It is estimated that in the current year federal government spending will exceed $6 billion, more than three times the 1949 total.

The carvings and paintings on the totem poles of our west coast Indian families relate ancestral legends and also honour the family's totems, or favourite guiding spirits.

There is a reversing falls at the mouth of the St. John River in New Brunswick; at low tide the river makes an 11-foot drop to the sea, but at high tide the waters flow upstream.

Since 1946 inflation has reduced the buying power of the Canadian dollar by about 37½ per cent.

We had a visit from an old Jarvisite on Sunday and revived again briefly, some of the experiences arising out of that period known as the hungry thirties. The visitor was Wilfred White who moved to Hagersville, about the time of the great recession was drawing to a close and apparently, made enough money to allow him to now live in semi-retirement. Of course, there is no reason to believe there was a time when our old friend Sam didn't make money, because when he lived here he never ran out of ideas on how to make a small turnover on a big project.

It was interesting to recall some of those projects in which he managed to involve us. These projects included roller skating, public dancing, sugar draws, raffles, and on the side there was devilry galore, just to keep things interesting. He even started a banking system which operated with reasonable success until it reached the point where all the shareholders found themselves completely without funds. Needless to say that project was dropped without fanfare.

Victoria Day celebrations was another of the annual projects in which we found ourselves involved. That was in the days before such worthwhile organizations as the Lions Club existed. One such celebration proved pretty tough for us when Wilf's wife presented him with a baby boy just before the parade was to get under way. We almost had to cancel the show, but as it turned out both events went off very successfully.

It's interesting to learn that, despite his decision to live in semi-retirement, he still finds himself involved in public projects. He is now devoting himself to the task of finding the money to finish the Hagersville Arena and while others may have some doubts that this will be a thing you can say for Wilf. When he sets his teeth into a project it's not easy to get him to stop. He just doesn't know what the word failure means — except that is, when it comes to operating a private banking system.

We were also happy to learn at first hand some of the experiences Wilf has had while hunting and fishing up north. Despite a natural fear of deep water and wild animals he has always managed to come out side there was devilry galore, just to keep things interesting. He even started a banking system which operated with reasonable success until it reached the point where all
