People have been so nice to us this past week that we find it difficult to find words to complete this column. The first thing that three was to complete this column. The first thing that three was to by the local Lions Club hast week. We should point out to our readers that it is a custom in the Lions Clubs to recognize outstanding efforts by their members. To be so selected is rather a shaking experience. Nevertheless we have a plaque called an Achievem mt Award with the following inscription: "Fresented to A Laird Miller for devoted civic leadership as First Board Chairman of the West Haldim and General Hospital. We know it wasn't a project but it does make a presentation to the charitable enough not to think we are tooting our own trumpet in this instance. We mere ly report it here with a view.

We're delirious. And now, we're complete this instance. We mere ly report it here with a view to the control of the low-bed, and the Hospital is now not only an actual fact but is an achieve mint of note." End of quote.

We're delirious. And now, We're delirious. And now, we're complete the plane of the meaning the control of the low-bed, and the Hospital is now not only the lions club of Jarvis. 1964.

Agriculture has expressed general approval of the Canadian milies recognition duced in Parliament. In the view of the Federation, however, the plan has one weakness - it does not provide for universal coverage. The optional basis of participation for farmers and others, self-employed, will mean that the basic aim of minimal social sales. ic aim of minimal social security for all will not be achieed. Those who do not avail themselves of the option to participate will often be those who will need and benefit most by such participation. The CFA says coverage should be universal from the beginning of the plan.

Labour is solidified behind its organizations. So is business, so are the doctors, the lawyers and most other groups. All these groups are loyal in their patronage, and they are loyal in their votes to the legislation that makes possible their effective organizations. So must farmers be. Only by following the example set by following the example set by the groups in power can farmers hope to attain the same kind of control over their economic destiny.
