SOME FACTS ABOUT THE NEW FLAG

and elsewhere when the Prince of Wales visited Canada in 1860 Eight years later they appeared, in the Coats of Arms granted by Queen Victoria to Ontario and Quebec, and in 1921, a similar sprig of maple leaves was used as tie distinctively Canadian symbol in the new Coat of Arms for Canada granted by George V.

No significance can properly be attached to the eleven points of the leaf in the flag design. It is stylized or conventional in form as is common when things found in nature are incorporated into flags, banners or arms.

ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT SAYS

Two-thirds of Ontario's 2.7 million drivers will have their licences renewed this year.

For most it will be a simple procedure. But for some drivers who haven't kept the Department of Transport advised of changes of address there could be complications. Applications are presently being mailed at the rate of 180,000 per month and already many are being returned "address unknown."

"All drivers have a responsibility, first to notify the Department of changes of address and second to take any steps necessary to obtain their renewed drivers licences on time," said Transport Minister Irwin Haskett. The law requires drivers to advise the Department of changes of address within six days.

If the renewal form mailed to you goes astray for any reason said Mr. Haskett the driver is not released from his obligation to renew.

Mr. Haskett urged all Ontario drivers to check their present licences to determine the expiry date. Anyone who does not receive a renewal form three weeks before the expiry date printed on his present licence is asked to make direct application to the nearest licence bureau or by mail to the Ontario Department of Transport, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

The Ontario Department of Transport has issued a warning that driving privileges which have been allowed to lapse for more than a year will no longer be restored without a driving test. In the past no test has been required for renewals within one year. The time has now been shortened, however, and holders of 1963 licences must renew by January 31. If they are to avoid the necessity of taking a driving test.

Wise, Unwise and . . . Otherwise

— BY —
"THE OLD OWL"

THE COMFORTABLE PEW

Several people have asked me to write about this book, so I am doing so. It is not really a religious book, although it is a book about religion; after all, a book that scarcely mentions the Bible, and that deals with the Church without mentioning the Holy Spirit can hardly be called religious.

This book is the product (or at least the spread) of the Anglican World Congress held in Toronto in 1963. At that Congress the Anglican Church was urged to take a good look at itself in the spirit of humility and soul searching. A committee of the Anglican Church of Canada thought it would be a good idea to ask an outsider to describe the outstanding he would discuss all the churches, not the Anglican Church only. As it turned out he has directed his criticism at the Anglican Church and the United Church of Canada, the others being briefly referred to.

My impression of the book is that it is very shallow, and I think this shallowness comes from his shallow idea of God. He tells us he began to lose faith in God when, being six years old, a childish prayer was not answered. Then, later, further on in the book (page 70) he speaks as though the church founded God as "an elderly bearded Big Daddy perched on a cloud." I suspect that he really thinks that this childish idea of God that the church has.

His conception of God as the Almighty Creator, Lord of Heaven and Earth. This being the case, he sees no need for the Church as regards worship element in church services as meaningless gabbling. So, he appears to have no conception of the Church as the Body of Christ, indwelt by the Holy Spirit. It is these fundamental omissions that make the book so shallow.

Instead of seeing the Church as the only place where worship is the Divine Head, he thinks a Church should be a kind of socio-political forum where some minin purpose is to promote the principles of the wandering Bohemian, Jesus of Nazareth, and apply them to modern society. I think that the Church could do this, but as a by-product, not as the essential and only work of the Church.

His attacks the Church for its support of its own national government in time of war, and with this I agree, in principle, for it is impossible to combine the teaching of our Lord "love your enemies") with any kind of warfare, but we must face the facts. In World War II the victory of the Nazis would have meant the death of the Church and all the benefits of Christian civilization would have been wiped out. Faced with the choice of two evils—destruction or support of the war—the Church chose the lesser. But now the Church should condemn ALL warfare, nuclear or conventional, as unChristian and should promote all peaceful efforts from the United Nations down to the Peace Marchers.

He also attacks what he calls "the establishment", that is the pressure exerted by ecclesiastical officialdom on the younger men in the ministry to conform, or lose their prospects of advancement. This is a very real thing and has caused a good deal of the trouble the Church is in today. But he is thirty years behind the times in such criticism for the Establishment, though still powerful, is cracking open at the top and members of the hierarchies of all the churches are beginning to talk like the rebels of the past generation.

His attacks on Puritanism are both good and well deserved, even though I do not agree with his ideas about sex, but again he is behind the times. Sunday is no longer the old Jewish Sabbath and we have got back to the old Christian idea of Sunday as a day of recreation, a holiday. Unfortunately so many reject the essential element of the Christian Sunday, which is the worship of God. Dancing, Card Playing and Theatre Attendance are no longer regarded as sinful. I think the Church should be far more outspoken regarding the modern developments in this area, but the principle is established. Because theatre going is no longer regarded as sinful the Church has a duty to criticise, even condemn some much of the stuff that is put on in the theatres. Of course, much more could be said, but I have come to the end of my space so I must stop.

THIS WEEK

— By The Canadian Press —

Agriculture Minister William Stewart proposed March 5 in the Legislature that a new Ontario milk commission be set up to govern the fluid-milk market.

A milk producers' pool, member-controlled, would make all sales of fluid milk and undertake to purchase all grade A milk. The Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board would not be affected.

A new cheese producers' marketing board might be set up later, to counsel the federal government on cheese policies, and perhaps to join with Quebec in planning the Central Canadian market.

The milk commission would make all southern Ontario one marketing area but keep the several areas into which northern Ontario now is divided.

Hospital Strikes to be Banned

Labor Minister Lealie Rowntree introduced a bill in the Legislature March 3 which would effectively ban both strikes and lockouts at hospitals in Ontario.

The bill provides for compulsory arbitration within a variable period after conciliation fails. This period would be a minimum of 35 days more negotiation. extended by 90 days by mutual consent. and still more at the labor minister's discretion.

Timmins Inquiry

An inquiry opened last week into the circumstances under which stock in Windfall Oils and Mines zoomed to $5.60 last summer, and then fell to pennies when it turned out no new discoveries had been made.

ONEIDA WIN FIRST GAME OF PLAY-OFFS

Jarvis IOOF Bantams were downed 9-1 by Oneida in the first game of the League Play-offs on Wednesday, March 3rd. Oneida seems to have a jinx on the IOOF as well as a good offensive unit in that Jarvis has lost all but one game to this team this season. Against Oneida Jarvis never gave up, in their first period and out-hustled Oneida in the second game of the League Play-offs on Monday March 8th. Oneida scored in the second period to even the score only to have the IOOF's come back to lead 2-1. Minutes later the Jarvis Goalie misjudged a shot, and evened the score 2-2. Jarvis pressed again and hit the goal post and cross bar but failed to score. With minutes left Oneida scored 3 goals on a screen shot, and failure to clear the puck from Jarvis end, for a 5-2 Oneida win.

beginning at 8.30 with the second game slated for the Hagersville Arena on Thursday, March 25th at 8.30 P.M. This will be a best of five series with the winner getting a bye into the finals.

The Ayr Rockets are playing off with Lambeth, presently, with the winner of that series meeting Port Dover, who are now enjoying an opening bye.
