

OF MANY THINGS IS SOCIALISM DONE FOR?

The other night, when the political landscape took place, a friend turned to me and said, "Well... that's the end of socialism in Canada." I shook my head.

Socialism doesn't die because a few CCP members are tossed out. I wish it did spell the end of political socialism, because I frankly admit that in my opinion political socialism is immoral, even though some very fine persons have preached it.

Anything good about socialism can be practiced any time, anywhere, by any of us. True believers in true socialism are very rare birds indeed—they are the persons who are ready, at any time, to give of their substance to others less fortunate. No laws are needed for this sort of thing.

Political socialism, on the other hand, proposes to level us all to the same standards by law of force. It leaves no need or room for charity. It legislates our moral life in that it robs Peter to pay Paul and does it all in the name of morality. To me it is a great sham and pretence, a horrible hoax, and I want no part of it. But I am not naive enough to think it is by any means dead.

As long as it may be preached by a politician that he will give to John out of the pocket of Joe, there'll be a certain number of Johns ready to vote for political socialism. As long as it can be made to sound like a political party dedicated to the poor and the unfortunate, there will be innocent, high-minded, well-meaning persons ready to work for the party.

But Canadian voters are about the best-informed voters in the world, relatively speaking. The fact that they've been shown, so clearly, that they do not want political socialism is cause for celebration.

Not too much celebration, however, for both the Liberals and the Conservatives have been willing to use lures from the bait box of the socialists to hook voters. The urge to lie in the sky doesn't die in a hurry.

REHABILITATION OF THE BLIND FARMER

The special speaker for the meeting of the Haldimand County Advisory Board to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind held at Cayuga on May 26th was Mr. Stewart D. Haver, farm counselor for the Blind.

In his address Mr. Haver described the special course on farm rehabilitation given by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind at Mason, Ohio, last summer. This specialized training plus his practical experience gained as the result of being raised on a farm and his restricted vision fits him admirably to help blind farmers in Ontario and to bring to them the latest ideas and suggestions for farm improvement and techniques. He illustrated the work he is doing by telling how a totally blind farmer is operating a large dairy farm most successfully. During this past winter Mr. Haver made an extensive survey of farm problems and is currently devoting his time to practicing assistance to the sightless farmers in Ontario.

Other CNIB staff members present were the home teacher for the counties of Lincoln, Welland and Haldimand, Mrs. J. Martin, and Mr. Max U. Knechtel, Field Secretary.

It was reported that $5,222.86 was raised in Haldimand County for the current work of the CNIB. There is still a deficit on the new wing to Linwell Hall, however, when all the returns are in it is hoped this deficit will be eliminated.

It was announced that the annual picnic for the blind of Haldimand County will be held this year at Welland on June 25th.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Chairman, Mr. T. H. Polard, Dunnville; Vice Chairman, Mr. C. O. Hand, Cayuga; Secretary, W. J. Price, Dunnville; Treasurer, J. C. Pennington, Dunnville; Representatives to Linwell Hall Board of Governors, Mr. A. H. Ballard, Dunnville, Mr. Max U. Knechtel, St. Catharines.

Mr. Haver was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Person and family, Al Thompson at Durham.

In-A-Hurry Driver Target of Drive

The "in-a-hurry" driver will find himself the target of an international campaign to reduce traffic deaths this summer. Beginning June 1, Canada and the United States, with Puerto Rico participating as well, will conduct an intensive "Slow Down and Live" Drive. Police, government, safety organizations, industry and many other groups will co-operate in this campaign against the motorist who attempts to use all the tricks he knows to get farthest fast.

The campaign will aim its guns at the driver who cuts into traffic, fails to stop at intersections, jumps traffic-control signals and generally drives as a menace to other drivers and pedestrians. The heart of the campaign will attempt to make each individual motorist realize that he is the offender, not the other motorist, and the slogan, appearing below a picture of a surprised-looking vehicle operator, will read, "Who's Me?" with the reply, "Yes, you."

This is Canada's second year to participate in the "Slow Down and Live" campaign, which was started here by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference. At last year, the 1954 effort will run through the summer vacation months of June, July and August and an official Provincial Safety Director will co-ordinate the activities in each province, providing assistance as well to the community safety councils where they exist.

In 1957, the over-all record of highway fatalities in Canada did not decrease as compared to the same 1956 period. However, traffic deaths dropped, during the summer, in five provinces as well as in 28 states and Puerto Rico.

Said W. Arch Bryce, general manager of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, national sponsors of Canada's "Slow Down and Live," "with the Canadian motorist, walking public becoming more and more aware of the perils of traffic and taking precautions to avoid those perils we can hope for a definite reduction in highway deaths this summer. However, as our chairman, Lord Taylor has pointed out, the only way this can be done is for the individual driver and pedestrian to do it. He cannot leave it to the other fellow and expect to be safe himself."
