New Upper Plate From Deer Teeth Roused Interest

Prominence gained by making his own upper plate from the teeth of a buck deer has changed Francis Wharton of Kamloops, B.C., from a shy backwoodsman into a public speaker.

Mr. Wharton told members of the Kamloops Fish and Game Association that when he got out of the bush and started living with people again he had to loosen his tongue.

Trouble is, I loosened it at both ends and now I can't stop talking. Sometimes I'm sorry I came out. I've had comments from as far as Birmingham, England, and the Southern States.

"I'm an individualist, Mr. Wharton lived in the bush for many years 'till an Indian."

"I tanned my hides, made my clothes and lived with the animals. I don't know how to do anything else. That was the happiest time of my life."

"I've cut my own hair since I was 15."

He said his inventions, principally gun improvements, have been ignored or laughed at by the experts.

He had made a telescopic "peep-sight" gun for the local game. He had made pieces of plastic skipping rope, a valve from a ball-bearing part and a bushing. "I can see a .22 calibre bullet-hole at 50 yards through it."

He made an electric generator from an old automobile engine 17 years ago and it's still functioning.

The backwoods Edison talked of several other inventions, gave a bit of his life history and suggested changes in the game laws.

"Hunting and fishing are for the true sportsman," he said. "There's nothing like the thrill of being where nature makes the rules."

Princeton — On a new life in the second period and Jarvis had a let-down. The result was the Princeton was leading 2-1 at the end of the period. At this point things looked good for the local cause. However, Conn. Hazlett and "Clan" Miller must have given the boys some vitamin pills before they came out for the third and final frame. They met the onslaughts of their opponents and tipped the scales in their own direction and added a pair of goals to give them a 3-1 victory. Unless we are mistaken, this was just about everybody that attended the Monday night game in Port Dover will be in attendance for the second game of this round in the Woodstock Arena. It was played last night after this paper was put to bed. If a third game is necessary on Thursday or Friday night of this week.

Barrie Oldster Dies

The oldest citizen of Barrie died at the age of 104. Leonard Ed-wards Mills, who died in hospital at the age of 104, was a native of Picton and has lived at Barrie with his wife since giving up a general store at Shan-ville seven years ago. He had operated the business for 47 years. Mr. Mills prepared his own breakfast each day and enjoyed walks and boating until shortly before his death.

Vanishing Monocle

The monocle, once the badge of the career diplomat, has largely disappeared from the capitals of the world.

Its history extends back to the origin of glass in ancient Egypt. It emerged in the form of a single eye-glass in the late Middle Ages when a man learned to hone glass concavely so it would magnify. It was used only for a brief period as a medical aid and after development of the frame rim now used in spectacles it became a mere ornament. It was an effective ornament and had a subtle use that under the Ontario Farm Marketing Act. From this distance it would appear quite possible that the present association has done a pretty good job. Of course, we are comparing the back concessions of Norfolk now with what was in the early twenties. It would appear to us that orderly prosperity was brought to the Tobacco Growers in general and it is to be hoped that the present upsurge will not destroy a system that has a pretty favorable record behind it.

Flavourful Fish

It's Lent, and the meatless days have probably already seen housewives tussling with cook books and searching for new ways to serve fish. The federal fisheries department offers a flavor touch that might make all the difference in the world to that waiting smelt. Melt two tablespoons of butter and stir in one-eighth of a teaspoon of dried mustard. Drizzle the melted butter over a pound of breaded smelt and bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes.

For a new and quickly prepared luncheon or supper dish, the fisheries department suggests a French-toasted salmon sandwich.

One thing to remember about planning a fish main course is that color and texture contrasts are important, and a crisp accompaniment such as a raw salad, salad or crusty bread help promote good eye-appeal by bringing the family bustling the table and later leaving their platters clean.

Wesley United W.M.S.

The W.M.S. of Wesley United Church met at the home of Mrs. Alan Lundy on Tuesday, March 19th, with Mrs. S. Doughty, March 19th. Lundy took the devotion "The Whole Armor of God" and the Scripture was read by Mrs. H. Wood. The program was presented by Mesdames Leonard and Stire in the form of a dialogue and Malay and Thai-land were the two South East Asian countries studied.

A discussion followed concerning plans for the Easter meeting, to be held April 16th, at the home of Mrs. A. S. Bilgic, when Mrs. J. M. Veldt, a missionary home on furlough from New Guinea, will be the guest speaker. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

On the Farm Front

By Hausmann Harry

Practically all of the counties in Old Ontario will be under the new eliosat 1956 by the time this column is being read. Another 19 whole counties are to be under the new eliosat supervised areas on April 1st of this year. In addition there are 19 more counties to be supervised between May 1st and November 30th of the same year.

A slight change has been made in the time to come in saying "What mean these stones?" There shall ye let your children know, saying, Israel came over this Jordan on a dry land . . . (Joshua 4:21, 22).

FARM FORUM ROUNDUP

The Farm Forum Roundup of 1957 was held at the Rural Youth Centre, Kohler, on Monday, March 25. There were about 75 Forum members and friends in attendance.

The speaker, Mrs. Edith Store, secretary-manager, Ontario Farm Forum spoke about the farm forum movement in Ontario. She emphasized how the findings of the forum were used. The topic "What's Next in Co-op?" was used by the United Co-operatives of Ontario. The Ontario Hog Producers Association held the results of the forum discussions in their studies. The opinions of many people are required in order to know what the majority of the people think.

Mrs. Store also mentioned that people from other countries and other parts of the Commonwealth are studying our farm forum program. The speaker also suggested that the findings of the forum should be reported at the annual meeting in Toronto, early in April.

In closing Mrs. Store showed slides of a folk school and of the recent Provincial Rural Leadership Forum held at Pridhammes Garden Centre at Vineland.

Keith Richardson, fieldman for the Federation of Agriculture, spoke briefly concerning an amendment to the Farm Products Marketing Act. Mrs. Store presented the attendees with a list of Junior Farmers to be added to the Ontario Farm Forum for having the largest representation.

The Cranston Forum Trip supplied vocal entertainment that was enjoyed by all. A trio of Junior Farmers performed a major "operation."

Mrs. Eleanor Saracuse of the Community Progress Branch, Department of Education, Toronto, led the group in a spirited song and recitation of the words of the program. Mr. Joe McBride, Simcoe Local, presented a lively square dance.

Mr. John Young, chairman of the Farm Forum Committee was chairman for the evening.

Who Was the Cape Breton Giant?

The Cape Breton giant was Angus McAskill, a semi-legendary figure of tremendous size and strength who died at St. Anne's, Cape Breton, in 1863. Accounts of McAskill's visit to Great Britain and his presentation to Queen Victoria are apocryphal. According to one story, he was mortally injured while lifting a 2,100-lb. anchor in his shoulder. At maturity he was reputed to be seven feet, nine inches tall and to weigh more than 400 pounds. He was credited with such feats of strength as single-handedly lifting enormous logs and drawing ploughs and wagons loaded with iron. In 1849 he went to Cape Breton. He invested his earnings in a store and several farms.

Who Was Made?

Mafoe was a legendary Welsh Prince said to have discovered America about 1170. An Ontario village situated 50 miles east of Peterborough in the centre of a mining, lumbering and mixed farming area was named for him.

Where Is the World's Largest Raft?

The world's largest raft is the floating community of Holberg, B.C., situated at the head of Holberg Bay, on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island. It is a quarter-mile long, although in the centre of Vancouver Island the Alaska Pine and Cellulose Company has the first units were towed into place in 1942.

Who Made the Discovery on Which the Canadian Radium Industry Was Built?

The momentous discovery of Pitchblende was made in 1898 in the Great Bear Lake district by Gilbert A. LeLima, a prospector who was born in Westmeath, Ont., in 1850. He had been associated with the discovery of the Halls' Mine and Kirland Lake regions. He became president of Eldorado Gold Mines and largest radium refinery in the world and the only one of its kind in the British Commonwealth.

There were 250,000 industrial accidents in Ontario last year. The Industrial Accident Prevention Association, Toronto, said compensation payments resulted in 10,000 of these cases. Thirty per cent of the accident total involved the mis-use of materials, the association said. The organization holds its annual meeting in Toronto April 8-9.

The Disgruntled Nations

By Lewis Milligan

"United Nations" is a good name, but it is a misnomer. From its very beginning the component nations were divided politically into at least two irreconcilable ideologies, with Communist Russia and her satellites on the one hand and the "Free Nations" on the other. Both parties, however, agreed to disagree on national politics, but they were united in their desire for world peace, after having suffered the horrors and privations of two world wars. They verbally decided that "it must never happen again. As a token of sincerity, Britain and the United States demobilized their fighting forces and turned their armaments to a minimum on the assumption that Russia would do the same.

But Stalin and his associates had their own idea of world peace; it was to be a Communist World, planned and governed by them and their successors in Moscow. Had they not planned and governed such a world in the vast domain of the United Soviet Socialist Republics with their 200 millions of submissive people, why not extend their Utopian rule to the whole world? Eastern Europe was already communized and China was rotten-ripe for picking. Britain was preparing to pull out of India and Egypt—chiefly at the West's insistence—and the United States and the Far and Middle East were as good as "in the bag." With the Western World disarmed and Russian military forces intact, who or what could stop them?

Sure, they would join the United Nations to disunite them, which they proceeded to do. It provided them with a world-platform and a sounding-board for Communist propaganda, but it did not extend their Utopian rule to the whole world. It was permission to veto any decision they did not like. That provision rendered the proceedings of the United Nations futile and farcical, for no matter what was decided, the minority could override the will of the majority—which was quite in keeping with the Communist version of "democracy." Andrei Vihvinsky, the clever and crooked lawyer who sent hundreds of his associates to the firing squad in the Grand Purge of 1937, was appointed chief spokesman for the Soviet Union in the world-wide news services.

Meanwhile Soviet spies were operating through consular offices in Canada and the United States. Moscow-financed Communist parties were organized and entering into local and national politics, dominating trade unions and openly spreading their propaganda through public meetings in the United States and Membership in the United States of provided Soviet delegates and their inside information which was registration of Suez.
