HAGERSVILLE — Hagersville's new $60,000 Lions Club swimming pool was officially opened last week.

"This is an exceptionally large project for a club in a community the size of Hagersville," said William Knowles, M.P. for Haldimand-Norfolk, speaking to some 250 people when he officially cut the ribbon to declare the pool open.

Mr. Knowles expressed his congratulations to the Hagersville Lions Club for a job well done.

"Enjoyment comes to the entire community from a project and accomplishment such as this.

"Children of Hagersville are the real products of the town of whom you look after very well," he said.

Norm Sinnabaldi, president of the Hagersville Lions Club and chairman of the swimming pool committee, spoke on behalf of the local club and expressed the thanks of all club members to the many people who helped to make the new swimming pool possible.

Reeve Lyle Furry, speaking on behalf of the Hagersville council, said the project represented a great deal of hard work and planning. The Lions Club and the people of Hagersville are to be congratulated.

Rev. K. J. Matthews, of the Hagersville Presbyterian Church, read a prayer dedication to the opening and success of the community pool.

Other speakers on the program included Caldwell Kett, past president of the Hagersville Lions Club; Clarke Drennan, Deputy District Governor of the Lions Club, District A and other members of Hagersville's town council and Lions Club.

Some $50,000 has been raised by the Lions Club Swimming Pool committee and other officials who have been promoting the pool.

During the ceremonies at the pool, recognition was given to A. C. Smith, of Hagersville, for his part in a walkathon staged June 22nd by the Lions Club to help finance the cost.

Mr. Smith, 61, was the oldest walker to finish the 19-mile hike. He earned about $35 a mile. He raised a total of $666, which was the largest sum realized by any walker.

The walkathon raised $8,215 for the pool project and the balance of the $50,000 was raised through a trade fair held in Hagersville and public donations and pledges.

The project is some $10,000 short of the total cost which will be made up by money from other fund raising projects.

The pool has been named the Hagersville District Lions Club Pool and the Hagersville council received a letter from the local Lions Club this week turning over ownership of the pool to the village.

On The Farm Front

The Haldimand Plowmen's Association would like to make the acquaintance of young farm ladies, 16 to 25 years of age, interested in the "Queen of the Furrow" contest that they are sponsoring this fall. Those interested may obtain the full particulars from Wray Reichheld, R.R. 3, Cayuga, or Leslie Fess, R.R. 1, Jarvis, president and secretary of the Haldimand Plowmen's Association.

This announcement gives us the opportunity to provide a final reminder of the Dairy Princess Competition to be held at Caledonia Fair on Friday, September 26th. Those who intend to enquire about this competition are reminded to contact Mr. R. J. Anderson, R.R. 3, Caledonia.

Now that the winter feed situation is becoming fairly clear it would seem to be the right time for milk producers to think about the extras that they may need to maintain production this winter. If, for example, the hay quality is low, it may be necessary to get extra energy and more protein into the high producing animals by feeding extra grain over and above what has been necessary in other years. In case of doubt, it might be well to have the home-grown feed supply checked for protein either from one of the local feed and farm supply outlets or the new laboratory at Guelph.

Information on the Feed Analysis Service provided from Guelph for $5.00 per sample can be obtained along with the kits, instruction, etc., from the county agricultural office.

Plan 41st Plow Match

The officers and directors of the Haldimand Plowmen's Association met recently to finalize plans for their 41st Annual Plowing Match, to be held on Thursday, October 23rd. The site this year is east of Jarvis, the former Robert Yule farm, now owned by Ontario Hydro and operated by Mr. Leo Montague. A large field of red clover sod is being provided while additional sod and stubble is available if needed. The prize presentation banquet is being planned for the Jarvis Community Centre, the evening of the match.

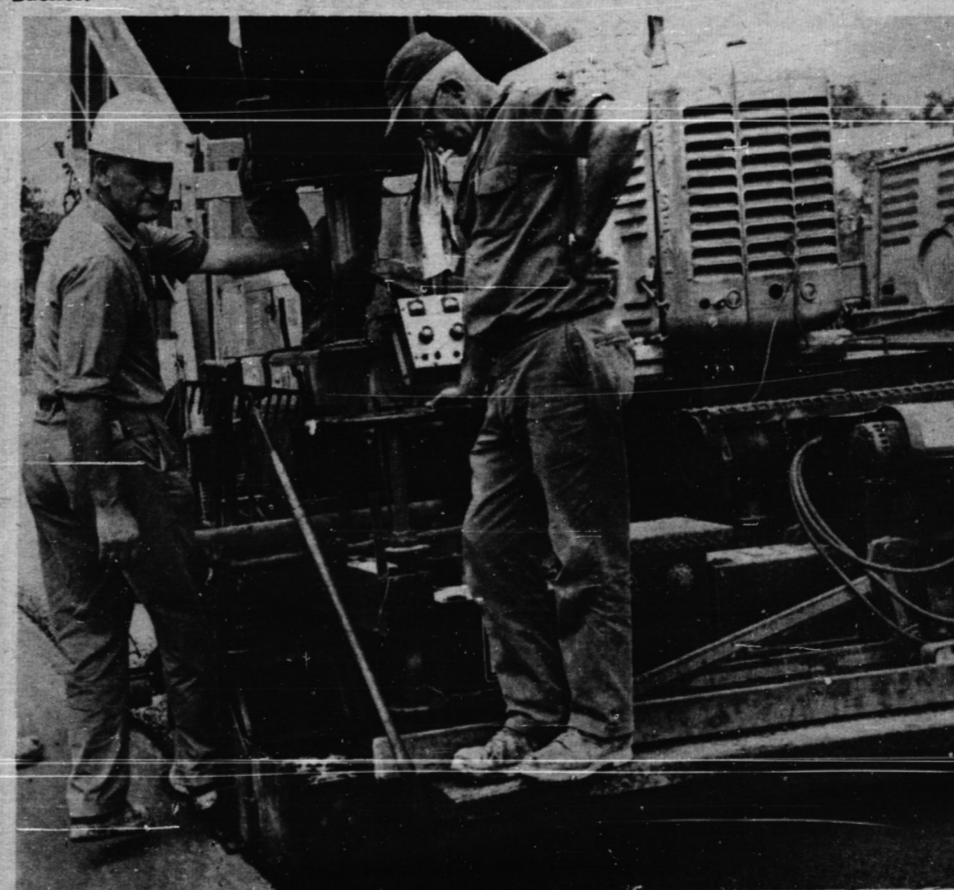

The Prize List has been revised again this year to keep in step with changes in modern plowing techniques as the larger plows become more popular. Classes are available for contestants using plows ranging from the largest models on the market to the single-furrow horse-drawn plows of the past.

A new venture for this Association this year is the introduction of a "Queen of the Furrow" contest. In order that the winner may compete at the International Plowing Match in Brant County on Thursday, October 16th, 1969, this event will be held in conjunction with the Junior Farmer Plowing Match on Saturday, September 13, on the farm of Ronald McClung, northeast of Caledonia. Young ladies wishing to enter must be sixteen years of age and not have reached their twenty-fifth birthday by November 1st, 1969, married or single, and residing on a farm.

Baby Born In Ambulance

LANGTON — Ambulance driver Charles Sinnesael and attendant Paul Forten know that some things just can't wait. The employees of the H. D. Verhoeve ambulance service answered a call from Rufus Rafuse, of R.R. 3, Langton, whose wife was about to have a baby.

Efforts to reach the Norfolk General Hospital in time for delivery failed as Mrs. Rafuse's child decided to make an appearance en route.

A mile and a half of paving, expected to be completed this week, will relieve the village of Jarvis of considerable heavy truck traffic in the future. Workers (L to R) Amos Bartlett and Roy Hoskins, both of Hagersville, check the road behind the machine which governs the flow of surface material on the Nanticoke road, near highway six.
