad.

Why - you ask - does Toronto contemplate making such a drastic move? Why do citizenry of what is sometimes enviously referred to as Hogtown-on-the-Humber gather around in gloomy clumps uttering under their breaths language the like of which, if reproduced here, would cause a five-alarm fire? Well not to keep you in suspense too long, here is the low-down. For about the 'steenth time an All Team has been selected WITH-OUT A SINGLE TORONTO MAPLE LEAF PLAYER IN-CLUDED. Ah, friends, the indignity of it!!!

Now, personally we have long held the opinion that there are two distinct and utterly different brands of big-league hockey-the kind you see during the regular season when the lads are working for wages, and the sort exhibited in the playoffs when they are skating themselves bow-legged for gold and glory, in about that order. But the so-called experts who do the All Star selecting insist on taking the pre-playoff ype of hockey seriously and make their picks on that basis. Which, of course, is sheer nonsense, and if you don't believe it just ask any oyal Torontonian. On second thought, don't bother to ask. Just hold still long enough and he, or she, will tell you so without enquiry.

Nor are such indignities anything new or novel to the loyal but utterly fair-minded supporters of those confined for the moment to that wild land south of the 38th parallel, but honest appraisal finds hatreds and resentments with us on the home front, be it in war or peace.

The medical profession admits this, and says that these forces attack not only the soul but the body. A man with an uncontrolled temper may wind up in surgery; resentments have caused arthritis. "Worry, fear and anger are the greatest disease causers," says the eminent doctor, Charles T. Bingham. Alcoholics Anonymous has "cured" many of the disease of alcoholism, but not until all hatreds and resentments have been obliterated.

Thoreau was well aware of how many persons, even in his small part of the world, were leading lives of "quiet desperation" and he wrote of them with pity. Today physicians and psychologists are striving to straighten out these lives.
