Do you recall that period not so many years ago when the Child Psychologists said that children shouldn't be chastised: that they should not be frustrated and if we follow.

that children shouldn't be chastised: that they should not be frustrated and if we followed this pattern in child upbringing we'd have in return a complete and wholesome Well. we've sure given it the test. Now, we'd like to know if those same child Psychologists have all hibernated in Siberia or have gone under ground holding their heads in shame If any generation of our society have ever been more stupidly advised than the so-called experts suggested thirty years ago we'd be glad to hear just what it was.

The Magistrate said. "Today we are reaping of the psychology of self expression". He said the intent of the psychology of self expression." He said Teenagers have been ommercialized and exploited "until some of them think they are something special and expect to be treated so" As many of them grew older they still expected this attention. "They want to remain on the teenage pedestal." and he said when they failed to adjust they became adults in a legal sense, but not yet a man or woman with a sense of responsibility in the social and moral obligations of life.

The Magistrate said. "Today we are reaping of the psychology of self expression". He said the intent of the psychology of self expression." He said the intent of the psychology of self expression but rather it has produced a child of self assertion wherein even the Law is the law is the second well.
