also fare very well. The majority of these are cheerful example - of which the preferred habitat is wood edge, orchard, and cultivated land, rather than that unbroken wilderness forest which once, it is said, would have enabled an ambitious gray squirrel to travel from the Atlantic to the Mississippi without setting paw to ground. The gray squirrel, like he deer, skunk, raccoon, red fox, and cottontail rabbit, none theless prospers at the edges of civilization, and where not unduly persecuted, these species have increased.

The fall of this forest, in the East, was extensive and very rapid, for what could not be put to use was easily exported, and farm clearing was indiscriminate and wasteful. The dense sy va varied hardwoods furnished the implements of survival gun stocks of black walnut, boat ibs of oak, ax handles, singletrees, and wagon hubs of hickory and black gum, birch canoes black ash fish baskets and chair bottoms, flexible spade handles and oars of the white ash. But the finest tree was an evergreen, the great white pine, which, two ndred feet and higher, soared and stretched south in the Appalachians as far as the Carolinas; the white pine was the light, strong stuff of houses, of

Stan The Man Still Swinging

In a night game against the St. Louis Cardinal star Stan Musial slammed a double off the center-field wall and passed a rare milestone: His 10,000th official time at bat in the major leagues. Even an umpire - Al Barlick - deferred to the occasion by shaking Musial's hand at home plate. Among the jewels from 10,000 duels: 2,053 singles, 684 doubles, 172 triples, 438 home runs. Musial said afterward: "It's a lot of times to go up there, but I still get a kick out of swinging that bat."

Thus began three terrible days - days of disappointment, delir-ium, and death. Without food or water, under a blazing sun, the two older men and the boy frantically hailed passing boats None heard or spotted them. Crazed by heat and thirst, he fell into the water and the raft turn-ed over. "Granddad got h m back on the raft and gave him mouthto-mouth respiration," Terry re-called half-coherently later on, "but it didn't work." The friend died on Wednesday and Terry end his grandfather lashed his body to the raft.

"Then," Terry continued "my grandfather went crazy from seeing Al go crazy. He kept screaming and yelling and falling into the water. I kept telling bim: 'Granddad, don't die don't leave me here alone'." Exhausted from his ordeal, Terry fell asleep. When he awoke, Thursand high-school football player ashed the body to the raft with Al Hartman and drifted on alone, the frail craft tossing in the cold

In Illinois, as in many other northern American industrial states, the ranks of the unemployed are made up mostly of unskilled laborers. These are men who arrived late (often from the iural South), got jobs at the bottom, and were the first to be laid off during recession

First TV Commercial Cost Nine Dollars!

2:29:50 p.m., ten seconds before the baseball game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Phila-delphia Phillies got under way on station WNBT-TV one July afternoon twenty years ago last month. A picture of a clock with a second hand sweeping toward the 2:30 p.m. mark appeared onthe tiny screens of the few thousand television sets in the New York City area. An announce intoned: "Bulova watch time." The television industry had run its first paid commercial. The Dodgers have long since left Brooklyn for Los Angeles, WNBT-TV has become WNBC-TV, the agency that placed the advertisement is no longer in business, and the cost of a tensecond afternoon spot on a local station has soared from the $9 that Bulova paid in 1941

How Can I?

By Roberta Lee Q. How can I remedy leather seats that have become sticky?
A. By using some solvent such as gasoline. Imitation leather, however, might be injured with gasoline. One way to prevent leather from becoming sticky is to sponge it with a mild suds of borax soap and, when perfectly dry, apply a thin coat of white

Q. How can I clean ivery objects?

A. If these ivory objects are all in one piece, it's safe to clean them with soap and water. If, however, they are glued together, it is better to take a piece of raw lemon, dip it into salt and rub the surfaces with this. Let the juice dry on the ivory before wiping off with a damp
