"Cold" gasped the man, "I've no cold. I'm allergic to dried apple flapjacks."

Blacksmith Shop Is Torn Down

The last trace of Peter Bank's Blacksmith Shop disappeared on Saturday afternoon. The building, which was a well-known landmark in Jarvis, has been torn down to make way for a new foundation. The building was built in 1910 and was one of the best examples of its kind in the town. It was owned by Peter Bank, who was a well-known blacksmith in the area. The building was in poor condition and had become a safety hazard. The town council has approved the demolition of the building and the construction of a new one. The new building is to be built on the same site and will be a modern blacksmith shop. It is expected to be completed by the end of the year.
