IN THE ORBIT OF OUR EYE! By C. D. CLARKE

Doctors begin to specialize and home was the usual place. Speaking of "Doctors Specializing," I remember a fact of blood that remained for months on the flowered wall-paper of our dining room...

Home used to be where the heart point of community. Now, however, the heart has moved to the home and recreation rooms featuring the bar, the pool table, the television set...

Do Cats Foresee Disaster At Sea? When the liner "Reina del Pacifico" crunched on to a coral reef near Bermuda recently, a curious incident occurred on board.

As the liner struck fast, a cat which had voyaged with her for some months, raced up on deck and stared through the rails out to sea.

Few of the passengers aboard knew that the ship had grounded, the shock was so slight. Yet the cat knew; and she also knew where to go in such a time of danger.

This is not an isolated case of a cat sensing disaster at sea long before humans crew members.

The cat was a very strange example of a feline who was said to have sensed the disaster long before the ship struck.

Used to be that a feline could point with pride to the old family home. Now, he says, "I was born here, I live here, I die here."

SPUTNIK III - Claude Bopp, 54, who is starting his 34th year as a truck driver, poses alongside his truck at his home.

He has driven 3,000 miles without a chargeable accident. This works out to no less than 132 trips around the earth and it would appear that his nearest competitors in this department are the Russian Sputniks.

They Live Well And Eat Well These Present-Day "Pioneers"

By H. R. CALVERT Ed. Note: In this article Mr. Calvert concludes the story of his visit to Lynn Lake, the new mining community in the far north.

The single mine employees live in relatively small semi-private rooms in company bunks. The boarding house, which is served by caterers selected by Sherritt Gordon, are substantial and carefully planned to give the men variety.

Stewards and butlers attend to the men's needs. The average wage at Lynn Lake, the long, cold winters are all very real. But real too is the fact that here the average man can enjoy many things in life which are not possible to the man who lives in a city.

He makes more money; he belongs to a community which is truly his own. The reason is simple: Lynn Lake is not an average man, it is a pioneer.

To return again briefly to the Mine Manager, he regretted he could not give me more time, having just returned from holidays, and he politely but firmly refused my request to go under-ground at the mine; I must admit that I felt he was deeply sympathetic of journalists. He told me, however, that the employment turnover at Lynn Lake is less than one-half of the national average in the mining industry, and his obvious pride in the community is best summed up in his closing remarks to me which were:

"We believe that our (Sherritt Gordon's) effort are appreciated. Lynn Lake is a good place to live and Sherritt Gordon has spent thousands of dollars to make this so. We intend to continue doing everything we possibly can to keep it this way."

Well, there we have it! A modern town of 1,674 kind, generous people, providing themselves a time to work, a time to play and a time to worship - living together in harmony and undoubtedly with some inconveniences; but, as more than one resident said "Despite the isolation the long, cold winters the high cost of some foods and fuel, we are happy. You see, we feel we live in a community of which we may be proud, we have a wonderful 'esprit corps', most of the modern conveniences, more than adequate recreational facilities and social activities and we work for a fine company!"
