

ANNE HIRST

Your Family Counselor

"Dear Anne Hirst: Please help me! A couple of lady friends were good to me as a child, when they lived in another city and took me for school vacations, etc. I appreciate it, and don't want to hurt them, but now they live in my town and have taken over my life completely! My husband and I cannot move without them; they expect us to be visiting them or bringing them to our house continually. We don't have a Sunday to call our own — and they go along with us on our vacations, practically demanding this."

"Now my husband has rebelled. He says he is tired of all this, and that we're too young to be chumming with them. They're in their 30's, he's in his 30's. How can I tell them? It seems so mean! If only they'd be satisfied with every other Sunday, it would help; I've suggested that, but I feel guilty. This is the only argument between my husband and me."

"Our vacation is not too far off, and my husband insists he is not going to take them with us. How can I get out of it and keep peace all around? Sometimes I feel they have a rope around my neck and just keep pulling!"

"We also have my parents to watch over and try to keep happy; they have no car, either. How can I get out of it and cling to the way these two relatives do. If you can help even a little, I'd be most grateful."

ABNORMAL UNFAIR
This situation is all wrong; it is neither normal nor fair. It should not have continued after your marriage for weekends, holidays and vacations belong to you and your husband. By including others in your leisure, you have cheated yourselves of peace and quiet which all married couples need. Also, you should have been mingling with your own friends. The two elderly ladies should have cultivated contemporary friends of their own, and found outlets for their time and energy.

"I just cannot see," said a newly-wed wife to her husband, as they gazed in a furniture shop window, "how they make all that furniture out of those crinkly little walnut."

"can be done. Overcome your feeling of guilt. It is proper that you be grateful for your friends' past hospitality, but that does not imply that you must spend the rest of your life proving your gratitude. Be thankful that your husband wants a life of his own and with his wife, whose chief interest is keeping her husband happy in his own way."

MON WOULD REMARRY
"Dear Anne Hirst: I am undecided about marrying an old friend of my deceased husband. My two son live with me; one will soon have a home of his own, and the other one is popular that I expect he'll be snatched up in a year or two. They are grand boys, and I would not do anything to disturb their happiness."

"Do you think my boys will understand how much I want a life of my own? My husband and I had a wonderful marriage, and I do miss the companionship of a man my own age. But if the boys object, I wouldn't go ahead. If I remarry, the man will move in with me and my sons."

LONELY
I wish I could have printed your whole letter. You have been a wonderful friend to your sons, more like a contemporary than an elder, and you have made a fine life for all of you. You say they admire the man who wants to marry you, and he is congenial and understanding.

When you tell the boys, be sure to add that if they do not like the idea, you will not marry anybody. But I expect they will tell you to go ahead, and welcome the man warmly.

When two people marry, it should be the aim of each to keep the other happy. Any other responsibilities should come second to that supreme desire.

NEWEST CROCHET
A handsome set for modern and traditional homes! Simple filet crochet, with K stitch sets off the design so effectively.

Make chair or buffet set, scarf and Pattern 568. Chair, directions for chairback 12 x 16 inches, armrest 6 1/2 x 12 in. No 50 cotton.

Send THIRTY-FIVE CENTS (stamps cannot be accepted; use postal note for safety) to Laura Wheeler, Box 1, 123 Eighteenth St., New Toronto, Ont. Print plainly PATTERN NUMBER, your NAME AND ADDRESS.

Our gift to you — two wonderful patterns for yourself, your home — printed in our Laura Wheeler Needlecraft Book. Plus dozens of other new designs to order — crochet, knitting, embroidery, iron-ons, novelties. Send 25 cents for your copy of this book NOW — with gift patterns printed in it.

CAPITAL GAIN—Cologne, West Germany, lent shopily Hildgard Kuehn to the capital city of Bonn for the competition and select entries for the "Miss Germany" beauty contest. The 20-year-old "lend-lease" beauty won the "Miss Bonn" title. A former student, she was reacquainted in last year's contest.

BROKEN BUBBLES—Someone's always taking the joy out of life and across too strong, above, is no exception. In a New York rehearsal she demonstrates how a girl takes a bubble both on the screen, just cover up the bottom half of the picture.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM
by Gwendoline P. Clarke

Sunshine . . . bright, warm, beautiful sunshine. Is there anything that contributes more to a person's outlook and well-being — especially if you are out in it? But that's the trouble, there is so much to do indoors, and because the ground is still very wet we don't have any real excuse for getting outside to work. No excuse at all, so there is only one thing to do, just get outside if we want to and enjoy it, no matter what. Right now, before the weeds start to grow, is a good time for making discoveries — and I think I made a discovery yesterday. I am not sure but I appear to have four geraniums that have survived the winter. The stalks are rotted but coming up from the roots there are small healthy branches with clusters of little leaves. They are on the south side of the house well protected from north-west winds. If they are geraniums it is on account of good luck and mis-management. Last fall I did not clean up this particular bed on account of good luck and not so pleasing. The rabbits really went to town on my shrubs. They even nibbled branches from the geraniums. We never have done anything in the way of prevention but I suppose we shall have to if we are going to have so many more livestock around. It is disheartening to leave good healthy shrubs in the yard and find them about half their proper size in the spring. But then, the poor little rabbits have to live on the grass and they would take to the woods or feed on wild shrubs.

The nice weather last week brought us a full quota of visitors. In fact we had a very busy week. One day I took a visitor on an exploring trip about twenty miles from here. I wonder how many of us miss the lovely walks and drives that lie close to populated areas. How many do you know? If you want a nice drive where do you go? We are only now beginning to find our way around to the beautiful spots that lie just beyond the highways. The village we visited is less than eighteen miles from Toronto. We drove down the highway, and in a couple of miles and found a lovely country district with a

Send FORTY CENTS (40¢) (stamps cannot be accepted; use postal note for safety) for this pattern. Please print plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS AND STYLE NUMBER.

Send order to ANNE ADAMS, Box 1, 123 Eighteenth Street, New Toronto, Ont.

AT LAST—A GIRL—What a childhood awaits Mary Pat Ryan. She's already the pet of the Harry household, and she has just arrived home from the hospital with her mother. Her seven brothers range in age from three to thirteen.

Modern Etiquette . . .

by Roberta Lee

Q. I am mailing out about 200 wedding invitations. Is it all right for me to use a metered stamp on the envelopes?
A. Never! The stamps must be put on by hand.

Q. What is the proper order of recession at the conclusion of a church wedding ceremony?
A. Just the reverse of how the party entered. The bride and bridegroom should lead, followed by the bridesmaids and the ushers.

Q. Just why is the wedding ring placed on the finger first, the engagement ring over it?
A. The reason is a practical one. The wedding ring, being a plain band, does not require much cleaning and in many instances is never taken off. Whereas the engagement ring is taken off constantly.

Q. Our daughter has just informed us of her secret marriage two months ago. Would it be proper for us to announce the marriage at this time?
A. It would be quite proper for you to mail out announcements of the marriage.

Q. Should a dinner guest who has finished eating immediately replace his napkin on the table?
A. Not until his hostess has placed her napkin on the table.

Q. When a husband and wife are calling on friends, which one should suggest leaving?
A. It is quite proper for either one to make the first move, merely by asking the other, "Don't you think we had better be leaving?"

top. They deserve to anyway. Just to know them gave us a nice, happy feeling.

Well, the birds around here are becoming more numerous every day. A while ago I was almost sure I heard an oriole. And yesterday a little screech owl came to rest on a bare branch of the chestnut tree near the house. Is there anything, I wonder, quite so motionless as a sitting owl. Once he had found a perch there wasn't a sound or movement from the tiny little creature in colour and shape he looked just like a natural hum belonging to the branch of the tree.

Now I must get this column typed and ready for the printer before any of the family arrive. Yesterday our trio from Oakville was here and no doubt the quartette from Toronto will be here soon. At present with only Dave being able to travel, I doubt about his ability to have beaten his opponent at my weight.

Try never allowed Ernie to have a moment in which to show his well-known cleverness and science, but he was on top of him and after him at every stage of the game, raining in blows that were simply marvelous in their power and irresistible in their effect. Ernie used his left hand with the best results, but though he landed it flush upon the jaw and in the stomach on several occasions, it was not enough to drive 50 in a 30-mile-an-hour race. It conditions are dangerous, speed is dangerous," cautions the Canadian Highway Safety Conference.

FAMILY CONCERN
"To-morrow I've got a job on my hands," Constable H. Boyens, of Davel, Transvaal, told his wife, "Someone in the town is selling illicit liquor and I've got to catch him."

The next morning while P.C. Boyens was out hunting the illicit liquor seller, his wife was caught by another police constable selling illicit liquor. In court, the next day, she was fined $15.

SAD YOUNG POOCHES—You'd never guess it, but these morose dogs were prize winners at the Paris Agricultural Show recently. Caged up after the show, the dogs obviously think it's a heck of a way to be treated after a fine performance.

WARDROBE WONDER!
PRINTED PATTERN

4654
14 1/2-24 1/2
by Anne Adams

When Terrible Terry Went Wild

Terry McGovern was a little peace-faced Irishman with a violent temper and murder in his fists. Even his best friends whispered that he was "crazy" and that it was suicide to argue with him.

In the ring, Terry was savage; practically immune to punishment during the heat of battle. He fought like a charging bull, with lowered head, he ripped away at his terrified victims until they either dropped to the floor or quit.

All of McGovern's fights were small-sized wars. But the one that stands out above all the rest when it came to sheer wildness and brutality, was his three-night fight with the clean-cut, light-weight champion of the world, Frank Erne.

It was a non-title bout even though both men held world championships; Terry was featherweight king. Before a sell-out crowd at Madison Square Garden, New York, on July 16, 1900, McGovern proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that he was the greatest fighter, pound for pound, in the world.

In fairness to the lightweight champion, however, it must be remembered that Sam Harris, McGovern's shrewd manager, insisted that Erne make 132 pounds. Considering that Frank's best fighting weight was 133, the peeling off of that extra five pounds weakened Erne considerably. Because of his sapped energy, Frank realized he would have to try for a quick knockout.

Erne altered his normally brilliant defensive tactics to that of a purely offensive slugger.

But it was Terry who set the pace and had the better argument from the very beginning. Only once for about a minute in the second round, did Erne appear to have a chance, and that was when he tried to box McGovern at long range and succeeded in landing a few left-hand punches on Terry's nose.

The little fellow was plainly trying to test Erne's punching capabilities prior to beginning the onslaught which was to follow. McGovern fully realized his inability to box with Erne. He knew that his only salvation lay in fighting aggressively and fiercely at all times. He punished Erne badly in three rounds, cutting his mouth and inflicting a terrible injury to body.

Only the weight conditions can be offered as an excuse for Erne's defeat, but after the manner in which McGovern performed there is absolutely no doubt about his ability to have beaten his opponent at my weight.

Try never allowed Ernie to have a moment in which to show his well-known cleverness and science, but he was on top of him and after him at every stage of the game, raining in blows that were simply marvelous in their power and irresistible in their effect. Ernie used his left hand with the best results, but though he landed it flush upon the jaw and in the stomach on several occasions, it was not enough to drive 50 in a 30-mile-an-hour race. It conditions are dangerous, speed is dangerous," cautions the Canadian Highway Safety Conference.

APPEALING—Comely Clementine Drew is appealing to you and you and you to visit New York City this summer. Why? Because that's her job as "Tourist Queen of 1957."

on at 128 pounds, ringside, the same conditions that prevailed to-night. I weighed exactly 121 pounds when I got into the ring and was not as strong as have been in other contests. I went after Ernie from the start with the idea of beating him down, as I knew this was my best style of fighting. Still I did not expect to see the fight end so quickly, and am covered by the result. Ernie is a game fellow and put up a hard fight. He first round I slipped down in the did not knock me down in the was not at all hurt. Ernie hit me while I was in that position, but it was an accident and I would not be justified in claiming any foul. I am going to take a good, long rest now."

You don't HAVE to drive 50 in a 30-mile-an-hour race. It conditions are dangerous, speed is dangerous," cautions the Canadian Highway Safety Conference.

MERRY MENAGERIE

"It's greener, all right, but it's phokey-spinach!"

Guaranty Trust Company of Canada

100 BAY ST. TORONTO

Child Welfare and Children's Fund 7.0

The Royal Order of Moose of Ontario have donated $14,000 towards two welfare projects for Ontario. Separate cheques for $7,000 each were presented to the Ontario Association for Retarded Children and to Paul P. Schmitz, Director-General of the Moose, as initial payment on a building fund for an Ontario Moose Building at Mopseheart, Illinois.

SMOKES FOR CANADIAN MILITARY PERSONNEL
serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East

$1.00 sends 400 EXPORT CIGARETTES or any other Macdonald Brand. Package included in all orders.
Mail order and remittance to: MACDONALD TOBACCO INC., P.O. Box 490, Pickering, Ont.
This offer is subject to any changes in Government Regulations.

SLEEP TO-NITE
Sedign tablets taken according to directions is a safe way to induce sleep. All drug stores or Adrom Ltd., Toronto 2.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

ISSUE 16 - 1957

Why Grow Vegetables?

We all know the old argument that it is to buy vegetables at the corner store instead of growing them in our own garden. That may be true in some cases but just the same there is one thing that cannot be bought anywhere — real garden freshness.

Most vegetables, and especially things like peas, corn, beans, carrots and even spinach start to rot and even sprout soon after they are picked. No matter how carefully we pack, they soon start to lose some of their garden freshness. Because this is so, many people even with tiny gardens try to have a small plot somewhere. And it is literally amazing how many good meals can be produced from a bit of land only a few yards each way.

Of course where the garden is small, we won't try to grow our own supply of potatoes, or very much of the bulky things like corn and squash. But even carrots or beets will produce a lot. Most of these things can be grown in rows only a few inches apart and we can get more out of the plot by alternating rows of the bigger things like radishes and beets with the smaller things like lettuce, carrot and onions. We can also have two crops, one early and one late, and we can spread out the sowings so that something fresh and new will always be coming along.

Try Something New
The gardener who gets the most pleasure and value out of his flowers and vegetables is the explorer type. He is not content with just planting the same things year after year. True, he does stick with what he has found best and most suited to his own soil, but he also makes definite practice of adding something new each spring. Before he can select a new variety he scans the pages of the catalogue and selects at least one flow and one vegetable he has never tried before. In this way he adds fresh interest each season and becomes acquainted with both among flowers and vegetables. It is possible, of course, to have a satisfactory and showy garden with the old favorites and standbys, like nasturtiums, alyssum and petunias and zinnias among the flowers, and peas, carrots, beans, beets, corn, lettuce and radish in the vegetable garden. But, by confining ourselves to these old favorites and standbys, there are at least 25 different vegetables that can be grown in almost any garden in Canada and probably a hundred flowers.

Power Saves Backs
In recent years, as suburban gardens have become larger and more mechanized equipment more efficient and fool-proof, there has been an enormous increase in the use of power garden equipment. Power mowers, small garden tractors are not at all expensive and they eliminate a lot of tedious hand work. As well they are interesting to tinker with and operate. Equipped with these, one can look after an acre or so of lawn and half an acre of vegetable garden and still have plenty of time for fishing, golfing, or loafing.

With power equipment as well as hand variety, it is important to get something suitable. Too many people seem to think the bigger the better. They forget that large tractors and wide wheel mowers may be more difficult to handle especially in turning. In stead of getting a tractor big enough to plow, it is usually better to get something smaller and easier to handle and hire someone with a standard tractor to do the once-a-year plowing job.

How Can I?
By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I clean a fur successfully?
A. First beat the fur with a length of rubber hose, 12 to 18 inches long. Then rub hot bran or cornmeal into the fur, lay it away for a few days, and then brush it very thoroughly. Q. How can I make a good furniture polish?
A. Use two parts of vinegar with one part of olive oil. Pour a small amount of this solution on a soft cloth and rub it into the wood. The result will be a fresh, bright polish. Q. In what way can I distinguish the difference between lead glass and lime glass?
A. Lead glass is very clear and durable. Lime glass is less clear, less durable, and is inferior to lead glass. If a glass tumbler when tapped it is lead glass.

Q. How can I clean baby's first teeth?
A. Use a soft, powder-like, chalk flavored with cinnamon or wintergreen. Q. How can I prevent rice from sticking to the pan when cooking?
A. Before cooking rice, grease the pan with butter, or pour a piece of butter on the rice, and it will not stick.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

AGENTS WANTED
GO INTO BUSINESS for yourself. Sell exclusive houseware products and services by every door. No capital. These items are not sold elsewhere. There is no competition. Profit up to 50%. Write immediately for color catalogue with retail prices shown. Separate catalogue for wholesale prices available at $1.00 and $1.00 Cash or C.O.D.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SALE
A FASCINATING and inexpensive hobby. Make distinctive novelties, etc. for yourself, as gifts or for sale. Write for free color catalogue immediately. Daniel S. Barber, 100 Macnamie, Buffalo 20, New York.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

ISSUE 16 - 1957

The GREEN THUMB

4 Gordon Street

Why Grow Vegetables?
We all know the old argument that it is to buy vegetables at the corner store instead of growing them in our own garden. That may be true in some cases but just the same there is one thing that cannot be bought anywhere — real garden freshness.

Most vegetables, and especially things like peas, corn, beans, carrots and even spinach start to rot and even sprout soon after they are picked. No matter how carefully we pack, they soon start to lose some of their garden freshness. Because this is so, many people even with tiny gardens try to have a small plot somewhere. And it is literally amazing how many good meals can be produced from a bit of land only a few yards each way.

Of course where the garden is small, we won't try to grow our own supply of potatoes, or very much of the bulky things like corn and squash. But even carrots or beets will produce a lot. Most of these things can be grown in rows only a few inches apart and we can get more out of the plot by alternating rows of the bigger things like radishes and beets with the smaller things like lettuce, carrot and onions. We can also have two crops, one early and one late, and we can spread out the sowings so that something fresh and new will always be coming along.

Try Something New
The gardener who gets the most pleasure and value out of his flowers and vegetables is the explorer type. He is not content with just planting the same things year after year. True, he does stick with what he has found best and most suited to his own soil, but he also makes definite practice of adding something new each spring. Before he can select a new variety he scans the pages of the catalogue and selects at least one flow and one vegetable he has never tried before. In this way he adds fresh interest each season and becomes acquainted with both among flowers and vegetables. It is possible, of course, to have a satisfactory and showy garden with the old favorites and standbys, like nasturtiums, alyssum and petunias and zinnias among the flowers, and peas, carrots, beans, beets, corn, lettuce and radish in the vegetable garden. But, by confining ourselves to these old favorites and standbys, there are at least 25 different vegetables that can be grown in almost any garden in Canada and probably a hundred flowers.

Power Saves Backs
In recent years, as suburban gardens have become larger and more mechanized equipment more efficient and fool-proof, there has been an enormous increase in the use of power garden equipment. Power mowers, small garden tractors are not at all expensive and they eliminate a lot of tedious hand work. As well they are interesting to tinker with and operate. Equipped with these, one can look after an acre or so of lawn and half an acre of vegetable garden and still have plenty of time for fishing, golfing, or loafing.

With power equipment as well as hand variety, it is important to get something suitable. Too many people seem to think the bigger the better. They forget that large tractors and wide wheel mowers may be more difficult to handle especially in turning. In stead of getting a tractor big enough to plow, it is usually better to get something smaller and easier to handle and hire someone with a standard tractor to do the once-a-year plowing job.

How Can I?
By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I clean a fur successfully?
A. First beat the fur with a length of rubber hose, 12 to 18 inches long. Then rub hot bran or cornmeal into the fur, lay it away for a few days, and then brush it very thoroughly. Q. How can I make a good furniture polish?
A. Use two parts of vinegar with one part of olive oil. Pour a small amount of this solution on a soft cloth and rub it into the wood. The result will be a fresh, bright polish. Q. In what way can I distinguish the difference between lead glass and lime glass?
A. Lead glass is very clear and durable. Lime glass is less clear, less durable, and is inferior to lead glass. If a glass tumbler when tapped it is lead glass.

Q. How can I clean baby's first teeth?
A. Use a soft, powder-like, chalk flavored with cinnamon or wintergreen. Q. How can I prevent rice from sticking to the pan when cooking?
A. Before cooking rice, grease the pan with butter, or pour a piece of butter on the rice, and it will not stick.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

AGENTS WANTED
GO INTO BUSINESS for yourself. Sell exclusive houseware products and services by every door. No capital. These items are not sold elsewhere. There is no competition. Profit up to 50%. Write immediately for color catalogue with retail prices shown. Separate catalogue for wholesale prices available at $1.00 and $1.00 Cash or C.O.D.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SALE
A FASCINATING and inexpensive hobby. Make distinctive novelties, etc. for yourself, as gifts or for sale. Write for free color catalogue immediately. Daniel S. Barber, 100 Macnamie, Buffalo 20, New York.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

BE A HAIRDRESSER
JOIN CANADA'S LEADING SCHOOL
Great Opportunity
Learn to be a professional hairdresser. Pleasant dignified profession. Good wages. American's Greatest System. Illustrations sent free.

ISSUE 16 - 1957

When Terrible Terry Went Wild

Terry McGovern was a little peace-faced Irishman with a violent temper and murder in his fists. Even his best friends whispered that he was "crazy" and that it was suicide to argue with him.

In the ring, Terry was savage; practically immune to punishment during the heat of battle. He fought like a charging bull, with lowered head, he ripped away at his terrified victims until they either dropped to the floor or quit.

All of McGovern's fights were small-sized wars. But the one that stands out above all the rest when it came to sheer wildness and brutality, was his three-night fight with the clean-cut, light-weight champion of the world, Frank Erne.

It was a non-title bout even though both men held world championships; Terry was featherweight king. Before a sell-out crowd at Madison Square Garden, New York, on July 16, 1900, McGovern proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that he was the greatest fighter, pound for pound, in the world.

In fairness to the lightweight champion, however, it must be remembered that Sam Harris, McGovern's shrewd manager, insisted that Erne make 132 pounds. Considering that Frank's best fighting weight was 133, the peeling off of that extra five pounds weakened Erne considerably. Because of his sapped energy, Frank realized he would have to try for a quick knockout.

Erne altered his normally brilliant defensive tactics to that of a purely offensive slugger.

But it was Terry who set the pace and had the better argument from the very beginning. Only once for about a minute in the second round, did Erne appear to have a chance, and that was when he tried to box McGovern at long range and succeeded in landing a few left-hand punches on Terry's nose.

The little fellow was plainly trying to test Erne's punching capabilities prior to beginning the onslaught which was to follow. McGovern fully realized his inability to box with Erne. He knew that his only salvation lay in fighting aggressively and fiercely at all times. He punished Erne badly in three rounds, cutting his mouth and inflicting a terrible injury to body.

Only the weight conditions can be offered as an excuse for Erne's defeat, but after the manner in which McGovern performed there is absolutely no doubt about his ability to have beaten his opponent at my weight.

Try never allowed Ernie to have a moment in which to show his well-known cleverness and science, but he was on top of him and after him at every stage of the game, raining in blows that were simply marvelous in their power and irresistible in their effect. Ernie used his left hand with the best results, but though he landed it flush upon the jaw and in the stomach on several occasions, it was not enough to drive 50 in a 30-mile-an-hour race. It conditions are dangerous, speed is dangerous," cautions the Canadian Highway Safety Conference.

APPEALING—Comely Clementine Drew is appealing to you and you and you to visit New York City this summer. Why? Because that's her job as "Tourist Queen of 1957."

on at 128 pounds, ringside, the same conditions that prevailed to-night. I weighed exactly 121 pounds when I got into the ring and was not as strong as have been in other contests. I went after Ernie from the start with the idea of beating him down, as I knew this was my best style of fighting. Still I did not expect to see the fight end so quickly, and am covered by the result. Ernie is a game fellow and put up a hard fight. He first round I slipped down in the did not knock me down in the was not at all hurt. Ernie hit me while I was in that position, but it was an accident and I would not be justified in claiming any foul. I am going to take a good, long rest now."

You don't HAVE to drive 50 in a 30-mile-an-hour race. It conditions are dangerous, speed is dangerous," cautions the Canadian Highway Safety Conference.

MERRY MENAGERIE

"It's greener, all right, but it's phokey-spinach!"

Guaranty Trust Company of Canada

100 BAY ST. TORONTO

Child Welfare and Children's Fund 7.0

The Royal Order of Moose of Ontario have donated $14,000 towards two welfare projects for Ontario. Separate cheques for $7,000 each were presented