WATER AND SEWAGE

NEARLY FOUR DECADES AGO we earned our living as a bread salesman. The vocation was known in those days as a bread "peddler". At that time the farm women were forsaking the baking oven in favor of the bake shop product and sales were good. What we recall with the most satisfaction from our experiences was the opportunity to know many people and develop friendships which have lasted to this day. It was also educational. Last Sunday we went out for a drive and covered one of our old bread routes. The changes were truly amazing.

We viewed, with regret, the appearance of one old farm home that, forty years ago, could be described as being the source of pride to the owner. The owner was a fine, honourable man but, as we recall, he never let his family grow up with the times. He, too, continued to farm until his end in the old fashioned tradition. Until his death he shunned the modern
