ANNE HIRST
Your Family Counselor

"Dear Anne Hirst: I'm only 16, but I feel years older! I've done so many wrong things that I don't know how to get them to be good! I've broken away from my parents, you know, and I'm living on my own. I'm so lonely, I feel I should be married, but I don't know how to do it. I feel I should be married, but I don't know how to do it. I feel I should be married, but I don't know how to do it.

How New, Little Cows?—The two cows above, held by six-year-old Bertie Lyle Good? Are five-year-old Herford, perfectly formed except that they are then bovine rilly-midgats. They stand only 31 inches high and weigh but 110 pounds each.

HOW CAN I?
Q. How can I test the quality of coffee?
A. By pouring about a tablespoon of ground coffee into a cup of cold water. If the coffee floats and the water is colored very slowly, it is good, pure coffee. If, however, any of the coffee sinks to the bottom, or it stains the water quickly, there is some adulterant present in the coffee.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

Last week we bought a new alarm clock. We already had two others, but they were not satisfactory. One sounded off in a very timid tone as if afraid of the result when the person who was to awake really awoke. The other one rang loud and long—and kept on ringing even with the shut-off knob pushed well in. The only way to stop that clock ringing was to move the time hands backward or forward. Moving them back meant that next time one of us woke up we thought 'Oh, it's early yet—sleep a little more for another snooze.' If we turned them forward we woke up, looked at the clock and surprised and then remembered—'Oh course—that clock is fast—no need to get up yet!'

PREPOSTEROUS
A millionaire decided to build a luxurious bungalow on his mountain retreat. A famous architect gave him a set of blueprints, and he sent them to the local handyman to execute. When he arrived at his place the following summer, however, he found that not a single brick of work had been done. 'I won't gonna throw away your good money,' the native explained. 'A lunatic musta driven up them blueprints to me mean, and country people, cupidors—on the floor, or free lunch on the counter.'

FAIR QUESTION
A group of serious-minded ladies in Providence, Rhode Island, staged a 'seance' recently. After the medium had impressed them all and with the usual display of table-cloth raising and floating harness, she announced that if anybody present would like to speak to the 'departed' she would be glad to do so. Mrs. Goldberg promptly declared that she would like to exchange a few words with her Uncle Mosha who had passed away in Pinsk the previous winter. After a considerable amount of bell-ringing, moaning, and off-stage humming, a voice announced distinctly, 'Hello, Sadie. It's Uncle Mosha.'

HOW CAN I?
Q. How can I remove oil stains from linoleum?
A. A tablespoonful of paraffin dissolved in turpentine, and a little linoleum helps to remove the stains and acts as a preservative for the linoleum.

It was more annoying than funny at the time, but looking back now, we find a certain degree of hilarity in the end of the Olympic Games. And of all things, the laughs were provided by the sombre Russians. When they were edged out on total points by United States athletes, on the standard scoring system, they strongly protested that it was unfair to score on the basis of the 'international' importance of the Olympic Games.

By nine Canadians out of ten today the name of Ned Hanlan is known to a great many people, but few know that he was a bigger athletic figure throughout Canada than 'Rocket' Richard is today in Montreal; and he, however, he found that not a single brick of work had been done.

From time to time the noted American author Samuel Hopkins Adams has been doing some reminiscing regarding the State of New York, particularly in and about Rochester. Adams has had a long and interesting career.

What especially intrigued us in the article was the part dealing with the famous stalling races between Hanlan and Courtney of Ontario.

ONE AT A TIME—Washington second baseman Floyd Baker shows to first, attempting a double play, after forcing out the sliding Johnny Mize of the New York Yankees. The play came in the third inning of the game at the Yankee Stadium, but the throw was too late to get the batter, Gil McGould.

CHRONICLE detected some very curious ebullience... William Blake, a former Harvard student, was agreed upon as referee. His was the only reputation which survived the event unimpaired.
