mit that a three-months-old marriage was a mistake. If your husband is being honest agreeing, that should confirm it. Your friends will assume the "I told-you-so" attitude, but facing that is preferable to living with a man who does not want to stay married. Perhaps, however, your husband's dissatisfaction is only temporary, or a gesture of hurt vanity. Why don't you two decide to separate for a * few months? Go out of town, perhaps travel. Later, you will both know your true feel-* ing for each other, and may even want to try again. * Should your husband cling to his present opinion, that will * be time enough to set him Should this happen, and if the other man was as sincere as he seemed, he will learn of your being divorced and seek you out. If he does, go slow; this time you really must be certain. Insisting upon a long period to consider a third marriage will convince him that you intend to know your own heart, and it will also diminish any disparaging gossip that might arise. Time is your best ally now and later. You are young enough to take all you need, and I trust that you will.

When found nobody really wants it - most people in the country have a cat or dog of their own. If a child finds it, the little animal is lucky Then someone out of pity feeds the "stray" - and then it is theirs to keep. We have one such cat at the barn right now. We think there is something abnormal about it, as all it does is drink milk and sleep. Partner never sees it watching for mice s the other cats do. Nothing could be more desirable for your wee son or daughter - children should have pets - but a pet needs food, training and kindness. If, in all good faith, you do allow Johnny or Mary to have a kitten or a pup, and then unforseen circumstances arise which makes it impossible for you to keep it, do remember the Humane Society or your local 'vet' is ready to help you in just such an emergency. Quaker Humor

Even Quakers can be crochety. and Uncle William, during a long and cantankerous lifetime, had abused the privilege. Now he was being laid to rest, and an atmosphere of strain pervaded the cathering. At last an elder phere of strain pervated the gathering. At last an elderly mourner spoke up: "Well, there's one good thing thee can say about William. He wasn't always about william. as mean as he was sometimes.

ried, a Quaker spinster explained: "It takes a mighty good husband to be better than none."

A wealthy landowner, passing by a fine-looking farm, was startled to see a sign on it: "I will give this land to anyone who is truly content." Recovering from his surprise, he thought, "Well, I have everything I need, so I ought to be well qualified. I think I'll apply." Accordingly, he knocked on the door of the owner of the tract, an elderly Quaker, and explained "And thee is truly content?"

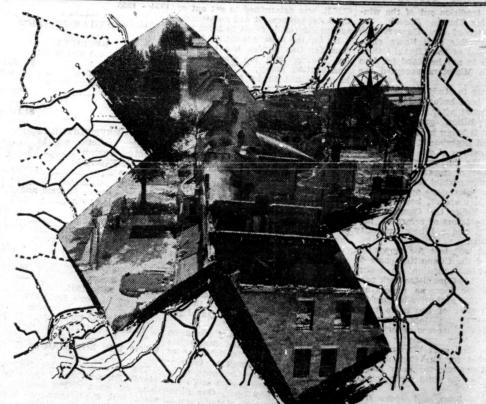

queried the Quaker. "Indeed I am. There is nothing more that I desire." "In that case, Friend," countered the Quaker, "what does thee want with my land?"

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

This is more than a little belated to rank as live news, but it's high time to recognize, even at this late date, the bril-liant feats of a group of Canadian marks-men and markswomen, in the year of 1954.

The English Match—30 shots at 50 metres and 30 shots at 100 metres—was the first world championship event scheduled in the 1954 meet at Caracas. Shooting a perfect 300 at 50 metres, Canada's Gilmour Boa tied with Boris Pereberin of Russia in the first half of the event. Here is where experience

Russia in the first hair of the event. Here is where experience told—not just experience in shooting but experience in winning, and chilled-steel nerve as well. While the Russian dropped five points at 100 metres, Gil in front of a large gallery of spectators, dropped only two points to finish with a total of 598, two points greater than the previous world record. Gold, silver and bronze medals and badges came the way of this Canadian with the steady hand, the keen eyes, right through the tempty.

Boa's world title win was a climax to a collossal year for

The Canadian team in the Lord Dewar Match and the Mayleigh Cup Match placed second in both these events. The City of Calgary took top place in the 1954 Empire Cities Match for the second straight year. The ladies of the Calgary Rifle Club, representing the Province of Alberta, were Canada's only entry in this annual competition. The team total of 1,978 was four points higher than the second place team representing the State of Michigan.

And not only with the rifles did Canada's marksmen excel. Vern Thornborrow of Hamilton, Ontario, achieved trapshooting fame by capturing the preliminary handicap event at the Grand American. He is the first Canadian to win this title. He was competing against a field of 1,729 shooters.

A national skeet title came to Canada for the first time

Mr. and Mrs. Bill O'Brien of Montreal outshot all competitions at the National Skeet shoot at Waterford, Michigan, to capture the open "husband-and-wife" skeet crown.

Feats like these, we believe, are entitled to more generous recognition than they received, and this column is happy to do its share towards that end.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.
