Pen, Scissors and Pastepot

We see by the papers there is going to be an election next Thursday, November 22nd. It will be an opportunity for the people of Ontario to decide what Government they will have in Queen's Park for the next three or four years. Judging by the fact that only about three of every five people take the trouble to go out and vote it can be assumed that the privilege of doing so is no longer considered a privilege.

A friend from London, Ontario, sent us a paper this week that he found in the back of an old mirror. It was a Jarvis Record, dated 1887. It was interesting to note in the columns of that paper that an election had just been held in Haldimand County and that Dr. Montague had won the riding with a majority of 16 votes.

What was significant to us, however, was the fact that the election results were not what we would expect. The results for each poll were as follows: Dr. Montague 16 votes, Mr. ...

In Canada the danger is at the reverse end. Due to the freedom we enjoy many refuse to take seriously the fact that voting is important and consequently fail to cast a ballot. Not because they have any objection to the government but simply because they refuse to recognize their personal responsibility in maintaining our free democratic system.

Our only suggestion, through the columns of this paper, in connection with the election next Thursday, is that everyone get out and vote. When the time comes that everyone recognizes this responsibility we need have no fear of bad government in this country.

The "soldiers settlement" scheme following the First World War did not work out too well, but the present administrative set-up is proving to be much more successful.

FAIR CRITICISM
A newspaper to be successful, especially in its sports coverage, must reflect the feelings of the majority of fans. If fans think their team stinks it is time for newspapers to say so. When the same fans feel a team is doing its best even if it has not won a championship, the team should be praised.

We'll LAY and we'll PAY if you feed us the PURINA way

Your pullets are tackling 3 jobs, right now — keeping up their body condition, finishing growing, AND laying. That calls for plenty of the right kind of feed — otherwise they'll "fade" on you, and miss out on the Fall egg prices. Look over the Purina Laying Chows list, pick the one that fits your situation. You'll get real results on

Purina LAYING CHOWS

Many pullet flocks start off well, then sag. Guard against that expensive production slump — "top feed" Purina Booster Checkers, 6 lbs. per 100 birds per day.

BOOSTER CHECKERS

For faster gains, greater gains per pound of feed, cheaper gains, prime finish — supplement your grain with Purina Steer Fatena. It's palatable, too — keeps 'em eating.
