Local Guides Hold "Thinking Day"

Girl Guides and Brownies in Jarvis joined with thousands of Girl Guides and Scouts around the world on Sat. Feb. 22 to celebrate "Thinking Day." Chosen because the date marks the birthdays of the founder of Scouting and Guiding, the Late Lord Baden-Powell, and the World Chief Guide, Olave, Lady Baden-Powell, "Thinking Day" is the occasion of special ceremonies stressing the Guide ideal of international friendship.

The aims of Baden-Powell's Scouting and Guiding programmes are to prepare boys and girls to be happy, responsible citizens. Scouting and Guiding are games to help young people seek adventure through hiking and camping; and to develop character through a programme which emphasizes intelligence, handcraft, health, service to others and leadership.

In Canada, Guiding began in 1910 in St. Catherines and rapidly spread to other parts of the country; so Canadian Guilding's Diamond Jubilee will be celebrated in 1970.

Girls the world over give "Thinking Day Pennies" to the World Thinking Day Fund, which is used to promote Guiding throughout the world. Pennies collected by the Jarvis Guide Company and Brownie Packs will help send trainers to countries where Guide programmes are being established and will send aid to Guide organizations in time of disasters such as flood and earthquakes.

The Girl Guides of Canada support the World Thinking Day Fund through their own Canadian World Friendship Fund. The Chief Commissioner for Canada, Mrs. K. B. Clysdale of St. Mary's Ontario reminds us that as members of an International Organization it is our duty to help the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts to bring Guiding within reach of every girl who wants it.

A small part of the Canadian Friendship Fund goes to each of the four world centers, our Chalet in Switzerland, our Cabana in Mexico, Sangam in India and Olave House in London England, Canadian Guides visit these centers for adventure in international friendship.

The major part of the Canadian Friendship Fund is used to assist in the expenses of international travelling for Canadian Girl Guides, making it possible for them to participate in international camps, trainings and conference events each year.

Another portion of the fund is used for "In Travel Projects" which makes it possible for Canadian Guides to invite Guides from other countries to special events in Canada.

The Jarvis Guide Company held their Thinking Day party in the Anglican Parish Hall on Feb. 19. Each patrol had an interesting display of another country, Great Britain, Japan and South Africa.

All the Guides and their mothers formed a circle around a cake with the Guide Trefoil on it. Dianne Fallis lit a candle in memory of the Founder of Scouting and Guiding and told that one of his greatest wishes was that Guides and Scouts everywhere might build a lasting and enduring peace in the world.

Patsy Walker lit a second candle for all the members of the Guide family in Canada including Brownies, Guides, Rangers, Local Association members and leaders.

Gwen Mitchell lit the third candle thinking of the World Centers of Guiding and also of all the kind and generous people who have helped Guiding through the years.

Following a game for the Guides and their mothers, refreshments were served.

This year, the Brown Guides and Rangers of Hagersville District gave price of a card for L Baden-Powell plus pos rather than pennies, to donated to the Cana Friendship Fund in her na

Trailer Subdvision Okay If Properly Controlled

WALPOLE TOWNSHIP – A proposed subdivision for trailer homes near Springvale is facing opposition from Walpole Township council.

The fully-serviced, 25-acre subdivision, announced last month, was suggested as an answer to the transient labor problem the township faces because of industrial development.

Councillors fear the trailer park may become a haven for transients and drifters. They feel controls must be tough to prevent a sloppy appearance.

"If It's Put in with proper facilities and a bylaw to hold it, then I'm in favor of it," Reeve Hugh Greenfield said.

"But we want bylaws that have teeth. I wouldn't want a trailer camp next to me if it was the kind of camp that I know."

Council gave the subdivision approval in principle but made is subject to a condition that the developer, H H Mobile Home Sales, Toronto, assumes all of the expenses connected with its application.

Minimum lot size for the trailers is 7500 sq. ft. for trailers averaging about 720 sq. ft. in size. The trailer park may eventually be turned into a subdivision of single family houses.

Except for a small section it will contain immobile trailers supplied by the developpers.

The Balance allows for mobile trailers expected to be homes of personnel connected with construction of industrial plants by the Steel Company of Canada and related industries, company officials said.

The trailers can be rented or purchased.

Councillor Gordon Miller said residents surrounding the proposed site at Lot 7, Concession 14, are not pleased about the subdivision.

Council acted on the recommendation of Walpole planning board, which approved the subdivision in principle Thursday.

Council plans to obtain more information from the developers and make it available to [illegible] by residents.

On The Farm Front

Would you believe that 48 Haldimand milk roducers have left the siness since June of 1966. he present total of dairy rms in the county is 722. his includes 316 fluid, 306 dustrial and 100 cream ippers. Even with this duction of herds, the mber of dairy herds on .O.P. or D.H.I.A. is just der 14 per cent of the tal. The Haldimand Milk mmittee has agreed to ar-head a campaign to crease the number of herds test.

Some of the things that can be done with cow testing are indicated by several local dairymen. Ross Nagel and Sons of Fisherville have in four years made a gradual increase in production from a B.C.A. of 101 - 99 in the testing year '64 – '65, to B.C.A. records o 149–153 for the testing year ending in 1968.

Over a similar four year period, Ern Topp of Canfield, on D.H.I.A. saw his herd average change from 12,305 lbs. milk with 454 lbs. fat to 14,644 lbs. milk and 538 lbs. of fat.

We extend congratulations to both of these producers and would suggest that anyone else can do it.

Haldimand Dairy Farmers Declining

Some 110 dairy farmers in Haldimand are going out of business every year.

This is disclosed by Ken Best, Ontario Agricultural representative for the county.

He said that a Dominion Bureau of Statics census taken in June, 1966, showed there were 1,200 dairy farmers in the county.

In a recent survey by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board indicated there are only 722 still in the business. This included 316 fluid producers, 306 industrial and 100 cream shippers.

Mr. Best said the dairy farmers are quitting in large numbers because of the demand of larger operations in the economic squeeze to produce more profit.

Small farms are being forced to quit because they can't make enough to survive, he said.
