hard to believe that it happens to everybody.

We especially liked one anonymous letter we received. It was short and to the point. The sender obviously isn't what he or she wanted to say, and it. The body of the letter contained only five words as follows: "Why don't you shut up?"

We think our readers will agree that if one ever has their claim shut it is when they are reading their mail. Some people, of course, do do several things at one time, but we have never developed the ability of reading and talking at the same time so naturally we were "shut up" when the message reached us. It can be seen, therefore, that the whole effort was a pure waste of time. We don't know whether it is the lot of newspaper editors only to receive anonymous letters but we do know we get a fair number and it is sender could have told us "shut up" to our face without half the trouble.

This week we have another anonymous letter from someone who signed "Jarvis Board of Trade". It obviously isn't from the Jarvis Board of Trade because the Jarvis Board of Trade letterheads we happen to know, are bound stock with embossed printing. This particular letter is written on what the E. B. Eddy Co. describes as the softest tissue known. We hope we will not injure the sensibilities of any of our readers by quoting from this epistle:

"On behalf of the Jarvis Board of Trade, we wish to express regret at your loss by fire of your out-house. We understand from your Insurance Brokers that due to lack of a roof on the out-house, it was not covered by your policy."

"Trusting that the Board of Trade good neighbour policy has replaced your loss with an all weather convenience to your satisfaction."

A Friend in Need.
A Friend in Deed.

Momentous events have been taking place in our back yard this past week, and we may have to make a further report on this matter.

Ah, another anonymous letter. This one confines itself to a newspaper clipping from the Globe & Mail. The clipping is headed "Assured Pasturization." The article was written by Ralph Symon, and there is a pencilled notation at the top of the article - "there is some good in a worst of us!" This is a tough one to figure out. Now if we happened to be a rabid Tory and an outspoken opponent of the late respected Mitchell F. Hepburn, we could understand the implication in this however, as the files of The Jarvis Record will prove, that the then Premier of Ontario earned our unlimited praise for his determination to make pasturization of milk compulsory in Ontario. Yes, we respect the memory of Mitch Hepburn for that one act and we can honestly say we have long since forgotten his inconsistencies in other directions.
