The operators of Beckroses formed her bridge courses to continue until a this direction are being vigorously undertaken. We think most people will agree that should Beckliffe close before such other people of the area. A second reason is that the National Hospital nsurance Plan will pay for the Hospital care of insured persons ninety-six per cent of the people of the Province are insured for them when they need it. The responsibility for providing Hospital beds still rests with the people. In West Haldimand we have given only token support to this responsibility. The need for additional ospital accommodation will be apparent to all, especially those who have needed Hospital care and have found it difficult to secure bed. The Hospital Services Commission makes it plain that the responsibility for providing needed Hospital accommodation rests with the community which a Hospital will serve. The Commission has made it plain that such accommodation is needed in West
