

The Jarvis Record

Vol. 91 No. 43

Jarvis, Ontario, Thursday, October 23, 1969

10c a copy

Propose Enlargement Grandview Lodge

CAYUGA — Soon there may be more room for new Haldimand senior citizen residents at Grandview lodge.

County council learned Friday after four years of negotiations with the provincial government funds will be provided for an enlargement of the lodge.

Reeve David Peirson, the home's committee chairman, told council Social Services Minister John Yaremko told the committee his department was ready to go ahead with the proposal.

Last July the architectural firm of Kyles and Kyles Ltd. of Hamilton, was engaged to draft preliminary plans for the addition.

Mr. Peirson said the home committee plans to work with these drawings.

Council was told last year that government grants would not cover the new buildings unless an old two-storey section of the home was replaced first.

It is expected construction will be carried out in two phases.

He said in the first phase a new wing would be built to accommodate about 45 patients now housed in the old section.

Then the old section would be demolished and another new section of about 95 beds would be completed, increasing the home's capacity to 195 from about 100.

He told council the committee has no firm construction figures, but costs are estimated at $1,250,000 of which half would be covered by provincial grants.

Haldimand Warden Ernest Craddock said home committees over the past two years have continually hounded the province for the grants.

The committee plans future meetings with Mr. Yaremko.

The present home's old section has been labelled a fire hazard by Supreme Court grand juries because of the inability of residents to climb the staircases.

However, fire officials describe it in A-1 shape and home officials say all patients in the old wing are physically able to leave in case of fire.

The home consists of three wings — the original house which is the centre of a controversy, a second wing built 12 years ago, and a third wing which opened in 1962.

Time Goes Back

Turn Back Your Clocks one hour Sunday.

Better still turn your clock back an hour before you go to bed Saturday night as daylight saving time officially ends at 2 a.m. Sunday.

This will enable everyone to gain a full hour's sleep and still get to church on time.

Expansion Signs Showing

A delegation of African police studying police procedures in Ontario is visiting the OPP Detachment in Cayuga. The delegation includes 12 from Ghana and 12 from Tanzania. Shown are Sgt. E. V. Dunnett of Cayuga Detachment and Deputy Superintendent Joseph Quartey of Ghana Police. (Staff Photo)

Police From Africa Visit District

CAYUGA — A delegation of 24 policemen from Africa is visiting the district.

The group includes 12 from Ghana and 12 from Tanzania.

The 24 have just completed a 11-week course at the Ontario Police College at Aylmer on an exchange program with the Ontario government and the two African countries.

Deputy Superintendent Joseph Quartey of Ghana, told The Record the course consisted of Ontario police procedures and supervision and command.

"Police have almost the same procedure here as we do at home.

"This is because our countries were former British colonies and we have almost the same criminal code as Canada."

He said one notable difference is the equipment the OPP have compared with that at home.

"We don't have such things as the telex system, radar or breathalizers," he said.

The effect of the coming expansion in the area is starting to show in Jarvis. The Marshall Dairy Building, closed for some years, is being renovated to house the Rassau Steel and Manufacturing Company presently located in Hamilton.

Keith Saunders, a company spokesman, told The Record the renovations are scheduled for completion Nov. 1.

Dr. Robert McClure will be guest speaker Sunday for the 100th anniversary of the Hagersville United Church.

Dr. McClure was born in the United States in 1900. After the Boxer Rebellion in China was over, he and his parents returned to China where his father was a Presbyterian missionary.

He received his earlier education in that country and as a young boy he learned to speak the Mandarin language and is today as fluent in that language as he is in English.

He received his later education in Toronto, graduating with his M.D. in 1922.

In 1923 he returned to China where he served in a (Continued On Page Two)

Elson Reu of Jarvis is refurbishing woodwork and putting new locks on doors in the Marshall Dairy building. (Staff Photo)

Decision Reversed For Jarvis Assessment Office

Jarvis has lost out on a promise that an Ontario sub office for assessment would be located in the village.

This was disclosed today by Reeve Ernest Craddock and Warden Haldimand.

Garbage Incinerator For Haldimand

An incinerator may be used to dispose of all of Haldimand's garbage.

Robert Gordon, Caledonia deputy-reeve and chairman of the county's administration committee who announced the proposal, said this would rule out any possibility of a land fill-site.

The committee has been studying the feasibility of an incinerator to do the job of garbage disposal for the county.

The committee recently toured a Sarnia plant that cost $51,000 to construct, which disposes of six tons of refuse an hour.

"The committee is now looking for a site such as unproductive farm land on which the plant could be located," said Mr. Gordon.

Warden Ernest Craddock told county council it would probably be six months before the county could have the incinerator operating.

Mr. Gordon said no purchase has been made as yet of incinerating equipment and all aspects of garbage disposal are still being investigated.

The administration committee also plans to see another incineration unit in Port Colborne Friday.

Mr. Gordon said the county would be served for at least 10 years with just one unit in a central location.

Total cost of the project after land, a front-end loader and a building to store excess refuse are purchased would be more than $100,000, he said, or about $3 per capita.

The one unit could supposedly service a population of 50,000.

He said Eric Grove, (Continued On Page Seven)

He told The Record the space in the county office, Cayuga. He said this was learned at a recent meeting of Ontario Association of Counties and Regions.

"The government has taken a five-year lease on Ontario Assessment office for the Haldimand's Brant-Norfolk regions.

Mr. Craddock said that this must have been one of those things that came right "off the top of the minister's head."

He said there has been no reason given for the change.

"Probably some pressure has been put on the minister," he said.

The department of public works has notified county council in a letter that the regional sub-office will be in present assessment offices in the Haldimand administration building.

A department official said Haldimand's offer to lease the assessment office space for $6,000 a year for five years effective Jan. 1, 1970, has been accepted. That is the date the province assumes responsibility for assessment from local municipalities.

A county administration committee spokesman said the public works department is also purchasing the county's assessment equipment.

The Record is under renovations to make room for new equipment. From left Robert Taylor of R.R. 3 Tillsonburg and Sam Krakana of R.R. 2 Delhi, take down shelling. (Staff Photo)