I Next Monday will mark the 90th birthday of a great man in England's history. Certainly he has had no peer in our lifetime. Only the indominatable courage of Sir Winston Churchill stood between us and serfdom in the years 1940-45. It's hard to believe that a new generation has come to life since that short time ago and will not likely read from history the memory many of us have of this great man.

It was our great privilege, back in December, 1941, to hear Sir Winston Churchill saiddressed the Canadian House of Commons. Our interest was
