

The Farm Column, edited by G.G. Brantford, former Norfolk Ag. Rep., is a popular feature a couple of times a week of the Daily Mirror. It is a measure of the unusual talent of a philosopher by nature and his vocation through life whetted his appetite for an ever since. He had a positive statement to make a couple of weeks ago which we have been pondering on ever since. He said: "The Federal Government subsidy on butterfat is intended." SCHOOL BOARD MEETING
The Inaugural meeting for 1963 of the Jarvis Public School Board was held in the school. Don Duxbury was re-elected chairman and Mrs. R. A. Miller re-elected secretary-treasurer. Leonard Ben was the new trustee chosen by the Board to succeed Merle Elliott, who will represent Jarvis on the West Haldimand High School Board.

We have been getting along pretty good with the distaff side of our household this week and the reason for this happy state of affairs, so far as we can discover, is the fact we took her out to dinner at the Cove Room in Port Dover on Sunday night. We mention this in the interests of the happiness of all the other old married men in town. Just take your wife out to dinner, especially to a place like the Cove Room, and we'll bet you are surprised with the results. There is no question about it the Cove Room at the Erie Beach Hotel, in Port Dover, is every bit as good as Sam Morris says it is. That will come as a surprise because you can't put confidence in everything he says. The food available at the Cove Room will compare with the best eating places in the country. The main dishes are superb and the variety and quality of the side dishes leave nothing to be desired. So, our advice to all the old married men in the community this week is: Take your wife out to dinner at the Cove Room.

He expressed appreciation for the Bibles provided by the Gideon Society thru Mr. Wm. Henderson and commended the caretaker on the condition of the school.

Supplies for school plant operation were reviewed and needed repairs to plumbing were noted thru the Caretaker's report.

CARMEN THROUGH SIX DECADES

Operatic divas of the past have often been as colorful as the operas they performed in, as evidenced by these photographs of famous Carmens throughout the years. They are (left to right) Gladys Swarthout, who sang the role from 1939 to 1945; Minnie Hauk, the first American Carmen, who performed the role in 1875; Gertrude Farrar and Emma Calvé, who sang it at the "Met" in the early 1900s; and Rosa Ponselle, whose Carmen was the last broadcast role she sang at the "Met" prior to her retirement in 1947. This year's Metropolitan Opera series, heard Saturday afternoon on the CBC radio network, promises to be the most colorful in years with such familiar operas as Don Giovanni, Boris Godunov, and Otello, along with works such as Adriana Lecouvreur, and Ariadne auf Naxos, never before broadcast on this series.

SOCIETY MEETING
CHILDREN'S AID

Mrs. John Dawson presided at the January Board meeting of Haldimand C.A.S. Board. A letter of sympathy will go out to Miss Alice Murphy and a letter of congratulation to the Provincial Treasurer J. N. Allen on being made a member of the Order of St. John.

Kenneth Parkinson brought in the Executive Committee report which recommended that members of the County Council Finance Committee be invited to attend the Board meetings — a different number each month.

The general debate on nuclear armaments for Canadian military forces developed steam after Lester Pearson's speech at Toronto, in which he called on the federal government to accept nuclear warheads for defensive tactical weapons at home and overseas, to meet Canada's commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to the North American Air Defence Command.

Mr. Pearson later said that if the Liberals came to power they would seek changes in Canada's defensive alliances commitments, aimed at a more realistic role for the Canadian continental and collective defence.

Social Credit party leader Robert Thompson said he would agree to nuclear armaments for Canadian NATO troops, but not for those at home.

New Democratic Party leader T.C. Douglas flatly opposed nuclear armaments for any Canadian troops. He said the Liberals wanted to make Canada "a military satellite" of the U.S. in the 22 years they were in power prior to 1957.

PM'S GOOD HEALTH
Prime Minister Diefenbaker said reports that he is not in good health were part of a Liberal party campaign to undermine him.

He was commenting on a Montreal report that he was "believed to be suffering from Parkinson's disease."

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters that the Liberals are conducting "a perfidious campaign" to undermine him.

"The hopes and expectations of the Liberal party in propagating that type of perfidious comment are their own answer," the prime minister said.

"I never felt better, and I think that is one reason they feel so badly."
