The community was shocked to learn of the sudden passing of Norman C. Colbert last Sunday morning. Mr. Colbert had contributed many valuable historical articles to the Record over the past few years and we could not help but be impressed with the sincerity of purpose which went into every effort of this kind. He recognized fully the importance of keeping local history in its proper perspective and we believe his articles will prove important to future generations. He will be missed by the community.

Every business is a hazard but right at the moment we venture to guess the polsters in the United States are seriously aggravating their stomach ulcers. They will all be either well set up in business or out of it by early November 4th. Harry S. Truman shook their very foundations four years ago and they fit at the present moment. If they can come through this time they will be set up again for a few years but a failure will remove the last vestige of confidence that has been established in them.

Those who were engaged in the hunt for Mr. Magnus Banks last Monday night and Tuesday morning could hardly help but realize what a wonderful spirit there is in a small community. A call went out for help and everyone that heard it responded. A good many of them did not know Mr. Banks personally. Probably they knew his two sons, or probably they didn't. That didn't make any difference. Help was needed and help was given, and gladly. It was the sort of thing that restores one's confidence in human nature and we know that it was appreciated by the family.

SILVER STAR REBEKAH LODGE

The first meeting of the Silver Star Rebekah Lodge No. 285 since the installation of the new officers was held on Tuesday evening, October 28th in the L.O.F.F. Temple. The members were also pleased to hear from the President of the Past Noble Grand Mrs. Nellie Miller presiding assisted by Vice Grand, Mrs. Gertrude Smith. The Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Hazlett, read a very gratifying report of the recent bazaar. The members were also pleased to hear from the President of the Past Noble Grand Mrs. Clara Elliott, that the ladies of that Club had also had very pleasing results from their efforts.

During the reading of the correspondence, readers might enjoy reading "The Weekly Newspaperman's Prayer" by Ted McCandless, which appeared in the American Press.

"O Lord, have mercy on this guy as we wander here below, gathering news and spreading tales about the folk we know. It's true he is inquisitive — a very nosy guy, his one redeeming feature is he's seldom known to lie. He has his nose in everything that happens here on earth, no matter what your standing is, how high or low your birth. You try to steal some money and present a pretty tale, this bird comes out and tells the truth as to why you went to jail. You wreck your car on one short beer, or so you firmly stated, this man reports the judge declared you were inebriated. The preacher brings his sermons in the layman's big bold type, he must collect his bills."

"This man prides news about the time you first saw the light of day about things you did on earth and when you passed away. He has to delve into everything from politics to treason. At times he is convinced that even murder is in season. It's queer how folks will do nice things then drop a little hint as to how it wouldn't hurt a bit to have money made of it in print. Then the same guy while flying high will cut some foolish caper, and go to any length at all to keep it from the paper. And so we ask Thy mercy as we near the Golden Stars, you put us here to stick our nose in other folk's affairs."
