BY JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

encouraged to accelerate their business activity in the province, to promotion, in a way that produces local business revenue and at the same time boosts the Centennial, as a national celebration, along with the national economy. Local merchants can do things with their shop windows and advertising which will increase sales and at the same time add to the festive atmosphere for the Centennial. Local industries can build their corporate prestige by going along with our national beautification program: making their properties more attractive, landscaping, cleaning up and painting up and perhaps putting up a new flag pole for the celebration. Local printers and publishers can get on the bandwagon too. Mr. Bill Forbes, editor and manager of Canadian Printer and Publisher magazine, with a brief of ideas for running the retail garment trade, is running the Centennial suggestion issues of the magazine. Her head piece consisted of pearls and iridescent crystal and held a line of white gardenias. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and leaves with white phonographs. Following the reception in the Hagersville Community Centre the couple left for the East Coast. The bride chose for travelling two pieces of green suit with black and white accessories and corsage of pink roses. On their return they will reside in Hagersville.
