ANNE HIRST Your Family Counselor.

"Dear Anne Hirst:

Over two years ago I met a girl and we've been going steady ever since. At first she did not love me, but in time she grew to care very much. But I kept stalling marriage — because my widowed mother was against it. (The girl was always talking marriage and making plans, and I did not know how I was hurting her.) I should add that I am 10 years older, but we got along wonderfully; we've never had an argument, only a few minor differences.

And thank goodness it had nothing to do with atom bombs, guided missiles or other weapons capable of destroying mankind. No, this was just the opposite - a serum that may save the lives of millions of people. I am referring to the anti-clot serum to be used in cases of brain haemorrhage or thrombosis. Used as an injection it goes to work immediately, dissolves the blood clot and gives the patient a good chance to recover. It is a wonderful piece of news; reassuring to the thousands of people suffering from high blood pressure — which, incidentally includes myself. Modern Young Man Most Unromantic

Where did you propose to your wife? It's one chance in four that you were sitting in a car when you popped the question. At least, that is what Dr. Paul Popenoe thinks following a study of over 1,000 marriage proposals. The modern young man is most unromantic. In the olden days he would fall on his knee, look rapturously into his girl's eyes and implore her to be his bride. Today, according to Dr. Popenoe, he wanders window-shopping with her and while they stare a furniture in a showroom window he is as likely as not to say. "How's about you and me fixing up a little love nest?"

Dr. Popenoe, as head of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, studied 1,181 marriage proposals and found that 25 per were made in motor cars while the couple were parked somewhere. Proposals made in the girl's home came close to motor car proposals with a total of 23 per cent, while proposals on the street, in restaurants, parks and in other public places accounted for 20 per cent of the total. Holiday time is not quite so dangerous for the bachelor as some people believe for only 13 per cent of the proposals analysed by Dr. Popenoe were made while on holiday. Parties, dinners and dances may be places where romantic attachments are made but certainly they are not conducive to marital ties, for only 10 per cent of all marriage proposals were PRINTED PATTER made at such events. Did you send your proposal by wire or letter? If you did you fall into a class by yourself for the modern male is too bashful to write or wire-only 6 per cent of the total proposed in this

The odd-man-out who proposes while descending by parachute or while prodding a lion in a cage is a rarity, for only 3 per cent of the total number of proposals analysed were unusual like the couple who met recently and went roller skating. The young man, holding the girl's hand and rapturously looking into her eyes, gave her an engagement ring as they skated. To cap that, they were married as they skated around an arena with a parson on rollers skating alongside them.

Sobering Facts

About Fallout Into a Columbia University laboratory regularly stream shipments of one of science's grim mest raw materials for study: human bones. They come from the recently dead bodies of men, women and children all over the non-Communist world, including such outskirts as Chile, South Africa and Formosa. At Columbia's Lamont Geological Observatory, in a project financed by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, they go under the scrutiny of scientists who analyze the bones for strontium 90. Recently the project's three scientists, Drs. Walter R. Eckelmann, J. Laurence Kulp and Arthur R. Schulert, made their second annual report. The bones told a sobering story of increasing amounts of radioactive fallout from nuclear-weapons tests.

Strontium 90 is the most feared of all the fallout isotopes. It has a long half-life (28 years), and the human body tends to mistake it for calcium, which it resembles chemically, and to build it into bone. As it disintegrates over the years, it may In one crook's house the police cause cancer by the effect of its radiation on tender living cells. Since their last year's report, said the scientists, the world-

Young children have, proporionately, ten times more strontium 90 in their bones than adults, but so far the average is only about 1/150 of the MPC (Maximum Permissible Concentration) that was recommended by the National Academy of Sci ences. The amount will surely grow, say the scientists. Even if no more weapons are tested, there may be enough strontium "the stratospheric reservoir" to raise the strontium 90 in the bones of children in the Northeastern U.S. to as much as 4.3% of the MPC. If weapons testing continues at the same

NO RUSH

It is probably some age-old instinct which gives us the urge to get out and dig just as soon is the first spring day arrives. There is no harm in going ahead if we live in some very warm corner of Canada, but as a rule one should restrain the impulse until the weather really turn warm and the soil is fairly dry. Nothing is gained by rushing either cultivation or seeding and much can be lost. If the ground is the least bit muddy then all we do is mess up ourselves and implements and leave ground in bad shape for any real working later on. And if we are so foolish as to plant tender things far ahead of time, then the frost will surely get All this does not mean, how ever, that we should not risk a few things reasonably early provided the soil is fit to work. To determine that we can, if we want to be scientific, select a handful of soil squeeze lightly and then take off the pressure If the soil crumbles, it is ready to work. If, when we squeeze it into a ball it stays that way, or if it leaves our fingers all muddy, then we should forget about gardening for that afternoon at least and go inside and read a book or seed catalogue.
