The Commission report concluded that since most of the wells in the area surrounding the Village contain sulphur, the most favorable areas for possible test drilling exist near or within the Village limits. The area near the Reicheld gas well, near the north west corner of the Village is said to be the most likely area for a favorable supply. It is also recommended that the Reicheld Gas well be pumped for capacity. This particu-

A staff of technicians from the commission recently made a survey in the Jarvis area, with a view of finding a ground-water source area to supply a municipal water system. It was first determined that a minimum supply of 100,000 gallons daily would be required. Three days were spent gathering data in a house to house survey in the Village and immediate area. Data were obtained from a total of 129 drilled and 16 dug wells. 79 were located within the Village limits and 66 in the surrounding area. In the survey of 129 drilled wells, their yields were generally described as good, each well supplying the requirements of each household or farm.

Pumping rates were available from only a few and these show that wells can be pumped 2to3 gallons per minute. The records show that the wells with the best pumping rates exist just south of No. 3 highway within the town limits and these vary from 2 to 90 gallons per minute.

40 per cent of the wells surveyed contained sulphur water in the Village while those examined outside the limits revealed 70 percent contained sulphur.

The Commission report concluded that since most of the wells in the mended that the Reicheld Gas well be pumped for capacity. This particular well is drilled to a depth of 500 feet and plugged at 100 feet.

The decision now rests with the council as to whether to proceed with test drilling. Obviously this will shave to be done to determine if a sufficient supply of suitable water is available.
