Haldimand county has enjoyed a few light showers but a fact that is too frequently overlooked is that those showers meant an increase of 4 to 5 per cent in the moisture content of the wheat crop that was moving to market. Previous to this rainfall the moisture was running anywhere from 12 per cent to 14 per cent and therefore no dockage. After the rain most of the samples were up to 15 per cent, 17 per cent and even 19 per cent. All this leads up to some consideration of mechanical drying of grain. There is information now available on this subject giving the results of a great deal of investigation. For instance it has been found that the volume of air required to dry ear corn is 5 to 10 cubic feet per minute per bushel. For sheiled corn this can be dropped to 3 to 4 cubic feet.

Creamery butter still represents the greatest portion of the total in the utilization of milk in Canada. According to figures recently released, 36.5 per cent of the total milk production went into the manufacture of butter. The next highest was, as might be expected, fluid sales which accounted for 31.2 per cent

WALTER FAMILY REUNION

On Thursday, August 26th, the Walter family held their annual reunion at the homestead farm, where Chas. Edmund Walter resides. Fifty members were present, coming from all parts of the province as well as the U.S.A.

The reunion took the form of a buffet supper served in the spacious dining room. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and the renewal of old acquaintances. The occasion also marked the birthday of Mrs. Ben Johnson.

Following the appointment of a County Assessor at the special meeting of County Council last Friday, Walpole Township promptly notified the County Clerk of their decision to withdraw their appeal which had been launched four weeks ago. Nevertheless a hearing will be held, probably in October, when it is anticipated the members of the Board will accept the withdrawal without further action.

E. F. Hall, of Cobourg, was the selection made by County Council for the position of Assessor, following a recommendation from a committee appointed a week ago. The committee consisting of George Walker, Jarvis, Chairman; Charles Lundy, Dunnville; Bain Monro, Cayuga; L. Baker, Canboro; Arley Laidman, Seneca; William Winegard, Caledonia; William Siddal, Sherbrooke and Kenneth Parkinson, Walpole, looked over thirty-three applications for the job on Monday night of last week. Eleven names were selected by the committee and each of these was asked to be personally present for an interview on Friday morning The interviews lasted for four hours before the committee finally decided to recommend Mr. Hall for the position. With very little discussion the recomendation was accepted. Mr. Hall will receive $3,500 a year plus 5c per mile for the use of his car for travel expenses.

T. R. Hunter, assessment supervisor of the Department of Municipal Affairs, was present for the interviews and lent his valuable experience to the committee in their deliberations. He congratulated the Council on choosing a County Assessor and assured them he would have the full support of the Department.

Walpole representatives on the Council expressed themselves as being gratified with the appointment of a County Assessor. Reeve Charles Cox is of the opinion the new assessor will bring in a new equalization next year which has long been overdue.

JARVIS 3 -- MOUNT HOPE 2

Ninth Inning Rally Gives Jarvis Victory Over Mount Hope Club

Timely Hits By Edwards, Miller And Nixon Provide Thrilling Climax To Game

Jarvis will meet Mount Hope on their home diamond on Friday night one game up in their best of three set in the Intermediate "B" play-offs. Going into the ninth innings last night down one run the locals came through with three consecutive hits which scored the two necessary runs to bring home a win. Mount Hope again threatened to tie it in the last half but Edwards proved to be master of the situation and retired the side with a strike-out.

Although Edwards issued two free passes in the opening innings, the side was retired without scoring. The second innings also opened badly for the locals with C. Guyatt going to first when the third pitch got away from Phillips. He was advanced when Dickenson went to first when hit by a pitched ball and Guyatt scored on Bate's grounder to Kelly. Jarvis threatened to even the score in the third when Phillips pounded out a double but was left stranded when Glen Lamb popped out to short. Mount Hope added another in the third when Hyslop scored after a series of errors. From there in, however, Edwards settled down to take command of the game and was never again seriously threatened from a scoring standpoint. Jarvis tasted first blood in the fourth when Kelly went to first on an error. Edwards grounded to short to force Kelly at second. Gordy Miller came through with a timely double to send Edwards across the plate. The score stood at two to one for Mount Hope until the ninth when a single by Edwards, a triple by Gordy Miller and a single by Bob Nixon brought in two runs to win the game.

Excitement ran high in the fourth inning when Kelly attempting to make home, leaped high over the catcher's head who was waiting for him with the ball. Umpiring vehemently against the decision when the umpire called him out, resulted in Meehan's banishment from the game. It was reported that the catcher later admitted he completely missed the red head in his spectacular leap which was unexpected).

The game here on Friday night is expected to attract over a thousand fans. It promises to be one of the most exciting games of the season in the local park.

Walpole Drops Appeal After County Assessor Appointed

Federation Facts - -

— By Everett Daboll —

Farmers in all the wheat producing counties in Ontario are quite concerned these days with the low price that mills are paying for their winter wheat.

For this reason the Ontario Wheat Producers have plans completed for a Wheat Marketing scheme, and are now planning meetings to discuss the scheme with producers locally.

Wheat growers are being called together to ascertain, once and for all, whether or not the principle of Board Marketing for Ontario wheat, under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act will meet with majority approval.

A meeting of this nature was held at the Youth Centre, Kohler, on Tuesday evening, August 24. There was a good representation of wheat producers from all parts of Haldimand County and several present from Norfolk as well.

John Turnbull acted as chairman and started the meeting on its way, by explaining some of the outlying reasons for the need of the marketing scheme for the orderly marketing of wheat.

Hugh Metler of Welland who is the zone representative for the surrounding counties as well as our own gave further explanation of the setup. He stated that "the bulk of the Ontario wheat is grown in the south western part of the province, and the zones are divided according to the amount of wheat grown the year of the 1951 census."

Howard Craise of Lincoln County was then called upon to give a rundown of the procedure to be taken. He told us that the purpose of the meeting at this time was to educate the farmers concerning the matter at hand and to circulate a petition to be signed that asked for a right to vote on a Marketing Scheme under the Farm Products Marketing Act.

This petition needs a minimum of 10 per cent of signatures of farmers who grow and sell wheat. This will be sent to the Minister of Agriculture who will in turn set up a system of voting for the scheme which must secure a 66 2/3 majority of the votes of the eligible voters if the scheme is to be had.

Mr. Craise who has had over seven years of experience with marketing schemes, explained in much detail, the benefits derived. In particular, through such a producer marketing board would be elected consisting of seven persons, one from each of the seven zones. It would have to negotiate the price of wheat with the buyers, allowing a fair margin of profit for both the farmers and the buyers.

It was the wish of those present at the meeting that the County Federation of Agriculture through its Township Federations, circulate the petitions and publicize systematically the entire scheme.

Before leaving the subject, I might leave a few figures for you to ponder, and maybe you will realize of what benefit, financially, this scheme could mean to you personally.

There are approximately 2,000 wheat growers in Haldimand County, and lets suppose that each farmer produces five hundred bushels of wheat for the mill at ($1.10). (This amounts to 1 000,000 bushels). However, the Wheat Marketing Board has set the price at $1.20 and it was accepted by the buyers as a fair price two weeks in advance. This puts the difference only ($1.-10) is violating the Act and is liable for a fine if it accepts wheat and doesn't pay ($1.30) for it, to the Marketing Board.

Turning back to the amount of wheat produced you will find that there is quite a difference in a million bushels at ($1.10) and a million bushels at ($1.30). That (.20c) means a (200,000) to every farmer, which is the cream, without it he is only receiving the skimmed portion. So, let's all pull together and do everything in our power to improve the wheat situation in Haldimand County.

Ottawa AS I SEE IT

by John A. Charlton, M.P. for Brant-Haldimand

To the onlooker, the job of Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons must seem to be one of the easiest posts imagineable. Just before the House opens each day he may be seen leading the Speaker procession which makes its formal way from the Speaker's apartments to the House. There he lays the big, gilt and silver mace he carries on the table, and retires to a little desk of his own where he waits patiently for some member to create a physical disturbance in the Chamber. When that happens the member is called on what to do with the recalcitrant. Since there has not been such a disturbance in the living memory, the formal functions of the Sergeant-at-Arms leave him lots of time for other jobs, and these he has acquired in large measure.

Perhaps the easiest way to describe these other functions is to say that he is also the housekeeper and chief manager of the mechanical operation of the Commons. Some 360 people work for him, including the cleaners, guards and protective staff and the messengers. He supervises the purchasing department, the Parliamentary Restaurant and the pages, as well as carpenters, upholsterers, locksmith, electricians and other mechanical trades. Almost as a sideline, he keeps an eye on the barber shop and massage parlor — the latter an essential detail like the elevator operators.

No one seems quite certain as to when the position of Sergeant-at-Arms originally came into being, but it is known that over 300 years ago in England he was a recognized figure in Parliament. As the disciplinarian of the House, his fore-runners must often have had busy times, for fist-fights and physical combat as well as refusal to follow the Speaker's rulings, were by no means unknown in those early days. The Mace, now a magnificent example of the jeweller's art, was then a genuine club with a strictly utilitarian purpose, and he was the policeman who enforced Mr. Speaker's rulings when the members refused to obey orders. Another aspect of the work, which still theoretically exists today, was to enforce attendance at Parliament of anyone the House wished to appear for purposes of questioning.

The man who holds the position in our Parliament today is Lt.-Col. William John Franklin, an erect and soldierly figure who looks quite capable of dealing in the properly appointed manner with all but a few emergencies should the need arise, although he might need help in subduing hockey-player Bucko McDonald and ex-boxer George Hees, and one or two others. Col. Franklin obtained his military honours the hard way, enlisting as a private in the Stormont Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and emerging from World War 1 after overseas service, as a Captain. Between wars he commanded various units and worked in the Department of Finance, at Ottawa. Finally, after five years in the permanent force in the second World War, he assumed his present post in 1945.

One of the big tasks of the group under his direction is the care of the thousands of visitors who come to Ottawa each year to see Parliament in action, or just to visit the Parliament Buildings. In 1953, for example, such guests numbered 293,783, sometimes reaching a peak in summertime of five thousand a day. Met at the door by uniformed men from the protective staff, who have been carefully selected and informed for the work, guests are taken in groups around the building and the various features explained to them. Most of the questions asked by visitors are about the same, but one guard to whom I talked had been stumped — twice — once by the person who, when told the magnificently decorated ceiling of the House of Commons was painted on linen, asked "How often do you take down the ceiling to wash it ?" and once by an architect who wanted to know how many rolls of paper were used in the preparation of the plans for the Parliament Buildings.

The authority of the red-coated Mounties who patrol the grounds of the building stops at the door; inside, their own Parliamentary guards are supreme, keeping a 24-hour vigil over all happenings and screening out the occasional crackpot, who out of curiosity or because he wants to get up in the gallery and make a speech, or establish a pocket line in the lobby.

Starting at 8.00 A.M. the cleaners vacuum, dust and tidy up the 400 odd offices and meeting rooms in our building, so that no matter how disreputable we leave them, they are shining again when we arrive for work next day.

International conferences, and state visits to Ottawa are a particular concern of the Sergeant-at-Arms whenever the parties concerned visit

BRIEF NOTES FOR THE BUSY FARMER

— By Haldimand Harry —

This is a good time of year to have your soil tested. At least it is a good time to take soil samples. The ground is dry and the samples will not require any preparation before sending in for test. The importance of soil testing cannot be overestimated. The tests are so devised as to measure soil fertility levels so that proper treatments can be recommended. The samples must be properly taken, however, if they are to give the right information. They must be representative of the soil in the field or the treatment that is recommended may not give the desired results

-oOo-

Soil testing service in Ontario is free. All that is necessary is to contact your Agricultural Represent ative and secure the necessary soil boxes and complete instructions for the taking of the samples and forward them either direct to the Soils Department, O.A.C., Guelph, or bring them to the Department of Agriculture office at Cayuga. The questionnaire on the back of the instruction sheet should be filled out in order that a proper recommendation may be given.

-oOo-

All this brings up the importance of liming on Haldimand clay soils. As has been pointed out so often in this column, just about 85 per cent of the soils in Haldimand would be the better for a generous application of agricultural limestone so the average farmer can be assured that from 8 to 9 chances out of 10 his soil will need lime if he has not already applied some. This is a good time of year to do this job too. The fields are dry and firm so that the lime trucks and spreaders can get on them and the material handles very much easier in a dry condition.

-oOo-

There is, of course, only one sure way of knowing if your soil needs lime and that is to have it tested. When a soil is being tested in the ordinary way the lime test is included and the report will show whether lime is needed or not. It is estimated that about 200,000 acres of farm land in Haldimand should be limed and during the past 10 years not more than 10 per cent of that has even been touched. Instead of 3,000 to 4,000 tons of lime per year being applied in Haldimand there should be not less than 20,000 tons even to give the minimum application of one ton per acre and to cover the county in ten years.

-oOo-

Some questions have been asked about the safety of using crops from fields that have been treated for armyworms. This is not of any great importance in Haldimand since outbreaks here were not large. The best information so far seems to be that where corn is involved there is no danger whatsoever as more than a month will have elapsed from the time of the treatment to the time of harvest. In the case of sweet corn there is no residue problem as no spray or dust could contact the developing kernels.

-oOo-

In the case of spring grain, all the insecticides used were types that were not absorbed by the sap of the plant and hence no difficulty should be experienced. The grain itself could not be contaminated as it is protected by the glume or husk. As for the straw which might be used as feed or bedding more care would have to be exercised. Where alsike or DDT were used, at least three weeks should elapse before fed or stored loose in the barn. If dieldrin was used it would be better to wait until the winter or early spring before using the straw.

Schools Reopen September 7th

The official school opening date is September 7th, the Tuesday following Labour Day. This was announced recently by Donald Young, Inspector of Public Schools for Haldimand County. Any uncertainty regarding the time of school opening is thus cleared up and parents may prepare their children for school following the Labour Day week-end.

Although pupils and teachers have not had so long a summer vacation as last year, the date of the school opening is only one day short of last year's date.

Public School Teachers Meeting

All public school teachers of Haldimand County will meet in the Rural Youth Centre, Kohler, at 2. P.M. on September 7th. Teachers will register pupils, distribute books and supplies, and begin the class work of the new term during the morning of their schools. The pupils will be dismissed at 12. o'clock noon, thus permitting teachers to meet in the afternoon. The opening morning of school, however, is very important, and all pupils should be on hand for a prompt beginning of the new term's work.

The practice of bringing teachers together on the opening day of school is not a new one, and has long been used in many parts of Ontario. New daily registers and report cards will be distributed to teachers on the opening day of school.

Following the general meeting of teachers, the members of the Dunnville Home and School Association will hold a tea, at which new staff members will be introduced.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE OFFICERS TO MEET AT KOHLER

All elementary school attendance officers of Haldimand County will meet in the Rural Youth Centre at Kohler at 1.30 P.M., September 7th Mr. McLeod, Provincial School Attendance Officer, will address the meeting. The duties of school attendance officers have become rather more complex in recent years, so that the help of Mr. McLeod will undoubtedly be appreciated by the men performing these important duties. New land books on instructions and forms will be distributed to attendance officers at the Kohler meeting.
