to build great new factories and machines on which her very future depends. If a depression comes along, we should produce more steel, not less. But private enterprise produces only what it can make profit on. The future of Britain is precarious, only Socialist planning will save it.

The foregoing is an example of Socialist self-contradiction. For six years the Labour Government had a free field for Socialist planning, and it failed to produce enough necessary goods for the home market because it could not make a profit on them. It was more profitable to produce "unnecessary things" for foreign markets, and those things got the "priorities." That may have been good policy under the circumstances, but it is contrary to Mr. Bevan's "Socialist religion."

As for the right-wing of the Labour Party, the bulletin quotes them as saying: "We still believe that only Socialism will save Britain and perhaps the world - in the future. We plan better and concentrate on efficiency first - we should not nationalize industries which are working efficiently."

But they did that with the very efficient Steel industries, which they now declare they will re-nationalize if they return to power.

ALAS, THE ROBIN

LIFE ADVANCES and many of the fond beliefs of childhood turn out to be delusions. Science, which casts an impartial eye on all beliefs, fond or otherwise, does much to eradicate them. But among the notions that linger are those about the weather or the seasons. The human mind yields with reluctance to insistence that such ideas can be wrong.

The latest loss we chronicle with regret is embodied in a story from Ottawa in which Mrs. William Vandebosch reported feeding a big fat robin in January's roe weather.

An official of the Canadian Wildlife Service supplied the following parable: "Robins often stay here throughout the winter," he said. "Cold means nothing to a bird as long as he has plenty of food."

With the robin toting on its pedestal we have only one or two hopes left for spring. Wonder what the groundhog will say next month?

SOMEONE MUST PAY FOR IT

MUCH IS CURRENTLY HEARD of a proposed general annual wage for a group of workers. Leaders of the steel and auto unions have pressed to write such a clause into this year's contracts. Despite all that is said pro and con about this proposal, the fact remains that somebody must pay for this new wage deal.

Who? And that somebody must be the public. If employers in the steel industry must set up a fund out of which to pay the wages of unemployed steel workers, the money for the fund will come from higher steel prices; and thousands of different things made from steel must also go up, however slightly.

Perhaps of even greater importance is the fact that if the price of steel goes up at the Canadian mills, manufacturing costs in the hundreds of other industries that use steel in their products will be pushed a little higher. Then the job of selling our manufactured goods at home or abroad, becomes a little more difficult. Employment in cities and towns far from the primary steel mills could suffer.

While steel is an important and growing industry in Canada, the number of persons directly employed in the mills is comparatively small. The cost of providing a guaranteed annual wage for this group may seem slight, but its potential effects are anything but slight.

WHERE IS THE CAPITAL?

By Joseph Lester Rutledge
EVERYONE knows that somebody must pay up the money to start the industries that provide the jobs and the wages by which we live. We incline to assume that this is some sort of natural force that emerges as the need arises, and that the money to implement its plans flows out of some unexplained "reservoir." It isn't generally assumed that anybody in particular has to provide it, or that he might need to be repaid for doing so.

Then the private income tax changed corporations plowing back earnings. The Corporation Income tax may be changing the growth in the future - individuals, corporations or government? That is one of the great issues of our times.

That is indeed a great issue. It determines whether we shall retain our freedom, and one that ourselves determine our destiny.

The new President of the Jarvis Board of Trade has already started to feel the organization some vitamin pills. He has called a meeting of the Board of Directors for tonight which will be the first time in many a moon the Directors will have been called on to perform their duties.

Congratulations to R-reve George W. Walker on his election as Sheriff of Hamilton County. Having seen so many television serials of life in Western Canada lately, with the Sheriff taking his six shooters, we couldn't help picturing East in our mind under the same circumstances. Some how or other we just couldn't picture the new Sheriff of Hamilton with a six shooter in his hand. That is not to suggest, however, he will not make a good Sheriff in this day and age.

Congratulations to Earl Catherwood on his appointment as Sheriff of Hamilton County. Having seen so many television serials of life in Western Canada lately, with the Sheriff taking his six shooters, we couldn't help picturing East in our mind under the same circumstances. Some how or other we just couldn't picture the new Sheriff of Hamilton with a six shooter in his hand. That is not to suggest, however, he will not make a good Sheriff in this day and age.

How many of us have developed a habit after buying a "dog" of first running through the paper, and then to the bottom of the pages before we start on our fair-weather articles? This procedure with a recent issue of the Management Review (U.S.A.) Scientist and engineers were engaged in research and development work last year, according to the American Council on Education. Of these 15,000 were doing basic research.

And, on the page directly opposite, we need education in the sciences more than investigation of the obsolescence of the old. It is certainly very true that we have tried at us two such contrary statements. The real argument whatever from either side, the answer is without delay to get on with it.

The striking excursions to Port Dover are coming back this year. Starting January 6th, the children numbered around 120. This is a tribute to the Lions Club and to Lundy & Henderson who made it possible for the boys and girls of the community to enjoy skating on artificial ice during the winter months. It will be a good thing if it would be wise to inaugurate this practice by 1954.

We had a terrific dream the other night. Sam Mott was killed by his fifteenth year. As publisher of the "Dover News" and there were nine public banquets was being given in his honour. Sam was reviewing the progress of Port Dover since he had started as a publisher. He usually had advanced from a Village to a town. The Mayor of the town was being published four times a week with the "Dover News". Mr. Mott said Sam "much has been done in 15 years-old Port Dover. The publishing business, I have just managed to complete. The "Dover News" is now in its 15th year. I intend to lay down my pen."

What causes dreams anyway? NEW C.N.E. APPOINTMENTS
The Board of Directors and Management of the Canadian National Exhibition announced the appointment of J. N. Perdue as the new manager of the C.N.E.'s Agricultural and Live Stock Department. "Jack" as Mr. Perdue is familiarly known, is a familiar exhibitor and patron. He was born in Clifton, Ontario, but moved at an early age to Thurston, Ont. He joined the Exhibition as a junior clerk in 1922. Perdue, veterinary surgeon, Jack had an early introduction to live stock and agricultural matters and soon graduated into the department of the C.N.E.'s activities.

Sam Foster, former manager of the department for the past 23 years, has reached the age of retirement but the C.N.E. Directors have decided to retain his services in an advisory capacity.

THE NATION GROWS
Growth of the Canadian population last the 15,000,000 mark in the course of last year is a notable accomplishment. Population is just catching up. It must grow at an accelerated rate if Canada is to occupy the position which the world is apparently quite willing to give territory which has been entrusted to us.

Cochrane (Ont.) Northland Post
Dr. H. L. Patterson spoke to the Jarvis Farmers here last Thursday evening. He told them there was little prospect of a good crop. He gave them some reasons to back his statement. (1) After effects of hoof and mouth disease have not worn off completely. (2) Beef cattle are now in a one-sided ratio. (3) Normal relation between crop population and human population becoming one-sided ratio.

He predicted a slow and steady upward trend in farm prices on a turn-outlook.

BRIEF NOTES FOR THE BUSY FARMER
By Halldmand Harry

Final figures on the marketing of hogs have just come in and they show that during December a total of 18,710 hogs were sold through inspected plants as compared with 33,922 during the same month of 1953. Of this number 532 or 2.84 per cent were in the top grade. This is about 3 1/2 per cent below the percentage of a grade hogs for December, 1953. Exactly the same picture shows up in too many 21's, too many 23's and too many heavy hogs.

The preliminary figures for the year 1953 now show that a total of 21,098 hogs were marketed by Halldmand producers which is a drop of 10,000 from the 31,098 that were sold during the previous year. The standpoint of quality there has also been a slight improvement. Earlier in the year the percentage of a grade hogs was up even as high as 35 per cent but during the latter half of the year this has dropped to a very low level. The percentage of a grade hogs in the year 1953 and this has brought the year's percentage down to 31.51 as compared with 32.62 for 1952.

This would indicate that Halldmand has still a good way to go both in the matter of quality and quantity of hog production. It was a bit of a surprise to learn recently that Halldmand was not being sold a surplus of hogs. After all, the Canadian delegates to the meeting of the Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick hog raisers in St. John's, Nfld., were hoping enough live stock and since they are one of the most efficient sources of grain the obvious conclusion is that any surplus should be keeping more hogs in Halldmand.

For instance, Waterloo County with a land area only slightly larger than Halldmand sold more than six times as many hogs in 1953 as were produced and sold by Halldmand. This is a situation which is not in the best interests of the hogs of the county.

The creamery production for Halldmand in November was down by almost 50,000 pounds from the same month, 1953. The figures are as follows: November 1953 - 1,043,724. On the basis of the accumulated total for the eleven months ending November 1953, Halldmand produced 11,234,821 lbs. as compared with 12,924,922 lbs. for the same period in 1952.

It is interesting to note recently that the Ontario Council of Milk Producers mentioned in a note of a letter to the Ontario Council of Milk Producers producing over 50,000 pounds of butter each month. The Ontario Council of Milk Producers is a body which is not mentioned in the present standing of the Senate does not tend to make the public feel that any useful purpose can be served by this body.
