"The End of a Perfect Day"

Grandma, on a wintry day,
Milked the cows and fed them hay,
Saddled the mule,
And got the children off to school;
Did the washing, scrubbed the floors,
Washed some windows and did some chores;
Cooked a dish of home-dried fruit,
And pressed her husband's Sunday suit,
She swept the parlor, and made the bed,
She baked a dozen loaves of bread;
She fed the cat, and then tucked in,
Enough to fill the kitchen bin,
Cleaned the lamp, filled it with oil,
And stewed some apples she thought might spoil,
She made a supper that was delicious,
And afterward washed all the dishes,
And mended a basketful of hose,
Then opened the organ and began to play,
"When you come to the end of a perfect day."

Like the song says—"We're dreaming of a white Christmas and we're dreaming of a happy Christmas. We suppose that is the way it is with most people. Yet, there are thousands, possibly millions, who entertain no such dreams. In this little nook and corner, meaning the Jarvis district, we would be very much surprised if there are any who cannot or should not be dreaming of a happy Christmas. If there is anyone we would like to know who they are and where they are so that the agencies of one of several organizations can get to work to try and make it a happy day for them. The spirit of Christmas should enter every home at this time of the year.

We see by the Lakeside Bugle the editor is worried lest our Christmas be spoiled by the result of the Trinity election. As a matter of fact, this gives us hope that the once great Liberal party may have a breath of life left in it yet. As we have told you many times Sam we are a strong believer in the two party system, as it provides plenty of scope for all shades of political thought. You can either vote the right way or the wrong way and what could be more democratic than that. Knowing that you like to be different Sam, we suppose you will just go on voting the wrong way. Anyway, Sam, nothing could give us more pleasure than to wish you the compliments of the season.

We can hardly wait until Santa Claus arrives this week. Our stock of socks and ties has become almost depleted. It's not that we like getting socks and ties for Christmas because one can only figure on about ten percent of such gifts being of a colour or design one can wear with any degree of modesty. But we've become resigned to receiving socks and ties at Christmas. It seems these two items are the only things that enter the mind. No doubt there are others who would do likewise.

We shouldn't let this season pass without commenting on the fine Christmas music permeating the air from the vicinity of Fred Fish's Jarvis Hardware these past couple of weeks. Fred has been well decorated (this store we mean) and this, along with the Christmas music coming through the loud speaker (not Fred's) has lent just the proper atmosphere for the real Christmas spirit. Merry Christmas Everyone.
