

Trying to Discover Why Babies Die

Female, age 4 months. Condition: Excellent, well-fed, vigorous. Cause of death: Unknown, found dead in crib.

These stark words, neatly printed on a death report at Dr. Renato Dische's desk at New York's Medical Examiner's building, recently, reiterated a question that has disturbed pediatricians for decades: Why should a child, put to bed in good health in the evening, be found lying dead the next morning?

To Dr. Dische, these deaths are more than simply puzzling. Since some 25,000 of them occur annually in the U.S., they now pose a threat as serious as polio once did. "While the mortality fancy have, up to now, been disproved. During the 1920s and 1930s, for example, the deaths were widely blamed on sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS). Recently, prompted by the thalidomide tragedy, a Philadelphia gynecologist suggested that drugs taken during pregnancy might be a cause of sudden infant deaths.

The trouble with most of the theories, explains Dr. Dische (who dismisses as "extremely remote" the idea that prenatal use of drugs causes crib deaths), is that they were based on the usually cursory investigations conducted by medical examiners. But now, with financial support from New York's Health Research Council and co-operation from the city's chief medical examiner, Dr. Milton Helpern, Dr. Dische is beginning the most exhaustive study ever in the causes of sudden crib deaths. From now on, each of the 200 annual crib deaths in Manhattan will be closely studied by Dr. Dische and Dr. Weiner Leblanc, a Bellevue pediatrician.

Dr. Dische will perform the medical examiner's function of "certifying" the death at the scene, then as in all deaths of unknown cause — take the infant's body to Bellevue for a thorough postmortem. Meanwhile, Dr. Leblanc will question the parents extensively about the health of the baby and perhaps more important, of every other family member. They will make laboratory studies of blood and urine specimens and throat cultures from everyone in the household. "Ninety per cent of our information will probably come from sources other than the autopsy," said Dr. Helpern.

How Well Do You Know SOUTHEAST ASIA?

HALL OF ARMS — Armor room of Culzean Castle near Ayr, Scotland, features impressive display of arms and other military paraphernalia, most of it from the Napoleonic era. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower holds tie tenancy in building's top floor.

One reason for the intense interest in the family's health: The possible role infection may play in crib deaths. A recent study by pediatricians at Cleveland's Western Reserve University Medical School disclosed the presence of respiratory viruses in tissues from twelve of 48 sudden-death victims. Some investigators believe an ordinary mild virus may flare up in a child, cause death, and subside without producing enough to be detected at autopsy. One aspect of Dr. Dische's study will be to determine what makes a child unusually vulnerable to viruses or germs. Significantly, most crib deaths occur at 3 or 4 months, when most of a child's inherited antibodies have disappeared, and his own antibody-producing tissues are not yet functioning fully.

But Dr. Dische and Helpern are keeping their eyes open to other possible causes. Yet to be investigated is a new theory suggesting that a baby allergic to cow's milk may, during sleep, regurgitate some milk into his breathing passages, producing a shock reaction in the delicate respiratory tissues.

"We have no preconceived notions," said Dr. Helpern recently. "In any successful investigation, you must proceed with the idea that you don't already know the answer." From NEWSWEEK.

Jackie Gleason Throws A Party!

John C. Gleason served as the gracious host recently at a charming party on board a seven-car private train which was taking Mr. Gleason and 40 guests by easy stages from New York to New York, Mr. Gleason was also the guest of honor at the party, which celebrated his forthcoming CBS radio program, "Jackie Gleason's American Scene Magazine."

"Nobody's going to catch us," Mr. Gleason announced to his guests. "We'll go until the food and water run out. When this train gets through the Mojave Desert, I'll never be dry again."

The train, which cost $90,000, was tastefully decorated with multicolored balloons, and the guests wore demure badges of yellow bunting reading "The Great Gleason." Mr. Gleason wore a gray suit, red tie, red handkerchief, and red carnation. Also present were Miss Sue Ann Langdon, Mr. Gleason's leading lady; Miss June Taylor, choreographer, and five Gleason girls, a number of friends and writers, and Mr. Max Kaminsky and his six-piece orchestra.

The affair got under way with a cocktail party in the Los Angeles railroad station at 4 p.m. When the train departed, it was discovered that Mr. George Marshall, a movie director, who had planned to stay behind in Los Angeles, had been locked in a bedroom by the guest of honor. Mr. Marshall summoned a conductor, and was let off. One of the guests was heard to remark later: "By the time we left, some of the passengers were as oily as the engine."

En route, Mr. Gleason, mingling with the guests, wrapped his arm around Mr. Marshall and said: "Whatever it is," he remarked, admiring his partner's ability, "I hope it keeps moving."

This is Mr. Gleason's first such trip. No one else ever did it exactly this way, either.

HALL OF ARMS — Armor room of Culzean Castle near Ayr, Scotland, features impressive display of arms and other military paraphernalia, most of it from the Napoleonic era. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower holds tie tenancy in building's top floor.

CLOSE CALL — This car crashed through a guard rail of a Baltimore, Md., bridge. It climbed the raised bridge 30 feet high, then slid back to this precarious position 30 feet above the water. The two mole occupants got out safely.

TABLE TALKS

Jane Andrews.

There seems to be a question in many households about the desirability of freezing sandwiches, and here is an answer from no less an authority than the American Institute of Baking. In answer to the question, "Can I freeze sandwiches and sandwich loaves?" the institute says: "Yes, but at a sacrifice to palatability. Even after three days of freezing storage, frozen sandwiches cannot compare with freshly made ones. Although all breads freeze satisfactorily, few fillings re-cover favorably from the frozen state. Some ingredients, used alone can be recommended — cooked meat, peanut butter, and blue cheese. However, when mayonnaise or salad dressing is used, freezing is fatal to these fillings. Chopped, sliced or grated fresh vegetables do not freeze satisfactorily. Sandwiches for freezing should be wrapped singly, in moisture-proof, vapor-proof paper, tightly sealed, and labeled as to variety."

Here is a sandwich filling suggested by the institute that does freeze satisfactorily. For filling 12 sandwiches, combine 1 1/4 cups (or 1 12-ounce can) chopped ham, drained; 3/4 cup (or 1 9-ounce can) drained crushed pineapple, 1/4 cup brown sugar, and 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish. Spread between slices of buttered bread of any variety (a protective coating of butter prevents filling from soaking into bread).

This is a question-answering day, so here is another: "Can bread be stored in the refrigerator?"

"Yes, but it is well to be aware of both advantages and disadvantages. Refrigerating bread retards mold growth, especially in hot weather. But the longer the refrigeration period, the firmer the bread becomes. Refrigeration temperatures also step up staling."

Whether you store your bread in a bread box, in the refrigerator or packaged rolls in a tin, or in the freezer, keep wrapped original wrappings. Bread bought unwrapped should be wrapped in a moisture-resistant bag before storing, with the exception of hard or crisp crusted breads. These are best when eaten fresh, writes Eleanor Richey Johnston

If you have any meat of a turkey, chop it and use it for a turkey — cheddarburger sandwich.

TURKEY CHEESEBURGER
1/2 cup grated fresh Canadian cheese
1/2 cup chopped cooked turkey (or chicken)
1 1/2 tablespoons pickle relish
4 sandwich buns sliced in half
Combine cheese, turkey, and relish. Place buns, cut sides up, on a cookie sheet. Spread the cheese mixture on bottom half of each bun. Bake at 400° F. for about 5 minutes, or until bun tops brown and cheese melts.

If you like the combination of sardines and Swiss cheese, try these sandwiches:

SARDINE-SWISS CHEESE SANDWICHES
2 cans (2 1/2 ounce) sardines
3 slices natural Swiss cheese
1 large tomato
12 slices rye bread
Arrange sardines on 6 slices rye bread. Cut each slice of cheese in half, place over sardines. Cut tomato into 6 thin slices; place 1 slice over cheese. Top with remaining bread slices. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Use English-style muffins for these corned beef sandwiches, one half a muffin for each serving.

CORNERED BEEF SANDWICH TREAT
3 cups ground cooked corned beef
1 package (3-oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk

New Style Schools Among the Amish

Now the countryside takes on a new beauty. Goldenrod in untrilled spots, the zinnias and marigolds in the garden, and even the garish saliva in no many flower beds on from lawns blend with the red, orange and crimson of blackberry vines, same and Virginia creeper. The years are ripe, as hundreds of greedy yellowjackets attest, as they are turning red on the trees, and in the lanes the four grape vines are laden with deep-maroon, musky fruit.

By the end of the month the big copper kettle will be brought forth and the autumn air will be filled with the spicy aroma of apple-butter making. As far back as memory goes, Amish housewives have turned out gallons of apple-butter made with sweet cider in season.

But today's homemakers are content to stop there. Their cellar shelves are laden with peach pickles, crabapple pickles, pumpkin butter, and peaches, elderberry butter, grape butter, damson butter, and jellies of all hues and flavors in addition to the crocks of sauerkraut and hogheads of cucumber pickles which their ancestors put up each fall.

And just recently Trina and Anna added to their shelves of dainties green-tomat mincemeat and a gourmet chutney which contains for green tomatoes, apples, nuts and raisins. And best of all, to our way of thinking, the rosy-purple Indian peaches are ready now to be pickled in heavy, spiced syrup.

School started this month in the one-room eight-grade building which Zauggs have attended carved in school boy fashion on for generations. Amos's name is its permanent feature an ink-well. Some Mcguffey Readers still sit in use in this school, and leading through one of them, the child of today may come across this statement in question: "What time did you get up?" "I got up at one o'clock," says the child. "I'm sorry, you should have gotten up at six."

Miss Alma Schwartzreber is the teacher this year, having prepared herself to teach by taking correspondence courses after she finished the eighth grade. While this custom is not exactly pleasing to the bishops and other church leaders, it is allowed as a means of trying to meet the state board of education halfway in their endeavor to bring the Amish schools up to a higher standard.

There is no doubt whatever that the little one-room edifices with the antiquated methods of imparting knowledge have been troubling to the department, especially in a space geared to a maximum education for all.

"Well, they are doing just what we can do for them. The amount was beside the point. He was just interested in the correspondence courses after she finished the eighth grade. While this custom is not exactly pleasing to the bishops and other church leaders, it is allowed as a means of trying to meet the state board of education halfway in their endeavor to bring the Amish schools up to a higher standard."

"Well, they are doing just what we can do for them. The amount was beside the point. He was just interested in the correspondence courses after she finished the eighth grade. While this custom is not exactly pleasing to the bishops and other church leaders, it is allowed as a means of trying to meet the state board of education halfway in their endeavor to bring the Amish schools up to a higher standard."

2 tablespoons salad dressing
1 1/2 cup chopped chives
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 large English muffin, split and toasted

12 dill pickle slices
1 1/2 cups Swiss cheese, add milk and salad dressing, blend well. Add corned beef, chives, horseradish, and mustard. Mix well. Spread on top of muffin. Bake for 10 minutes.

1. That thing
2. Caretaker
3. Indicators
10. Argument
11. Mary
12. Rational
13. Five
14. Pigeon
15. Letter
16. Pigeon
17. Letter
18. Pigeon
19. Letter
20. Pigeon
21. Letter
22. Pigeon
23. Letter
24. Pigeon
25. Letter
26. Pigeon
27. Letter
28. Pigeon
29. Letter
30. Pigeon

Strange Tale Of A Horse Trade

"I got along fine with these fellows, and they let me do as I pleased. I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"The time seems so precise," said the stranger. "I wonder do you have the hour and the minute, too?"

"Eight, ten, eighteen, and twenty, in the forenoon. A lovely day."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

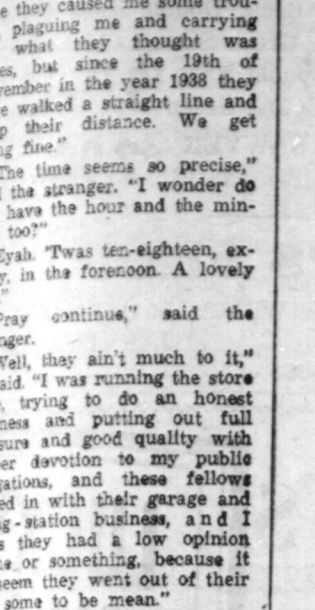

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

UNFAMILIAR TERRAIN

These pictures are not of the surface of any distant planets — they are simply magnified moth ball crystals photographed in polarized light by Edward Gelus, noted amateur photographer of scientific subjects.

UNFAMILIAR TERRAIN — These pictures are not of the surface of any distant planets — they are simply magnified moth ball crystals photographed in polarized light by Edward Gelus, noted amateur photographer of scientific subjects.

mean little things on that morning. I forgot now just what they were, but I was put out at them and I admit my mind turned on some unworthy thoughts in their direction. It is a possibility that I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

"I'll try not to be in the store when you are in," said the stranger. "I was carrying on as usual, and carrying on what they thought was a horse trade. But since the 19th of November in the year 1938 they have walked a straight line and keep their distance. We get along fine."

THE FARM FRONT

by John Russell.

In our battle with the weeds and insects, a rethinking of basic strategy is long overdue. There is abundant evidence that the massive use of poisonous chemicals has serious drawbacks.

Its side effects, in many cases, have made it disastrous to wildlife. Often, it has backfired, evoking a tougher more poison-resistant form of a pest than was present to begin with.

It also may hold danger for men. Many of the chemicals are as poisonous to humans as to plants and insects. Their widespread use and their accumulation in our environment is a growing and as yet poorly understood hazard.

Few would deny a vote of thanks to the chemists, entomologists, and biologists who have made the chemical control techniques practical. Especially since World War II, these techniques have yielded great benefits to mankind.

They have helped create the fabulous abundance of modern agriculture. They are credited with relieving much human suffering through control of disease-bearing insects. They are a boon to suburban gardeners.

But while the chemicals are a potent tool for pest control, their value as with any tool, lies in the wisdom with which they are used.

Modern science and technology enables men to make sweeping changes in their environment, with widespread consequences for the community of living things of which mankind is part. Unless the use of this new power is based on knowledge of those consequences, the results may be disastrous.

It is true that the benefits of the chemical control program do not take into account the well-known wildlife biologist, Dr. John L. George of the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center calls for a new type of chemical control — (in which) the trend is toward more highly toxic materials and heavier dosage rates.

A public awakening to the danger this implies may be in the making in the United States. If it comes, we will have Rachel Carson, famed author of "The Sea Around Us," to thank for bringing the growing issue to a head.

She has sent forth a clarion call in a series of hard-hitting articles published in June by the New Yorker magazine and drawn from her forthcoming book, "The Silent Spring," to be published by Houghton Mifflin Company. She explains in detail the poisonous properties of insecticides and herbicides, and the danger of their misuse.

The following few examples illustrate the danger side of the new chemicals can

REFLECTED GLORY

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

— dome of St. Paul's Cathedral is reflected in the street below a rainstorm in London

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1. A person
2. A person
3. A person
4. A person
5. A person
6. A person
7. A person
8. A person
9. A person
10. A person
11. A person
12. A person
13. A person
14. A person
15. A person
16. A person
17. A person
18. A person
19. A person
20. A person
21. A person
22. A person
23. A person
24. A person
25. A person
26. A person
27. A person
28. A person
29. A person
30. A person
31. A person
32. A person
33. A person
34. A person
35. A person
36. A person
37. A person
38. A person
39. A person
40. A person
41. A person
42. A person
43. A person
44. A person
45. A person
46. A person
47. A person
48. A person
49. A person
50. A person
51. A person
52. A person
53. A person
54. A person
55. A person
56. A person
57. A person
58. A person
59. A person
60. A person
61. A person
62. A person
63. A person
64. A person
65. A person
66. A person
67. A person
68. A person
69. A person
70. A person
71. A person
72. A person
73. A person
74. A person
75. A person
76. A person
77. A person
78. A person
79. A person
80. A person
81. A person
82. A person
83. A person
84. A person
85. A person
86. A person
87. A person
88. A person
89. A person
90. A person
91. A person
92. A person
93. A person
94. A person
95. A person
96. A person
97. A person
98. A person
99. A person
100. A person

DOWN
1. A person
2. A person
3. A person
4. A person
5. A person
6. A person
7. A person
8. A person
9. A person
10. A person
11. A person
12. A person
13. A person
14. A person
15. A person
16. A person
17. A person
18. A person
19. A person
20. A person
21. A person
22. A person
23. A person
24. A person
25. A person
26. A person
27. A person
28. A person
29. A person
30. A person
31. A person
32. A person
33. A person
34. A person
35. A person
36. A person
37. A person
38. A person
39. A person
40. A person
41. A person
42. A person
43. A person
44. A person
45. A person
46. A person
47. A person
48. A person
49. A person
50. A person
51. A person
52. A person
53. A person
54. A person
55. A person
56. A person
57. A person
58. A person
59. A person
60. A person
61. A person
62. A person
63. A person
64. A person
65. A person
66. A person
67. A person
68. A person
69. A person
70. A person
71. A person
72. A person
73. A person
74. A person
75. A person
76. A person
77. A person
78. A person
79. A person
80. A person
81. A person
82. A person
83. A person
84. A person
85. A person
86. A person
87. A person
88. A person
89. A person
90. A person
91. A person
92. A person
93. A person
94. A person
9