O.P.P. Phone For Residents Of Jarvis And Area

Now that the Ontario Provincial Police have assumed the police duties of Jarvis and the surrounding area, some residents are becoming confused by using the old telephone number to contact the police for emergency calls.

To contact the Cayuga O.P.P. for any emergency the telephone number to call is Cayuga 772-3322. If there is no answer the number to call is Simcoe 426-3434, this will connect you with the Simcoe O.P.P. office who in turn will contact the Cayuga Officers by radio and immediately dispatch them to the emergency.

The Jarvis and area residents are reminded by the O.P.P. at Cayuga to record these telephone numbers in the emergency section or on the number finder page located on the inside of the back cover of your telephone book, another good place is on a pad kept in a handy location near your telephone.

This will assure you of obtaining police response, at the earliest possible time, to any emergency call.

Hagersville Personals

Lion Chief Norman Simblak in the chair.

Highlight of the evening was the showing of slides of California, Mexico and Las Vegas by Lion Arthur Bright of Jarvis. Mr. Bright is a world renowned photographer, having shown pictures in 14 countries, 17 states, has exhibited on every continent and has been awarded a medal from Italy, and a certificate of merit from Hong Kong.

His presentation was well received by the members and guests from the Wainfleet Lions Club.

Mr. Bright was introduced by Lion Dave Banks, and thanked by Lion Jack Kincaid.

Unwed Mother's Happiest Christmas Alumni Scholarship Fund Set Up At Ridgetown

"This is the onliest good Christmas." In these words a 16-year-old girl expressed her thanks to the staff at one of The Salvation Army's homes for unwed mothers. Barbara was the oldest of eight children. Her mother had died some years ago and her father had abandoned his family.

She had lived in several foster homes and, in her search for the affection that had been denied her, had become pregnant. She was spending the holiday in The Salvation Army Home for Unmarried Mothers, but what might have been a dismal occasion had become one of new hope.

Coming into the dining room on Christmas morning, she had found a full stocking hanging from her chair. After breakfast, there was Christmas worship, carol singing, and finally, Santa's arrival. As the gifts were presented, she kept her eyes fixed on them on her lap.

Suddenly she stood up, and in faltering tones said, "and it is alright for me to say to all you that this is the onliest Christmas I have really ever had. It is the onliest good Christmas. I thought the good breakfast and Christmas stocking was all, but now we have so much more. I can't make a speech very well, but it is all in my heart and I just had to say thank you."

The first Sunday of the new year found Barbara kneeling after chapel service and seeking salvation.

In a most difficult time, she had found people who do care and a faith to sustain this. I mean I hope it is her.

Most of the girls in The Salvation Army's homes for unwed mothers and hospitals are, like Barbara, little more than children themselves. Christmas is an especially hard time for many, as they feel shut out from the festivities enjoyed by the rest of the world.

The holiday's emphasis on childhood may intensify their guilt and anxieties about the babies they are to bear. Because of this, the staff at each home makes special efforts to bring Christmas cheer to the girls.

Preparations for the holiday begin early and continue for days, to offset as much as possible the feelings of sadness and loneliness. Making decorations, trimming the tree, carol singing, a special dinner, a holiday program all help, but most important of all is the personal attention and sincere acceptance given to each girl.

Throughout the year, The Salvation Army, through its homes for unwed mothers, provides a haven for girls like Barbara. In addition to food, shelter and excellent medical care, they receive understanding guidance to help them prepare for the best possible future for themselves and their babies.

In providing a cheerful Christmas for those in need - not only unwed mothers, but homeless men, families, hospital patients, elderly folk - The Salvation Army kindles a light of faith and hope that brightens the new year.

Canadians Unaware T.B. Problem

Results of a survey taken in Ottawa by the Canadian Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association show that the average Canadian considers tuberculosis a disease of the past.

When asked whether they considered tuberculosis a serious world health problem today, 49 percent of those questioned answered, "Oh no, like it used to be." The remaining 51 percent believed that the problem existed to some extent but mainly in the under-developed countries.

Tuberculosis is by no means a disease of the past nor a disease restricted to developing countries as many Canadians have been led to believe. Even here in Canada, reports the Canadian Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, there were over 5,000 cases of the disease last year.

Moreover, in countries like Asia and Africa, Tuberculosis is as much of a problem as ever. In Asia where two-thirds of the world's population lives, there are 3,000 deaths per day - about two deaths per minute.

"For three-quarters of the people living in the developing countries, the TB problem is exactly the same today as it was here and in other developed countries at the turn of the century," reports Dr. Johannes Holm, executive director of the International Union Against Tuberculosis.

The Canadian Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association is concerned with what countries like Canada can do for poorer countries and what programs countries like ours should be instituting for themselves.

"But it is up to the public," says Dr. Jeanes, executive secretary of the CTRDA. Tuberculosis Associations are run on a voluntary basis with financial support coming from Christmas Seal Campaigns.

The public must be made aware that TB is still the number one killer in many parts of the world today.

Engineers Plan Meeting

TORONTO - R. C. Wilson, P. Eng., of Brantford, chairman of the Brantford Chapter of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, attended a general Chapter Chairmen's meeting here during the weekend.

The meeting, attended by representatives of the 42 chapters throughout the Province, dealt with a number of matters and problems concerning the engineering profession, and also discussed the forthcoming APEO Annual meeting scheduled to be held in Ottawa Feb. 27-28, 1970.

The Brantford Chapter has a membership of 217 professional engineers who reside or are employed in the area.

First Meeting For Hagersville Chamber Of Commerce

The first regular meeting of the Hagersville Chamber of Commerce took place on Wednesday, November 26th, 1969, at the Hagersville Council Chambers. The meeting introduced rather a new trend in the area as it took place at noon and coffee and sandwiches were provided. All future meetings are planned as lunch-time meetings.

Chairman Clayton Heaslip, opened the meeting and called for reports from the committee chairmen. These reports indicated that the new organization is rapidly becoming operative and aware as its role as the authoritative and influential spokesman for the whole community.

It was reported that plans were being made by the local merchants regarding Christmas hours of opening, also the possibility of inducing Santa Claus to place Hagersville on his itinerary for a visit. Visits had been made to Council for the purpose of the Chamber to understand more of Civic affairs and those most prominent in the area and also an approach had been made to request minor alterations at the Community Centre to make the place more acceptable for dances.

A visit had been made on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce to the Niagara Regional Development Commission and a discussion also taken place with the Industrial Commissioner for Haldimand County.
