WHERE'S THE PART, DADDY? - Carefully wielding her comb, two-year-old Irene Hudson beautifies the newly grown beard of her father, Chief Engineer Dannie B. Hudson, after he arrived in New York aboard the cargo ship Towle. The Towle was engaged in Operation Deepfreeze in the Antarctic.

* me?" you can remind her that

I've been dating nearly six months is a nice boy in every way, and so far as I know he has no bad habits. He is kind and thoughtful, and very attentive, but I just can't help thinking of a former boy I like so much more! I went with him for two years, and he kept on drinking although often he promised he would stop. Now he has called me up again, and of course my family won't allow me to see him They admire the boy I'm going with, and of course I don't want to hurt him, but really I'd have much better times with the one I used to know. What do you think? UNHAPPY

For years and years I have warned young girls against dating any boy who drinks. * Not only does it weaken the * morals, but the girl gets herself talked about unpleasantly. And surely you don't want to appear so unpopular that you can only date a weak charac-* ter? That doesn't recommend * you to responsible young men * who might become interested. hope so. But wage-earners have their problems too — which may ultimately benefit the farmer. For instance one young boy worked on a farm for a year and then decided he could make more money in an industrial plant. Now that same plant is laying off men and the young fellow in question went to the farm where he had previously worked and asked for his job back again. Another instance concerns two brothers. One stayed on the farm, the other quit, thinking he could make $50 a day trucking. He soon found himself in the red and unwillingly admitted that his brother on the farm made more money than he did with his truck.

A well-known scientist and traveller is to conduct further experiments with water from the "Lake of Life," following the amazing sequel to his bathe recently in an inland waterway. The no-longer-young bather spent an hour in the water and Something Will Like It Almost regardless of location there are some flowers which will grow. For rough spots or alopes one can make a rock garden and grow the special little plants that are listed in any seed catalogue. As a rule these tiny rock garden plants like shallow and dryish soils. Many of them originally came from

For dark shady corners there are things like begonias, lily of the valley, pansies, and such that will thrive there. At the opposite end of the scale are portulac poppies, alyssum and so on that delight in the hottest sunshine, will stand drought and are not particular at all whether the soil is rich. There are certain things that must be in a dry location and others that don't mind getting their feet wet. There are some that are exceptionally hardy and bloom after the frost. And, there is, of course, a wide range in colour and height and time of blooming.

Any seed catalogue will list all these preferences and differone can go ahead and fit plants to any location and also create a garden that will be interesting and full of bloom from June until October.

Lawn Needs Attention, Too! Not even a hay field will thrive without some care and for a really good lawn, soft and thick like a piece of broadloom, the same attention must be given as with a flower bed or a prize patch of vegetables. Good seed is of vital importance. Except for special purposes such as putting or bowling greens, mixtures of several fine gresses are used. Some of these grasses come along quickly, some do best late in the season, some have richer colour and so on. These are blended together to produce uniformity of texture and colour thoroughout the season and for various regions of Canada. Seeding hould be done early, before the hot weather, or after it in the

Before sowing, of course, the ground must be made level and fine. If possible, it is best to cultivate several times at intervals of a week or ten days so that any filled in portions of the ground will get a chance to set-tle. This pre-seeding cultivation will also encourage any weeds to sprout and the more of these destroyed before the grass goes in the easier the care afterwards.
